

Contractor on Stand in N. Y. Building Probe

Man Tells of Paying $1,000 to Trades Council for Privilege of Working Agreement.

By The Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 29.—After another day of sensational testimony, the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust," took an adjournment until November 4. Developments at yesterday's hearings were:

Testimony by William Waixel, house wrecking contractor, that he paid $1,000 to William P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades Council, for the privilege of a working agreement with the council. He said he also paid another $1,000 to Brindell for a house-wrecking job. Because he had refused to "produce $25,000 for Brindell," Jacob Fraden, a general contractor, testified he had been "bankrupted" and put out of business by the labor leader, to whom he declared he had paid $1,000 for a job.

Charles H. Wallas, house wrecking contractor, testified that his $400,000 annual business had "dwindled down to $100 jobs" since he had refused to hire Brindell's men.

Testimony by Arthur Greenfield, president of the Metallic, Furring and Lathing association, said that the members of the association at a meeting last Monday, destroyed papers which might incriminate him in this investigation, including the minutes of the meeting of April 10, at which price fixing is alleged to have been arranged.

Another witness from the building trades council placed on the witness stand was Roswell D. Tompkins, secretary-treasurer, who was questioned as to the disposal of money collected by the organization. He was unable to explain what became of $115,000 paid annually into the compensation bureau's fund.

Hundreds in Rush to Stake Gold Claims

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Rake handles, bare ball bats and other metal pieces of wood were employed as stakes for mining claims in an old-fashioned rush in the gold mining section of northern Ontario.

The rush, according to messages received here, resulted from the government announcement that 11 mining claims along the Swains-Kirkland lake highway, upon which taxes had not been paid, would be thrown open at noon for staking. After a wild scramble to claim the best locations, word was received that the government had issued an order at 11:30 o'clock staying the staking and allowing owners to retain their claims.

Unpaid taxes, at the rate of 5 cents an acre yearly, amounted to $30. They had not been paid, it was said, owing to neglect and failure to receive government notices.

Man Suffering From Leprosy Is Deported

Boston, Oct. 29.—A man afflicted with leprosy was taken to New York last night in an ambulance furnished by the Red Cross, where he will be deported on a ship sailing tomorrow night for his native home in the Azores islands. The immigration officials encountered much difficulty in securing transportation for the leper and finally appealed to the Red Cross.

The victim agreed to return to his home land instead of going to Penikese island, the leper colony in Buzzard's bay.

"Ladies First, Please," Begs Mr. Moorhead Of Fair Voters Here

It's to be "ladies first" at the polls next Tuesday.

Not so much for reasons of politeness as for the reasons of efficiency, is this to be the rule.

Election Commissioner Moorhead yesterday appealed to the feminine voters to do their voting early.

"He urged them to leave the breakfast dishes in the sink, to never mind about dusting the parlor or sweeping the north bedroom, to put off going to the grocery store or to the big bargain sale downtown.

By no means should they go to the meeting of the bridge club or the missionary society in the afternoon until they have voted.

"Unless the women vote during the day while the men are at work there will be a hopeless congestion at the polls after 5 o'clock," said Mr. Moorhead. "All the woman vote should be polled before 5 o'clock except the vote of working women."

Violence Occurs In Labor Trouble

Strike Disturbances In Various Parts of Argentina, With Casualties Reported.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 29.—Acts of violence in connection with labor troubles were reported in dispatches from various parts of the country today. A special train on the Central Argentine line, carrying Monsignor Vassallo di Torregrossa, the papal nuncio, to Argentina, on his way to attend a religious ceremony at Jujuy, was run into by a wild locomotive near Tucuman. Ten persons were injured. The nuncio was unhurt. The authorities charge that strike sympathizers on that section of the road set the wild engine in motion.

In a clash between strikers and working employees of the sugar factory at Les Palmas, in the territory of Chaco, four persons were killed. An exchange of shots occurred between the provincial police and striking police employees of the national gym at Olive, Cordoba province, two persons being killed and several others wounded.

Five persons were wounded in the town of General Viamonte, Cordoba, last night, when unidentified persons concealed in trees fired into a labor mass meeting on the plaza under the auspices of the Argentine Patriotic league. Dispatches declared the Maximalist element there had threatened to prevent the meeting.

Thousands Join Coolidge Rally In New York City

City Harks Back to Traditions Of McKinley Campaign in Demonstration for Vice Presidential Nominee.

New York, Oct. 29.—New York harked back to the traditions of the last century last night when its historic thoroughfare, Broadway and Fifth avenue, resounded to the tread of thousands marching behind Calvin Coolidge, republican candidate for vice president.

Not since 1896, when thousands of marchers fell into line under the colors of McKinley, has the city witnessed so great a political demonstration in its streets.

Leading the column, Governor Coolidge rode in an automobile from north street and lower Broadway to the Union League club on Fifth avenue, where he left the car and watched the passing procession on a reviewing stand erected over the sidewalk. Leaving this point of vantage long before the parade was over, the candidate went to Carnegie hall, where, before an audience which taxed its capacity, he took issue with those who condemned and retaining parts of the league of nations covenant.

"Coolidge Night."

Last night's address was Governor Coolidge's first public appearance in New York since his nomination, and great crowds turned away from the doors of the hall where he spoke, joined with the paraders in making the metropolis ring with the cheers of "Coolidge night."

Speaking after Nathan L. Miller and Senator James W. Wadsworth, respectively candidates for governor of New York and United States senator, Governor Coolidge declared the United States is determined to do its part in the upbuilding of civilization, although he said no one could predict what sort of an association of nations would result from America's leadership.

The Coolidge parade, which included both men and women, began shortly after 6 o'clock. Forming in Broadway with the head of the column in the heart of the wholesale mercantile section and its tail at the Battery, the procession, illuminated by thousands of electric lights carried by the marchers, moved up the famous streets, increasing in size as it proceeded on its way.

"Harding and Coolidge."

At the head of the procession immediately behind a cordon of mounted police, the words "America first" and "Harding and Coolidge" were blazoned on a huge electric sign forming an arch from curb to curb. This sign, brilliant in red and white lights, and borne upon an automobile truck bedecked with the national colors, preceded one of the 30 or more bands in line which had Senator Harding for rejeeting parts the place of honor immediately before the governor's automobile.

Following him in an endless ribbon of red, white and blue came the marchers on foot, each carrying a slender reed surmounted by a tiny electric light. From vantage points above the street the entire thoroughfare appeared to be carpeted with the patriotic hues.

Marching abreast directly behind the guard of honor came a dozen battalions of young women, each with an American flag and each with her hat adorned by a streaming white plume.

The male marchers, carrying flags and wearing Harding and Coolidge stove pipe hats, swept along with a precision which betrayed a goodly sprinkling of veterans trained in 1917.

Governor Coolidge occupied the seat in a large open touring car and surrounded by silk-hatted dignitaries, was the least conspicuous figure in the entire procession, except on the rare occasion when he stood up to uncover and bow his thanks to the enthusiastic crowd.

The men are asking a working agreement and adjustment of wages. Colorado rangers remained at Golden, where they are held to await developments in the coal districts. Col. Patrick J. Hamrock has been given full authority by Governor Shoup and announced that the troops would proceed into the coal fields in the event of disorders. The day passed quietly, according to all reports received here.
