

Urgent Need of Salvation Army Drive Explained

New Rescue Home a Necessity To Care for Omaha Needy During Winter, Says John W. Gamble.

Great enthusiasm was shown by the majors and team captains engaged in the Salvation Army Home Service appeal at a luncheon held in the Home Hotel at noon Monday. Practically every prominent club in the city was represented.

City Director H. A. Lentz made a rousing address to the members of the various teams, expressing his gratitude and appreciation for their strenuous efforts on behalf of the Salvation Army, telling them that by a few days of like effort the drive would be successfully carried through.

Herbert W. Jeffrey of Chicago, territorial director for Salvation Army programs, outlined for the benefit of the gathering what the Salvation Army activities were in all of the 24 states west of the Mississippi river. "California and Kansas," said Mr. Jeffrey, "are the two banner states in the west from our Salvation Army standpoint. Both of those went over the top in their drive, and Oklahoma, Texas, Montana, Iowa, the two Dakotas and the state of Nebraska, outside of Omaha, are all making fine showings," he said.

Drive Necessary.

"Some of my business colleagues tell me the time is unpropitious for them to contribute to the support of the Salvation Army whose function it is to relieve the distress of this city," said John W. Gamble. "I take exception to this assertion on the ground that necessity knows no law of opportunity. Emergencies arise every minute of every day in the year. The Salvation Army has to function in relieving the needs of our poor. If they don't who will?"

"The Salvation Army is an institution with an established personnel equipped to handle cases which no other organization ever has or can reach, with any degree of success its arms of love girdle the globe."

"In 64 countries and in 42 languages it receives into its willing ears and heart the woes and distresses of humanity. Its work is primarily a vice preventive, though in many instances it finds its best efforts engaged in the reclamation of society of the so-called down-and-outs. It fathers 16 distinct major activities, all of which function independently of each other, though under the one Salvation Army head.

"The most urgent need at present is the Rescue Home maintenance fund and the city relief fund, which must be cared for. We have 32 girls and their babies at the Rescue Home. What are we to do with them? They must be cared for. Winter is coming, when the poor and needy must be looked after, food, fuel and clothing and other needs supplied to the poor. The ramshackle Rescue Home is as cold as a barn during the winter months, notwithstanding there are 17 coal and oil stoves used."

Hard Winter for Poor.

"Captain J. G. Cheyne, in charge of the relief work of the local corps, declares that this will be the hardest winter on the poor of Omaha of any in Salvation Army history. Already the biting winter winds are piercing and blustering some of our half-clad and half-fed poor who come well within the jurisdiction of the Salvation Army. Without funds what will they do? How shall we meet this problem?"

"Let us at least try now to get the money necessary to care for the Rescue Home maintenance and the relief work of the city, and let the proposition of the new building rest in abeyance until spring, when general conditions may brighten up and the tone of public confidence be restored," said Mr. Gamble.

Why County Commissioner Compton Should Not Be Re-elected

This Map Shows Why You Should Vote Against A. D. Compton for County Commissioner and Why You Should Vote for T. F. Stroud for That Office

REMEMBER, THIS OFFICE IS VOTED FOR BY EVERY MAN AND WOMAN OF DOUGLAS COUNTY

A vote for Stroud is a vote for good roads, for Mr. Stroud is an old, experienced road builder and he has no ax to grind as Mr. Compton has, therefore he will give the outlying districts equal treatment. But if Mr. Compton succeeds in getting re-elected he will continue for four more years to insist on bridging the Platte River in a very poor and inconvenient place, the effect of which would be to force a paved road through his land holdings.

Mr. Compton has bought over one hundred thousand dollars worth of land in the last twelve months and is interested in enough more to make nearly 3,000 acres.

Mr. Compton proposes to pave Center Street from north of Millard to the Platte River, a distance of thirteen miles, and then bridge the Platte River above the C. B. & Q. R. R., where there is 2,900 feet of water to cross and a hill 155 feet high to be graded away, but a look at the map will show that by paving to the Platte River from Road 76, on the line one mile south of the Center Street road, would be only six and one-half miles, and at this point the Platte River is only 1,360 feet across, as the C. B. & Q. R. R. bridge lies just a few rods above this location and they dyked out 600 feet from the east bank and 500 feet from the west, making a narrow channel; besides there is no hill in Saunders County on this location, and there is a side track within a few rods of where the bridge would be built, saving much extra expense in hauling bridge material. All who have investigated agree that a bridge can be built below the railroad bridge for one-half of what it would cost to build above, and we all know that the railroad bridge would afford great protection for a wagon bridge erected just below it.

A wagon bridge below the railroad bridge would make a shorter route to Omaha for all Saunders County people and would make all people of Saunders County living just south of the railroad four and one-half miles closer to the South Omaha market than the upper location would.

It would also save the paving of seven miles of road in Douglas County at $70,000 per mile, or, all told, about a half million dollars.

CAN WE AFFORD TO PUT COMPTON BACK IN OFFICE AND WASTE A HALF MILLION DOLLARS JUST TO IMPROVE HIS LANDS?

The people of Polk and Butler Counties are now paving a road to the south side of Wahoo, so if we allow this bridge to be placed above the railroad bridge we will compel the people of these western counties to travel two and one-half extra miles to reach the South Omaha markets.

Let's vote for T. F. Stroud for County Commissioner and get harmony in this county and also some good roads, and get them where the taxpayers' money will not be used for selfish purposes. Let's bridge the Platte River below the railroad bridge, where it should be.

Remember, Mr. Stroud did not seek this office, but after he had retired he was asked to run and told it was his duty to give some of his time to his county. He will not favor any special interests and has no special interests of his own to favor.

The map shows Compton's land marked in black and the two proposed roads marked thus

If anyone wishes proof of these statements or any additional information, I can furnish it.

HARRY E. COWLES, Water View Stock Farm, Waterloo, Neb.

Mr. L. C. Sholes, while on the Good Roads Committee of the Real Estate Board, made an investigation of the Platte River bridge locations. He secured the services of Howard, Harrington & Ash, consulting engineers, who have constructed some of the largest bridge building projects in the United States.

Mr. Ash personally visited the bridge locations and approaches, and recommended the location below the C. B. & Q. R. R. bridge. He also stated the cost of construction at this location would be 50% less than at the Compton location, above the C. B. & Q. R. R. bridge.

Mr. F. A. Brogan says these same people, Howard, Harrington & Ash, are now designing the Yankton, South Dakota, bridge.
