

Both Nebraska Chairmen Lay Claim to State

Final Statements Issued by C. A. McCloud, Republican Leader, and J. S. McCarty, Democrat.

Lincoln, Nov. 1.—Chairmen of the republican and democratic state campaign committees today issued final appeals to the voters of the state. The party leaders all claim victory for their respective candidates. The 11th hour statements follow:

C. A. McCloud, chairman of the republican state committee, in his statement, says:

"The democratic party in Nebraska has given up the fight for the presidency; the only remaining semblance of a fight is that for the governorship. The republican state central committee firmly believes that the entire republican state ticket will be elected by a large majority. Its election by a plurality is already conceded. The campaign for the governorship early resolved itself into one of promise after promise made by the two opponents of Governor McKelvie in answer to which the republican party points to its record of things actually done."

"The republican state ticket deserves the support of all Nebraska voters. All except one of the republican candidates are candidates for reelection. They are seeking endorsement of their business administration of the state's affairs. They stand for the economic expenditure of the state's money."

Voters Not Deceived.

"The republican party does not believe that the voters have been deceived by the charges of extravagance that have been cast upon it by the opponents of the present administration. State taxes have increased by only a very small amount and even that small increase has been due almost entirely to building of good roads and other state institutions, and to increased appropriations for the university and for the care of the state's dependents. Expenditures for these activities meet with the approval of the people, we know."

"We believe that the new women voters will cast an almost unanimous ballot for the republican state ticket, which stands for rigid law enforcement, while the democrats have definitely promised to do away with the state's law enforcement division if they are elected."

"Governor McKelvie has made no appeal to class or racial prejudices, but has stood four-square on a platform calling for continuance of a businesslike administration of the state's affairs, and for completion of the constructive program that had its inception under the present administration."

Demos Are Confident.

J. S. McCarty, vice chairman of the democratic state committee, in his statement says:

"It was the Des Moines speech of Senator Harding that changed Nebraska from an almost certain republican victory to one of doubt at this writing."

"Nebraska people as a whole are for the league covenant. There is a certain anti-war sentiment, however, more pronounced in Nebraska, perhaps, than in some other western states, on which the republican organizations have worked every propaganda known to skilled politicians in order to secure their vote."

"The democrats have consistently been for the league, while up until Harding spilled the beans at Des Moines the republicans were supposed to be for the covenant, but with reservations. When the news report across the country that the republican candidate had finally taken his stand squarely against this vital issue it aroused the women in every section of the state, as well as the men, who were not hidebound partisans, and these thousands were deluged with thousands of requests for literature and speakers in the league of nations."

Swept Across State.

"The change from republican to democratic sentiment not only swept across Nebraska like a tidal wave but has practically spread to every state in the union, and where here before states have been classed in the Harding column with a fair margin, the political prognosticators are now cataloguing them as doubtful."

"It is the opinion of the democratic state committee that the women will decide the national election in Nebraska and it will be decided in favor of Cox and the league of nations."

"As to Governor Morehead's election, there never has been any doubt that he would be elected by an overwhelming vote."

K. of C. Initiates Large Class at North Platte

North Platte, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special Telegram.)—St. Patrick's council of the Knights of Columbus initiated a big class of candidates here yesterday afternoon and in the evening was served with a banquet by the Catholic girls' club. The degree team of Lexington put on the work of initiation. Charles J. Pass acted as toastmaster and talks were made by Rev. Mr. Flanagan and John Hinchey of Omaha, William McNichol of Lexington and Rev. Mr. McDaid of this city. Miss Besse Smith, president of the Catholic girls' club, presented Rev. Mr. McDaid with a purse of $575 in gold, a gift from the congregation to enable him to take a three-months trip to Ireland, after serving as local pastor of St. Patrick's church for 10 years.

Northern Nebraska in Grip of Heavy Blizzard

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special Telegram.)—A blizzard raged all day and evening Monday in north Nebraska and part of South Dakota. The Northwestern railroad reports 30 inches of snow in Wyoming. About six inches of snow are drifting in north Nebraska by a heavy northwest gale. Country roads have been almost impassable for automobile traffic due to continuous rain followed by sleet. Farmers feel that only half of the expected rural vote will be out on election day.

Plans Formulated For Annual Session Of Farmers' Congress

Arrangements for the 12th annual session of the Nebraska farmers' congress to be held at the Hotel Rome December 14-16, inclusive, were completed at a meeting of the executive board held at the Chamber of Commerce.

This organization is a federation of all farmers' organizations in the state and a large delegation is expected at the Omaha meeting. Subjects that will come up for discussion will be "Farmers' Credit," "Activities of the University of Nebraska as It Affects Directly the Agricultural Interests of the State," "Needed Farm Legislation," "A Survey of the Nebraska Rural Schools" and "The Activities of the National Wheat Growers Association," to be discussed by Secretary McGeevy, Wichita, Kan., A. P. Sanders, secretary of the National Farmers Congress, will deliver an address on agricultural topics of the day.

"Efforts will be made at this conference to stabilize the prices of farm products," said J. B. Grinnell, secretary of the state organization, yesterday. Present prices are below the cost of production.

O. G. Smith, Kearney, Neb., is president of the state organization.

Human Mind Is Great Problem Facing This Country, Says Doctor

The human mind is one-eighth conscience, according to Dr. E. C. Henry, who addressed the Omaha Woman's club Monday on the "Effect of War on the Nervous System."

Dr. Henry's remarks were illustrated by drawings of the brain and channels of impressions carried to it from outside sources.

According to Dr. Henry, handling the human mind is the great problem facing America today. An interesting part of his address pertained to the immigrant coming daily to our shores.

"We have said to all nations, 'Come make your home with us,'" said Dr. Henry. "They come and in their coming we have many minds to assimilate and we ask them all to be 100 per cent American. Many come seeking relief from unjust government. These bring with them suppressed fears of government lying in the subconscious mind."

Dr. Henry emphasized the fact that psycho-analysis solves the mind problems facing America today.

Senator Finds Sentiment Strong for Republicans

Lincoln, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Sentiment in the northwestern part of Nebraska is very strong for Harding and for McKelvie, according to Senator Adam McMullin of Beatrice, who returned yesterday from a two weeks' speaking trip in behalf of the republican ticket.

"People believe that Governor McKelvie has given the state an efficient administration," said the senator, "and they are very well satisfied with his road building program and give him credit for it."

"With the beet sugar and wheat industries so heavy in that section the people there are anxious to see a republican president and a republican congress to give these industries the proper protection by a tariff which will count for something."

Governor Issues Proclamation of Armistice Day

State Executive Asks Citizens To Join in Paying Tribute To Soldier Heroes in World War.

Lincoln, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Calling attention to the fact that this country will never forget the heroic sacrifices of its soldiers in the recent war, Governor McKelvie has issued a proclamation for the observance of Armistice day, November 11. The proclamation reads:

"On November 11, 1918, the curtain was drawn on the most terrible holocaust the world had ever known. For four long years the military forces of the world had contended about the insolent invasions of autonomy against the rights of peoples and of nations, to determine their own destinies."

"The deciding roll in that world drama was played by America. Four million of her sons placed their interests of the 'home' above those of self and fell patriotically to the colors. Of these, over 100,000 made the supreme sacrifice, and the quiet graves that mark their last resting place urge us on to greater devotion to our country."

"America cannot and will not forget the great service that was rendered by these men in the hour of its direst need. There is only a little that we can do to prove our undying devotion to them. So let us avail ourselves of every opportunity to again and again give evidences of our everlasting appreciation for the services they rendered."

"Therefore, I, Samuel R. McKelvie, governor of the state of Nebraska, do declare November 11, 1920, Armistice day, to be observed as a holiday throughout this commonwealth, and the occasion for this observance should be marked with patriotic acts and ceremonies in the homes, the schools, the villages and the cities everywhere."

Lincoln Girls Give Up Wet Hike to Omaha

Lincoln, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Miss Hazel Nye and Miss Edith Willis, the state house hikes, who started for Omaha Saturday morning, with the determination to walk all the way, were sadly disappointed Sunday morning, when, upon awakening early, they discovered that the rain had so badly spoiled the roads that they had to give up the trip and return to Lincoln.

"We were just a little tired," said Miss Nye, head stenographer in the office of the governor, "when we reached Ashland, but in the morning we were feeling refreshed and ready for the balance of the trip. We were almost tempted to make it, anyway, by walking the ties, but the rain was falling, and that made it almost impossible. We have not given up, and will try it again when the weather gets more settled."

Aurora, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special Telegram.)—At the first meeting of the creditors of the bankrupt W. C. Wentz company Saturday afternoon, M. J. Wentz, president of the bankruptcy company, filed a personal claim amounting to about $22,000 and asked to have F. E. Quinn of this city named as trustee. The bond and contingent claims against the company amounted to about $200,000.

Beaver City, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator G. W. Norris closed the republican campaign in Furnas county, speaking at his old home town, Beaver City, this afternoon. The capacity of the court house was taxed by the crowds that thronged there to hear him. He assailed the treaty of Versailles as founded on dishonesty, deceit and treachery. As to reservations he said that no reservation could right the wrongs contained in it.

DISTANCE looms big to many men and women. Sometimes they leave Nebraska for fields which seem fairer. But there is no fairer field than Nebraska. It has been called "the center of hogs and hominy." But it is, likewise, the center of fair women, brave men and charming children. Its percentage of illiteracy is the lowest of all the states. Its health rate and its death rate will compare favorably with any section of the country.
