

Nebraska Orders 340,000 '21 Auto Car License Tags

Won't Be Ready for Distribution Until January—50,000 More for Passenger Cars Than in 1920.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 27.—More than half of the 340,000 automobile license tags ordered by the state bureau of roads and bridges have been delivered, and are being enclosed in envelopes ready to be sent out to county treasurers to be put on sale January 1. To date 185,000 of the tags have been delivered, and others are enroute in carload lots.

While the new tags will be ready within a few weeks, automobile owners will not be able to get next year's tags until January 1, it is announced.

Of the automobile tags ordered for next year's use, 300,000 will be for passenger cars, 20,000 for trucks, 2,000 for dealers and 4,000 for motorcycles. The state has assumed there will be 5,000 careless automobile owners during 1921 and has ordered 5,000 tags to give owners who lose their license plates. The state ordered 50,000 more passenger tags for 1921 than were used this year.

Persons making application for 1921 licenses will be compelled to give the proper classification of the car for which they want tags. It has developed that during the last year many light trucks have been operating on passenger car licenses. Some have been apprehended and forced to purchase new tags, it is said.

The state has a three-way check on the owners of all motor vehicles in Nebraska. Every car is individually indexed under three classifications—number of license tag, name of owner and engine number, classified under the year it makes. This three-way check makes it practically impossible for automobile thieves to prove ownership of stolen cars.

The state during 1921 will issue quarterly to all county treasurers, chiefs of police and others a list of automobile owners, indexed numerically according to license tag number. The state did not issue such a list this year.

Candidates Report Campaign Expenses

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(Special Telegram.)—Congressman W. E. Andrews of the Fifth Nebraska district today reported that he had received $1,000 in contributions from the republican congressional committee and had spent $930. Judge Harry S. Dungan, his democratic opponent, states that he received $100 in contributions from R. B. Washburn and that his expenditures amounted to $189.09.

The report of Congressman M. O. McLaughlin had not been received by the clerk of the house up to closing time today. If the report was mailed on or before midnight of October 22, it comes within the statute relating to expenditures which requires that there must be a re-election filing 10 days before election and a corresponding filing 10 days after election.

The non-partisan candidate for congress in the Third district is also shy on her filing.

Temperature Hits New Low Level of Fall in Omaha

One year ago yesterday the first snowfall of the year cast its mantle over Omaha. Its stay was very brief, the flakes starting to fall at 12:10 p. m. and quitting at 1:45 p. m. Old "Merc" hit bottom harder than ever yesterday shooting down to 34 at 7 a. m. North Platte's 24 was the lowest in the state, while Sheridan, Wyo., registered 16, the lowest in the United States.

Notwithstanding the low mark for yesterday the meteorologist predicted a rising temperature for Thursday.

The shippers' bulletin for yesterday: "Protect against freezing, west."

Auto Turns Turtle; Norfolk Man May Die

T. J. Briggs, Norfolk, Neb., lies seriously and perhaps fatally injured in the Edmundson hospital, Council Bluffs, as a result of his automobile turning turtle on the Lincoln highway Tuesday night between Loveland and Honey Creek. The car had skidded to one side of the muddy road and toppled over in the ditch. Briggs was found unconscious under his car by Sheriff Will Jones of Honey Creek.

Federal Grand Jury to Have Very Heavy Docket

Thomas S. Allen of Lincoln, United States district attorney for Nebraska, was in Omaha Tuesday looking over the ground for the coming federal grand jury session, to convene here November 3.

An unusually heavy docket is on the program, due partly to the fact that the jury is convening one month later than usual, according to Assistant United States Attorney Magney.

"Wanta take a ride with me, judge?"

"Not if you're going to act the fool up and down Douglas and Farnam streets in that plane."

"Well, I'll drive carefully."

"Then I'll go with you some time this week, thanks."

Such were the words between Judge C. E. Foster and William F. Brooks, Blair, Neb., aviator, in police court yesterday after his honor had discharged Brooks from charges of disturbing the peace, littering the streets with paper, distributing advertising matter without a license, and making unusual and unnecessary noises.

No Profit On 50-Cent Corn, Farmers Declare

America's corn crop may be heavy this year, but there can be no profit in it selling for 50 cents, according to Nebraska farmers in weekend meetings to discuss the present situation and political campaign.

At these meetings the farmers discuss but one thing, 50-cent corn and what is going to happen to the cash renter or the farmer who has no cash and who has paid but a small amount down on his farm. The recent price slump is viewed with apprehension by them and prosperous agriculturists threaten to hold their grain after the fashion of the "farmer strikes" which are springing up all over the country.

Tenants Given Verdict in Suit on Increases in Rent

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Collins are lawfully holding possession of their apartment in the Drake court, despite their refusal to pay rent increase four months ago, according to the verdict of a jury in municipal court yesterday. The case was one of a series of ouster proceedings brought by the Drake Holding company against tenants of Drake apartments who have refused to pay increased rents.

Alson B. Cole Is Taken Back to Howard County

Sheriff Returns Prisoner for New Trial Granted by Judge Woodrough—Fearful of Lynching.

Alson B. Cole, under death sentence for the murder of Mrs. Lulu Vogt in 1917, was taken from the penitentiary in Lincoln Tuesday and started on his journey for Howard county with Sheriff Atwood, where he will undergo a new trial granted by decision of Federal Judge Woodrough October 12.

Cole was doomed for the electric chair November 5 with Allen V. Grammer, whom he implicated in his confession. Both have been re-arrested a dozen times.

Cole and the sheriff spent the night at Grand Island. J. M. Priest, attorney for Cole, who has won national reputation through his frenzied fight to save his client's life, displayed deep concern for the safety of his client when he learned the convict was on his way to the scene of the murder, where public sentiment runs high against both Cole and Grammer.

Priest intended to follow Cole and the sheriff on a midnight train for Grand Island.
