

Sues Producers For Use of Name In New Comedy

New York Artist Asks $200,000 for Alleged Slander Which Almost Wrecked Family Life.

New York artist, E. G. Fogarty is married. He is married hard, fast and respectably, as he can prove by the door plate on his Washington Square south door, all of which he is willing to tell Broadway and anyone else who cares to listen.

All this is the principal suit in the $200,000 suit for damages which he filed today against David Belasco, Charles Frohman, Inc., and Fania Marinoff, all three of whom, he alleges, are using his name in such "scandalous, slanderous and defamatory way" as to all but wreck his family life.

For such as are not properly familiar with Willie's identity, he is described in "who's who" as artist, theatrical producer, illustrator of more than 60 books, scenic painter, dramatist and socialist. In his suit he adds to the description by asserting that he is a native of Hungary, 38, and "recognized by the artistic, literary and theatrical professions as an artist of high ability."

Now all this is darn bad, declares Willie. The ideal of him being held up to the ridicule of theater-goers as an incompetent artist, taking money from a woman! But what's still worse is this further outburst from the heroine: "Fogarty Willie is not true to me. Money I give all the time and he blows it on American girl."

It is this last which causes the artist to protest that his name is being used in a slanderous, scandalous, defamatory way. He says the lines complained of show him to be a "fraud, cheat, deceiver, wicked person and immoral."

And by the little bobbed-headed breeches that blow over the Washington monument declare here—something that—there's balm to his wounded spirit only in $200,000; half for all that he has suffered from the nightly speaking of these lines since the play was opened and the his name for advertising purposes, and maybe for wasted breath in trying to explain things at home, though this last isn't mentioned.
