

Three Shot in Gun Battle at Bayard

City Marshal in Dying Condition Following Fight With Auto Bandits.

Alliance, Neb., Oct. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—Three men were shot, two of them probably fatally, in a gun battle between two officers and two automobile bandits at Bayard, about 7:30 o'clock Saturday night. The wounded men are: Deputy City Marshal Jan Lindgren, reported to have been shot through the heart; City Marshal Charles Webb, arm broken by bullet and another bullet in his side, and Nick Moriskus, a Greek, shot through the body and leg.

Moriskus and his partner, also a Greek, are alleged to have stolen an automobile at Scottsbluff Friday night and to have driven to Bayard, where they cached the car in an alley back of a garage. The men remained in hiding during the day and the Bayard officers concealed themselves in the rear of the garage and waited for them to come after the car.

Shortly before the shooting the bandits appeared, but into the car in company with a young red-haired woman and started the engine. The officers commanded them to halt and when they refused to obey, opened fire. The bandits returned the fire, wounding both officers. One of the bandits appeared, got into the car and escaped in an alley. The other man and the woman drove away in the car. The first bandit was apprehended about midnight two blocks from the scene of the shooting and put up a fight, in which he was shot and badly wounded.

A man believed to be his companion was arrested early this morning in a rooming house in Bayard. The woman has not been found. The bandits' car was found in the outskirts of the town. City Marshal Webb and one of the bandits are reported to be dying.

Cancel Trips For Amateur Winners

Secretary Isaacson Unable to Schedule Games for Class C And Gate City Champs.

Following a conference with the managers of both the Pearl Memorials, Church league pennant winners and city Class B champions, and the McKenney Dentists, pennant winners of the Gate City league and city Class C champions, Secretary J. J. Isaacson of the Municipal Amateur Base Ball association, announced last night that the trips of these two teams have been called off.

Isaacson has been negotiating with both St. Paul and Kansas City in order to send the Omaha champs there to play the champs of their respective class, but efforts were in vain to arrange games.

The local association intended to pay the railroad fare of the Omaha champs to Kansas City and St. Paul to pay hotel expenses, but even on these terms neither St. Paul nor Kansas City would arrange a game with the Omaha champs.

Secretary Isaacson announced that a meeting of the board would be held some time this week, at which time it will be decided on a prize for the local champs.

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE TALE OF PADDY MUSKRAT

BY ARTHUR SCOTT BAILEY

CHAPTER XIII

Brass Buttons.

If it had not been for Mr. Crow, no one in the mill-pond would have thought of having a policeman. You see, Mr. Crow had traveled. He had looked upon many big towns as he flew over their outskirts on his journeys between Pleasant Valley and his winter home in the south. And he had noticed that most cities had at least one policeman—and some of them had as many as two.

"You ought to have a policeman in this pond," he told Mr. Turtle one day. "It would save everybody a good deal of worrying, for the policeman would always be on the watch for trouble. And when there was any danger he would warn everyone."

"I've lived here almost a 100 years," he said, "and I've had to be on the lookout for danger all that time. If we had a good policeman maybe I could spend the next 100 years in peace."

"That's the ideal!" said Mr. Crow. "But where are we to find a policeman?" Mr. Turtle asked. "I don't know of any in Pleasant Valley, in fact, I never saw one in all my life."

"Oh! You'll have to find someone right in your pond," Mr. Crow told him. "All you need to do is to put a blue uniform on him and give him a club. That's the way to make a policeman. . . . But he must be fat," Mr. Crow added. "All policemen are fat. So what you need to do is to choose the fattest person in the pond."

"Then," said Mr. Turtle, "Paddy Muskrat will have to be our policeman, for he's the fattest person in the neighborhood."

After Mr. Crow had flown away, Mr. Turtle talked the matter over with his friends in the mill-pond. And all agreed that Paddy Muskrat was just the one to wear a uniform and carry a club and warn everybody when there was any danger.

Paddy was much pleased when he heard of the plan. And he felt very happy, because Mr. Frog, who had a tailor shop, promised to make him a new suit with brass buttons free.

But Mrs. Paddy did not like the idea—at first.

"Won't it take you away from home a good deal?" she inquired. "I don't like to stay alone in the house, because I'm timid."

"You'll be quite safe," Paddy assured her, "for I'll be on watch for danger every minute."

"Won't you need a new suit?" she asked somewhat anxiously. "Your old one is patched, you know."

"I'm to get a new uniform with brass buttons free," Paddy told her. "Mr. Frog is going to make it for me."

Mrs. Paddy Muskrat said at once that on account of the new suit she was willing to let Paddy be a policeman.

"What color will the suit be?" she asked.

"It will be blue," Paddy told her. "When she learned that, his wife seemed disappointed."

"I was hoping it would be pink," she said wistfully, "because pink is my favorite color."

Then Paddy Muskrat said goodbye to her and went straight to Mr. Frog's shop to be measured for his new clothes.

In three days the new suit was finished. Paddy tried it on; and he was much pleased with it.

"I'll wear it," he said to Mr. Frog. "And you can carry my old suit home for me."

"You can't leave my shop until you pay me!" Mr. Frog cried.

"Pay you?" Paddy exclaimed in great surprise. "You said you would make me a blue suit with brass buttons free!"

"And so I have!" retorted Mr. Frog. "Here's your bill. And you'll notice that I have not charged you a penny for the buttons."

You see, Paddy Muskrat had misunderstood. The brass buttons were all that was free. He had to pay Mr. Frog for the suit. And though he hated to do that, there was something else that he dreaded far more—and that was telling his wife about his mistake.

TROUBLES FROM MY AGE

Rochester, Ind.—"My troubles were from my age and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully. Vote for RE-ELECTION of

CHIEF JUSTICE

Andrew M. Morrissey

"The political parties have made no nominations for Chief Justice. The Chief Justice is not elected as a party candidate, but his name will be found with other Judicial Candidates, and school officers on a separate ballot."

"We favor the re-election of Chief Justice Morrissey because we believe in a law designed to take away many technicalities from the courts out of politics and to elect Judges because of their qualifications."

Six years ago when he became Chief Justice, the court was about three years behind. Today the court is as nearly up with its work as it is practicable for a supreme court to be. Credit to this is not wholly due to the Chief Justice, but other members of the court who have contributed to this result give full credit to Chief Justice Morrissey for his share in its accomplishment."

"He has executive ability that gets results. He enjoys the friendship and co-operation of his associates. He has the respect and confidence of the lawyers who have business in the Supreme Court. He has helped to clear away many technicalities of the law. Law-breakers have been brought to justice and honest men enjoy the protection of the courts."

"If you are in doubt about how to vote on Chief Justice, ask your District Judge."

Why Wish For Health WHEN YOU CAN HAVE IT

Suppose Bobbie Had "There's Many a Slip" Been Your Baby

9-47-22-16

Biff! Bingo! Smash!!!

"I want to walk! I want to walk!" Over and over again came the pathetic appeal from the three-year-old cherub who sat helpless at the window watching the happy children on their way to school. The mother turned to hide the quick tears. Poor baby! He did not know the doctor's verdict: "Both legs and one arm are paralyzed. He will never walk!"

Then a neighbor, who loved Bobbie as his own, said: "Take him to Dr. Edwards, the chiropractor. I owe my life to him. If there is any chance for Bobbie, it is with Dr. Edwards."

Then followed anxious, interesting days while the parents watched for the improvement Dr. Edwards told them would come. Then the thrilling moment when Bobbie took his first step! What joy to teach him to walk, and then to see the once helpless hand reach out to grasp the penny which is the bonus paid all good boys and girls at Dr. Edwards' office.

Several years have passed, and Bobbie is now one of the happy children who run laughing and skipping to school. And when Bobbie rides past 24th and Farnam streets he points to the windows on the second floor of the Ottawa Block and says: "There's Dr. Edwards' office. He's the doctor who made me walk!"

Are you sick and still sure your spine is all right? Let our X-Ray convince you. Dr. Edwards can show where your spinal switches are turned off. Our spinograph (X-Ray of the spine) absolutely proves the chiropractic theory.
