

Drift Toward Fox Evident in Douglas County

Immored Trend Exists Only in Minds of Democratic Politicians, Declares G. O. P.
County Chairman.

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party," is a slightly paraphrased expression used yesterday by W. G. Ure, republican county chairman.

"I fail to find any drift or trend toward Cox and the democratic ticket in Douglas county," he added, "know that there is considerable spirited conversation about a 'drift to Cox,' but it is not actually visible. It does not exist except in the minds of those who are making these claims."

Will Win Handily.

"The republicans have a majority in the county and they will win handily, speaking of Douglas county where my activities are centered. Of course, it follows that the republican must see that he or she votes next Tuesday. In order to win, the republicans must get out the vote. Republicans are holding their own in the county and the situation looks favorable."

Appealing to Reason.

"The republican party is appealing to the spirit of reason rather than to emotionalism. They are trying to appeal to reason and will win on that basis," Mr. Ure said. "The republican county central committee has issued a call for volunteer workers for next Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Men and women who will be all or part of the day are requested to communicate in person or by telephone to Thomas Lynch, secretary of the county central committee, in the basement of 1614 Harney street, telephone Tyler 5636."

To Be Closed Monday.

"The local republican campaign will be closed Monday night with a big rally in the Auditorium, where Congressman Albert W. Jeffers and others will speak."

Landlord Will Sell Goods of Rent Jumpers

H. Wiskope, proprietor of the Sunshine apartments at Seventeenth and California streets, is holding a basement full of suit cases, bed clothing and odd articles of men's clothing for unpaid room rent, he told Constable George McBride, yesterday.

Senate Committee Plans Hearing Here

Senator Calder of New York, head of the United States senate committee on reconstruction and production, will conduct a hearing in Omaha November 13, according to word received yesterday by Thomas J. Fithmorris, secretary of the Nebraska State League of the Building and Loan association.

Prison Number Ten Looms for Man Held

"Robert Wilson, the man with 'six faces,' was held for district court yesterday by Judge Foster in Central police court. Bonds were fixed at $6,000.

Girl Places Handbag On Radiator, Turns, It's Gone

Mabel Hall, 421 South Thirty-sixth street, laid her handbag on a radiator on the fifth floor of the Y. W. C. A. Friday for a few minutes.

Two Highwaymen Stop Man and Take $72

Two highwaymen held up Charles Kent, Owl hotel, at Thirtieth and Capitol avenue, Friday night and took him of $72, he reported to police.

See want ads are best business letters.

First Divorce Here Granted in 1856

Style of Hubby-Wifey
Warfare in Pioneer
Days Much Like
Up-To-Date Brand.

Susan McEnheimer was a good wife to George McEnheimer. But George was a cruel husband. He cursed her, threatened her, failed to support her and their six children and consorted with another woman, according to testimony in court.

Susan and George were married in 1837 in Dalton, O. Martin Van Buren was president of the United States then.

Susan got a divorce from George in Omaha, March 29, 1856. It was the first divorce granted in the territory of Nebraska and a special act of the legislature was passed in order to assist her in getting freed from her brutal spouse.

"The evil that men do lives after them."

3,286 Suits Added.

The good is oft interred with their bones," says the poet. If the evil reaches the courts, it does, indeed, live after them. For the account of George McEnheimer's domestic misdeeds of 75 years ago, is in the records of the district court in the Douglas county court house. It is there forever with the record of the misdeeds and alleged misdeeds of thousands and tens of thousands of others.

The record vault is not a large room. But it is crammed full of the legal suits of 65 years. Last year 3,286 new suits were added.

And none of them are ever destroyed.

Covered With Dust.

There the papers repose, year after year. Petitions and answers, cross-petitions and affidavits, subpoenas and capias, motions and counter-motions, all the legal papers known in disputes between man and his fellow-man, are there.

Thousands and tens of thousands of suits repose in the vault. They run from the year 1856 up to the present day.

Covered with dust are the old papers in spite of their steel protection.

They are yellow with age. And those who disputed and quarreled and fretted and fumed and called each other unkind names and fought and warred in the courts amid hate and envy and jealousy back in the '50s—all are in the quiet grave. Their quarrels are forgotten.

Never To Be Destroyed.

"These records will never be destroyed. They will be kept a thousand years and longer, if possible," said Clerk of the District Court Robert Smith.

"But with all the litigants dead, why clutter space with the records?"

"Why, some of these records grow more valuable with the passing years," said Mr. Smith. "Many of those early suits were on real estate and titles. Some time such real estate may become very valuable and its title may be called in question. Then these records of the long ago must be referred to. Such records might be worth millions. They must be kept very carefully."

But let us return to the unhappy domestic drama of George and Susan McEnheimer.

Dead and Forgotten.

Though they are dead and forgotten, their domestic drama is today preserved in this "vault of 10,000 divorce suits."

Susan and George, as said before, were married about 83 years ago.

The petition for divorce and the affidavits and testimony "read" much like a present-day divorce case.

And here we may pause a moment to observe that "the good old days" were very much like today when viewed in the cold, unromantic light of legal papers.

Men abused their wives and cursed them then as many do now. Wives nagged their husbands as some do today. And the "eternal triangle" was already an old institution.

Picked a "Lemon."

Susan, as stated, picked a "lemon." She struggled along with him for 14 years before she finally left him. This was shortly after they had moved to the wild and woolly territory of Nebraska in 1854.

After she had been away six weeks George promised to do better and she returned to him. But George didn't make good on his promise and she finally left him "for good," January 2, 1855.

Susan was evidently a woman of force. She wanted a divorce. But there were no organized laws. Undismayed, she went to the territorial legislature with her trouble. And that body, on January 23, 1856, passed "An act in relation to the application of Susan McEnheimer for a divorce from the bonds of matrimony from George McEnheimer."

The case was then referred to the Hon. Fenner Ferguson, judge of the district court for the First judicial district of the territory.

Still Easily Legible.

On February 1, 1856, Mrs. McEnheimer filed this petition, now yellowed with age, but still easily legible.

It comprises four sheets of "fool-cap," written on both sides and tied with red tape.

She relates the time and place of their marriage, states that they have two boys and four girls, tells about leaving George twice and details his shiftlessness and cruelty.

She says he "left his wife and children to be provided for by their own exertions and through the charities of the neighbors."

She returned to him, she says, "hoping and believing that the said George would conduct himself in a manner better becoming a husband."

But "the said George" commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct toward her which continued with very slight interruptions until she finally separated from him.

He was so cruel as to render it unsafe and improper to live with him.

About January 10, 1854, in their home he caught her by the throat and threatened to take her life, she relates.

"He is a man of violent passion and ungovernable temper," she declares and many times during their married life he addressed to her "obscene and filthy epithets and threats of personal violence and repeatedly threatened to take her life."

She charges him with unfaithfulness during their married life.

Signed With Mark.

Mrs. McEnheimer, asks for a divorce and custody of their two girls, Sarah and Susan Ellen.

The petition is signed with her mark. It is witnessed by J. W. Padlock, clerk of the district court.

A deposition of Charles H. Anderson, taken February 7, 1856, in Mount Pleasant, Ia., is part of the ancient record.

He says McEnheimer was a cooper and in good health and could make a living "if he would work."

Youth's Career Ends With Reform School Sentence

Harold McLaughlin, Who Ran Away From Home, Sent to Kearney for Robbing Store.

Harold McLaughlin's meteoric career in Omaha ended yesterday, when he was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial school at Kearney for robbing a store on South Thirteenth street. Juvenile Judge Sears imposed the sentence.

Harold is 12. He arrived in Omaha a few weeks ago dressed in a Boy Scout uniform and told officers he was on his way to Chicago to meet his parents, who had sent him enough money only for railroad fare to Omaha.

Investigation revealed he had run away from his parents at Montrose, Colo., and he was sent to River-view home. He escaped from River-view two weeks ago and stole a horse and buggy to hasten the distance between himself and the home.

After his capture he escaped again and was caught after burglarizing the store. A letter received from his father by Rev. C. M. Worden stated that they could do nothing with him.

Home Is Ransacked

Burglars ransacked the home of Mrs. Al Klung, 2021 California street, Friday night and filled a suitcase and traveling bag with clothing, shoes and jewelry, making away with the whole works. Mrs. Klung reported the case to police.

See want ads are business getters.

After 24 Years "Abused Hubby" Airs His Grief

Mate Abused Him Before Fellow Workers and Has His
$10,000, Husband
Claims.

William Tracy is a downtrodden man, ground under the iron heel of woman. So he told the district court yesterday in a petition for divorce from his wife, Jessie.

For 24 long years William has been a worm, trodden under the foot of woman, he says.

William went on the theory that kindness brings happiness. He worked hard and turned over all his money to his wife. She has more than $10,000 in various banks in Omaha, all of it earned by him and given to her, he says.

Did kindness win? Nay, brethren. Despite the 10,000 simoleans, his wife frequently struck him. Once she even shot at him with a gun, he says. And she came to his place of employment and abused him before his fellow employees, he declares.

The worm has turned, after 24 years. William is after a divorce. The Tracys live at 1907 Center street.

Men Whose Car Killed Pony Owned by Boy Given Fines

James Sage, 518 North Twenty-third street, and Leslie Walters, 1814 Cumming street, occupants of a car which ran down and killed a pony belonging to Clyde Drew, 318 South Fifty-third street, on October 10 were fined $25 in Central police court yesterday.

An Overwhelming Bargain!

You'll Like
the Value
Here

An exceptional bargain for Monday only. Each piece is beautifully finished in mahogany and heavily upholstered in long wearing tapestry. A high-grade "Kroehler" suite. Duofold opens to a full size bed. Unusual bargain at

$198.75

Let Hartman's
Furnish Your Nest

For the couple who is just starting housekeeping an account with Hartman's will be the first step to success. The terms are so easy you'll never notice them. Open your account tomorrow.

Liberal Terms
To All

Jacobean Dining Suite

In the popular William and Mary period. Chairs have genuine blue or Spanish leather seats. The 48-inch table extends to full six feet. A wonderful set at

$109.85

Monday Value
$24.65

Exactly as illustrated. You will never realize a greater saving. Offered in the rich golden oak for Monday and Tuesday.

Golden Finish
$24.75

A large table measuring 38x42 inches and is exactly as pictured. If you are in need of a new table, come Monday.

And a "Garland"
$159.85

Recognized by all experienced buyers as the very best money can buy. Sold on easy terms without interest.

$1.00
A WEEK

From your earnings, without interest, places the renowned

Columbia

Grafonola in your home and adds that cheer that long has been lacking.

Finest Material
Best Workmanship

Blue and Mulberry Velour

Mahogany and Cane Suites

You are not limited to one pattern at this reduced price. There are several styles, all with loose spring-filled cushions and coming complete with bolsters and pillows. See them tomorrow. Special at

$298.75

Absolutely the Greatest Stove Values Ever Offered!

The Celebrated
"Coles" Hot Blast

$42.50

Right here is your big opportunity for a substantial saving that will mean something to you in dollars and cents. An oval-shaped "Coles" Hot Blast, of large size, and exactly as you see it pictured in this advertisement.

Hartman's—The Stove Center
Of Omaha

Big Heater Value
A Limited Quantity

$22.75

You will hardly believe your eyes. This price is rather misleading, yet you will find this unusual bargain just as pictured. Has large fire-pot and handsomely trimmed in nickel.

Use
Your Credit

6 Ft. Extension
$32.75

Our price is greatly reduced for tomorrow. It will pay you to investigate this bargain. Come early.

"Kroehler" Kodak
$58.75

As pictured, and when you consider the price of a duofold today, you will not hesitate to buy tomorrow. On terms.

Monday Bargain
$16.75

A "Simmons" made with 2-inch posts and inch filling, roller bed in white enamel or Vernis Martin finish.

Hartman's

Your Credit Is Good—Use It!

Sixteenth—Between Harney and Howard