

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

A LAMENT

On learning that imported cheeses are to be deodorized.

I've learned to be a connoisseur;
I order dinners now with ease;
I'm always careful to prefer
The more dynamic forms of cheese.
I sniff the humid camembert,
When with discerning friends I sup,
And if it does not taint the air
I pass it up.

This knowledge came with riper years;
There was a time, I freely own,
That I was filled with direful fears
When cheeses made their presence known.
At gorgonzola I recoiled;
At Pont l'Evêque I took affright;
Fromage de Brie and Roquefort spoiled
My appetite.

But now I've learned to pick and choose:
I feast on cheese without restraint,
And at my dinner I enthuse
At scents that turn most people faint.
I cannot say I like the stuff,
But having a discerning nose,
I have discovered, is a bluff
That always goes.

But science now has wrought a spell
Limburgers, Pont l'Evêques and Bries
Hereafter, so we're told, will smell
Like ordinary grocery cheese.
And so, alas, my hard won rep
Of being erudite and clever
Enough to judge them by their pep
Is gone forever.

Tricks THAT YOU CAN DO

THIS little flourish, which you can do with a golf or ping pong ball, or even with an egg, looks very, very difficult. You will find, however, that nothing in the juggler's bag of tricks is much easier. Hold the ball between the two forefingers as in the illustration. Each finger presses on the ball and each is carried, first slowly, then rapidly, around the other. The ball will travel around and around. The faster the fingers are moved, the faster will be the progress of the ball. Although the trick is easy to learn, here's a word of warning! If you try it with an egg, take up the parlor carpet before you start and make sure that the egg is fresh. (Copyright, 1919, Thompson Feature Service.)

Dog Hill Paragraphs

By George Bingham

THE deputy constable is almost sure he will go to the show next Monday night. It is a melodrama in which one person gets hit three times with the same pie.

The Tickville Tidings records a six-legged calf, which recently arrived in a nearby community. Silc Kildew says he sure would hate to buy shoes for that calf.

Poke Eazley says he don't remember of ever going on a camping trip that one of the party did not appear with a long face at the last minute and announce that it was impossible for him to go, as his wife was sick.

Death Sentence Against Texas Man Is Affirmed

Austin, Tex., Oct. 27.—The court of criminal appeals affirmed the death penalty against Jose Perea of El Paso, for the murder of Maria Rambach. The statement of facts set out that Perea killed the woman and Emanuel Sanchez, while on a hunting trip, and appropriated their property when he returned to El Paso.

Trials Encountered By "Ancient Mariner" Only Mere Trifles

New York, Oct. 27.—Hardships at sea that made the trip of the "Ancient Mariner" seem comparatively comfortable, were told by the skipper of the Italian steamer President Wilson, which arrived from Trieste and Naples.

Soon after leaving Trieste a wireless warning that a field of floating mines had broken loose caused a wide detour; then fire broke out in the forward room as Naples was reached. In the harbor, labor agitators harangued the crew to go on strike, and at sea the next day two dozen stowaways were discovered, so the ship put back to Naples to de-bark them.

After leaving land again, the ship came upon seven Moors exhausted in a small boat. They said a severe storm washed away their sails and cargo. A severe storm amounting almost to a typhoon, which lashed huge waves over the entire liner, was encountered off Gibraltar. For six days she pushed against the head-winds.

Republican Chieftains

In Panic, Daniels Declares

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy, in an address, declared that the swing to Cox in the east, the middle west and west, had thrown the republican leaders into a panic from which they could not recover. "Everywhere I have found many republicans, who are for Cox, who before Senator Harding's Des Moines speech had planned to vote for him. That speech swung hundreds of thousands of votes to Governor Cox. In some places it is not merely a turn of the tide, but a revolution."

Mexico Urged to Punish Murderers of Americans

Washington, Oct. 27.—The State department today announced that it had taken steps to urge on the Mexican government, prompt and effective measures for the apprehension and punishment of the murderers of two American citizens, Arthur L. Mosely and Gustave Salazar, slain near Tampico last Monday. Salazar, it was said, might have been Ignacio Moreno Falazar of Tucson, Ariz., to whom a passport was issued October 8, for himself, wife and two children to visit relatives in Mexico.
