

Women of State Urge Support of Samuel McKelvie

Representative Feminists Call Upon Sisters to Cast Votes for Him On Account of His Record.

Women of Nebraska are rallying to the support of Governor McKelvie, candidate for re-election next Tuesday.

A letter, calling upon the women voters of the state to support the governor because of his friendliness to what they desire to accomplish in matters of legislation and law enforcement, is being sent out over the signatures of 294 representative Nebraska women.

These women represent the cities of Blair, Stromsburg, Fremont, Nelson, Kearney, York, Shelton, Omaha, Pawnee City, Holdrege, Aurora, Falls City, Fairbury, Aurora, St. Paul, Nebraska City, Fullerton, Columbus, Genoa, Chadron, Nehawka, Kenesaw, Culbertson, Coleridge, Bassett, Central City, Plattsmouth, Walthill, Hartington, O'Neill, Geneva, Hebron, Hastings, Ainsworth, Stanton, Lincoln, Beatrice, Norfolk, David City, Curtis and Seward.

The Letter. The letter follows: "To the Women of Nebraska: "Now that the women have the vote, let us remember the importance of supporting those candidates who are known for their friendliness to what we want to accomplish in matters of legislation and law enforcement."

Governor McKelvie, who is a candidate for re-election, has always been a strong supporter of suffrage. He voted for it in the legislature of which he was member in 1911. His newspaper, the Nebraska Farmer, has always supported it. He worked for it in the campaign in the state two years ago. He encouraged the legislature in 1919 to send a resolution to Senator Hitchcock urging him to support it. He, finally, called a special session of the legislature to ratify the federal suffrage amendment.

Just as Favorable. The question of prohibition is of equal interest and importance to the women of the state. Upon this issue, Governor McKelvie's record is just as favorable as it is on suffrage. "He was elected to the legislature in 1911 on a county option platform and supported that measure throughout the entire session. He worked for it as one of the speakers in the state campaign in which it was adopted in Nebraska. He made it one of the features of the campaign in which he was elected governor. The first measure passed in the 1919 session of the legislature under Governor McKelvie, was the resolution ratifying national prohibition."

As a law enforcement official, Governor McKelvie's record is particularly commendable. During his administration, fines totaling more than a quarter of a million dollars have been collected and turned into the school fund.

Realizing that a woman would take a sympathetic interest in the state's dependents, he appointed a woman to membership on the board of control. This in the same time a woman has held such a position.

This letter sets forth things that Governor McKelvie has actually done. They recommend him as the candidate who is entitled to our support. It is not necessary for us to depend, in this election, upon promises made by any candidate; Governor McKelvie has already proved himself a friend of our cause, and the man upon whom we can rely for the character of legislation and law enforcement in which women are most interested."

Traveling Salesmen Entitled to Compensation

Lincoln, Oct. 28.—(Special).—Traveling salesmen, while engaged in the work assigned them, are entitled, under the compensating law of the state, to relief when injured, the same as any workman, according to a ruling by Secretary Frank Kennedy of the Department of Labor.

The ruling comes from a letter of inquiry sent by a traveling salesman, who wants to know if the wife of another salesman, killed in an automobile accident, can recover from the firm for whom he was working. Mr. Kennedy holds that if the accident occurred while the man was going from one town to another while engaged in selling goods that he can recover, under the law.

Wife of Insane Omaha Man To Collect Compensation

Lincoln, Oct. 28.—(Special).—The wife of John Copeland of Omaha will recover from the Gordon Fireproof Warehouse company, for which he was working, $10,000 a week for a period of 300 weeks and $7,200 a week as long as he is alive, with penalty payment for delay amounting to about $180.

Copeland was injured when a door fell, striking him on the head, October 4, 1917. He was operated on the following March, and from that time until November, 1919, was deranged. In February, 1920, he was operated on again, but no relief came, and later he was placed in the state insane asylum, where he still is an inmate. The company assisted the wife by furnishing an attorney to her in the settlement of the case.

G. O. P. Speaker and Democrat Debate

Charles A. Sunderlin of Omaha and C. J. Campbell Discuss League of Nations.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram).—Under the auspices of the republican and democratic central committees, Charles A. Sunderlin, Omaha attorney, and C. J. Campbell met here last night in a joint debate on the league of nations. Campbell in his opening address contended the nations of the world were in favor of a league of peace and for the arbitration of national differences. Sunderlin in answer to Campbell admitted that the peoples of the world were in favor of a league or association of nations to promote peace, and submitted that the republican party and the republican nominee were just as enthusiastically in favor of an organization, association or league to promote peace as the democratic party.

He contended that during the war republican leaders, such as Hughes and Taft, as the head of great peace organizations had done more to promote the peace of the world than the democratic leaders. Sunderlin then said that organization for the peace of the world which the American people favored was not the Wilson league of nations. The American people are in favor of an association to promote peace said Sunderlin, but they are opposed to the commercial and political alliance as proposed in the Wilson covenant.

"Under the Wilson covenant," said Sunderlin, "America shall be required to maintain with her blood and treasure the old world empires and all their imperial possessions and America will become but a pawn on the chess board of European diplomacy."

"The opportunity for the growth of free institutions and governments shall have been smothered by Article X of the covenant, and the struggling masses of the world seeking political equality and independence through the application of the principle of self determination shall

Parties' Leaders Apply Finishing Touches to Work

"Whirlwind Finish" For Campaign—Ure Instructs Voters How to Vote Straight G. O. P. Ticket.

The republican and democratic county central committees are putting the finishing touches on the local campaign, which is "whirlwind finish," although the political zepphirs are not doing any particular damage.

Most of the electors of Douglas county have "made up their minds," as to how they will exercise their elective franchise next Tuesday. Those who study the political situation and who discuss the candidates and issues are busy obtaining expressions of sentiment and then crystallizing these expressions into their own composite opinions.

Box Their Compass. The republican leaders have "boxed their compass," as they express it nautically, and are steering straight for their goal, confident that they have presented the case on the basis of merit and equally confident of the outcome.

The democrats hereabouts are making the most of what they concede to be a forlorn hope. The slogan being promoted from democratic headquarters is, "It looks better than it did."

Willis E. Reed, prominent state democrat, was asked yesterday what he had on his mind politically. "Three months ago," he said, "I didn't think we had a ghost of a show and six weeks ago it began to look brighter, while today it looks as if Cox had a chance."

Variations of the same expression were heard from other democrats, but none was able to offer an analysis of his claims.

An unbiased survey of the political situation in Douglas county, indicates that Harding and Coolidge will carry the county by 8,000 to 10,000, and 50,000 is now placed as a conservative majority for the state.

Mail Sample Ballots. The republican county central committee has mailed to the voters of the county pamphlets containing brief sketches of the republican candidates and a sample ballot was also mailed to each voter. The form of these sample ballots is the same as the official ballots which the voters will mark next Tuesday.

County Chairman W. G. Ure wishes to impress upon the minds of voters the importance of exercising care when voting a straight party ticket. At the top of the first column of the ballot there are four party circles for straight votes. Beneath those party circles are circles for the presidential candidates.

Don't Make Mistake. "If you intend to vote a straight republican ticket, be sure that you place the cross within the proper party circle and do not make the mistake of placing a cross in the Harding-Coolidge circle and then think you have voted a straight party ticket," said Mr. Ure, county chairman.

H. G. Moorhead, election commissioner, is working several suits of the kind in this district. The poll books ready for the election boards.

Women of Nebraska were urged to exercise their newly acquired ballot by Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul, Minn., in a half-hour talk at the Unitarian church Wednesday night. Nelson H. Loomis spoke against the league of nations.

Mrs. Severance completed a three-day tour of Nebraska here last night. She leads in social welfare work in St. Paul and Minnesota, and was decorated for her war work by the king of Belgium.

She was introduced by Mrs. Draper Smith. W. G. Ure, chairman of the republican central county committee, occupied a seat on the platform.

Women should guard against emotionalism in politics, declared Mrs. Severance, declaring that Wilson was elected four years ago by the women because they were swept off their feet with the emotional slogan, "He kept us out of war."

Mrs. Severance referred to the "unprecedented example of graft, greed and waste in the preparation for the war." She was frequently interrupted during her talk by vigorous applause. The church was crowded to capacity.

Sloan Explains Low Prices for Farm Products

Democratic Candidate for President Favored Law That Permitted Imports Free of Duty.

Lincoln, Oct. 28.—(Special).—The cause for the falling of prices in grain is handled in addresses delivered by ex-Congressman Charles H. Sloan in different parts of the state, and in an address delivered at Geneva, he said:

"I find the farmers of the Republican valley, like the farmers generally throughout the state, deeply interested in the tumbling course of prices of not only their grain, but their herds. Many causes are suggested, but one has been uniformly given in all the market papers. Some of these are of a political nature, but one is found in the market columns of every daily, as well as the agricultural and stock papers. They point to the actual and potential flow of grains from Canada; the cargoes of corn and mutton pointed this way from Argentina, and boat loads of butter from Denmark. The farmers of Nebraska understand cause and effect, and they see the effect of this foreign competition resulting from importation here of all grains, meats and cereals without the payment of any duty."

"It will interest the farmers of Nebraska to know that in 1911 the question of free grains from Canada and free meats and cereals from the world were before the American congress, and that Presidential Can-

Who Is Your Choice? Nebraska is an agricultural state. More than half our people are either directly or indirectly engaged in agriculture. Surely the Governor of Nebraska should be in whole-hearted sympathy with this industry? Who then should be our choice next Tuesday? Shall we vote for Mr. Moorhead, a banker, who promises to establish a Department of Banking? Shall we vote for Mr. Wray, a lawyer, who promises to establish a Department of Labor? Or shall we vote for Governor McKelvie who HAS established a Department of Agriculture, as well as a Department of Labor and a Bureau of Banking? In the two years that Samuel R. McKelvie has been Governor, he has fulfilled every pledge that he gave to the people before his election. He has proved himself worthy of the confidence that the people of Nebraska reposed in him when they elected him Governor. In answer to every "promise" that other candidates are now making, Governor McKelvie can point to what he has already done. Samuel R. McKelvie deserves your vote. C. A. McCLOUD, Chairman, Republican State Committee.
