

Omaha Officials
Serving Public as A Mere Side Issue

If Electorate Fails Them They Have Regular Business Occupations to Fall Back On.

Is public service work profitable as a career? Some say it is and others do not agree with that statement. An Omaha lawyer who held the position of corporation counsel a few years ago, resigned and within a year after returning to his private practice, said that he was earning twice as much as he did in the public service.

Most men in the public service have "something to fall back upon," either a business or a farm or a fund of knowledge which they may turn to good account when out of a public job.

R. B. Howell, general manager of the Metropolitan Water board, receives $10,000 per year, which is the highest salary paid to any public official in the state of Nebraska. Mr. Howell is manager of the municipal water, gas and ice plants.

Beveridge Gets $7,500.

The next official in point of salary is J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of public schools, who is paid $7,500 a year. He has charge of 55 public schools and looks after 1,200 teachers and nearly 30,000 children. Of the municipal officers of Omaha, Mayor Smith, Health Commissioner J. F. Edwards and Corporation Counsel W. C. Lambert lead the salary list with $5,000 each a year. The mayor is a member of a law firm, Mr. Lambert has a farm, and thus it goes. City Commissioners W. G. Ure, J. Dean Ringer, H. B. Zimman, D. B. Butler, Thomas Falconer and R. N. Towle are paid $4,500 each per year. Each has a business into which he could step tomorrow if necessary—with the exception of Mr. Butler.

A. C. Arend, city engineer, is paid $400 a month and the city attorney, F. L. Weaver, is paid $300 per month.

Police Chief Paid $4,000.

Marshal Eberstein and C. A. Salter, chiefs of the police and fire departments, respectively, are paid $4,000 each per year. The following monthly salaries are paid to city officials and assistants: George Lindley, city abstractor, $275; Dean Noyes, general foreman of the park department, $285; R. E. Edgecomb, chief engineer of building department, $275; Martin J. Dineen and George S. Crager, assistant chiefs of fire department, $250; Herman Beal, assistant city engineer, $325; W. J. Provoznik, assistant city engineer, $275; W. J. Hunter, city clerk, $250; E. B. Honza, city comptroller, $250.

The top salaries at the court house are $4,000 per year, received by these officials: Frank Dewey, county clerk and auditor; Robert Smith, clerk of the district court; Bryce Crawford, county judge; M. J. Ennes, county treasurer; A. V. Shotwell, county attorney; Lou Adams, county surveyor; H. G. Moorhead, election commissioner; Mike Clark, sheriff. The county commissioners are paid $2,500 each per year, but they are not required to give all of their time to the work.

County Officials' Salaries.

J. J. Fitzgerald, county assessor, and R. S. Horton, public defender, are paid $3,000 per year. The following county officers are paid $2,500 per year: R. T. Coffey, assistant county attorney; Mabel Johnson, superintendent of instruction; Clyde Sandblad, deputy county judge; W. A. Foster, deputy sheriff; Harry Pearce, register of deeds.

W. W. Slabaugh, Arthur Rosenblum, Henry Beal and C. H. Kubat, assistants to county attorney are paid $2,000 per year. A. Steer, deputy clerk of the district court, receives $3,000 per year and Grace Berger, deputy county clerk, is paid $2,650. A. E. Agee, superintendent of the court house, receives $2,400 and A. H. Voshart, chief juvenile officer, receives $2,000.
