Some Ways With Shrimp

Shrimps are one of our most delicate shellfishes, yet they are much neglected in the average household. They are used only for salad, and maybe once in a while they are served a la Newburg. You can get shrimp for 40 cents a pound in any fish store, and in some stores they may be had for less than that. A pound and a half of shrimp will make the principal dish for a dinner for four persons. Why not try green peppers stuffed with shrimp some evening? For this you need one and a half pounds of shrimp, six green peppers, one yellow onion, a half cupful of bread crumbs, a little chopped parsley, a half bay leaf, a tablespoonful of butter, salt, pepper and paprika. Wash the shrimps put them in a saucepan with enough water to cover them, add a half teaspoonful of salt and let them boil about three minutes. Drain them and plunge them into very cold water. When they are cold remove the shells. Wash the peppers and cut off the tops. Have the onion and parsley chopped and the bay leaf broken up so a piece can be put in the bottom of each pepper. Now put the shrimps in the peppers first chill them in very cold water and remove the shells. Wash two ounces of butter. Work in the butter two tablespoonfuls of parsley chopped as fine as you can chop it and add to this very gradually a teaspoonful of lemon juice. In fact it is well to make parsley butter a half pound at a time and keep it in a glass jar in the ice box. Then you have it ready for use at a moment's notice. Melt the parsley butter in a shallow saucepan or in the chafing dish and cook the shrimps in it for about 10 minutes. Have a low fire so the butter does not brown. Add a little black pepper and a dash of paprika, while the shrimps are cooking. Serve on toast and garnish with pretty pieces of parsley.

Come Down Town Thursday and Watch For the Burgess-Nash Airplane
You May Be Lucky and Win A Prize Worth $10

A few days ago we promised a special event for the children of Omaha. Here it is:
Thursday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, the Burgess-Nash airplane will fly over the business section of Omaha. While in the air, the pilot will throw out tags bearing the picture of Old Man Dollar.
Some of these tags will be numbered, some will not. You should make an effort to find the numbered tags, as 50 of them will be worth $10 each to you.
Just which numbers will be the "lucky ones" we do not know. These numbers have been selected by Senator Millard of the Omaha National Bank, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, which will be opened at 9 o'clock, Saturday Morning, Nov. 6.
The winning numbers will be posted on a bulletin board on the main floor as soon as known.
Every child of less than 16 years of age, who, accompanied by one or both of its parents, presents a tag with one of the lucky numbers on it at the Cashier's Office on the Third Floor will be given a merchandise certificate for $10, which will be accepted at face value for any goods in our store.
A Prize to Every Child Who Finds a Tag
Children finding tags without numbers will be given a dandy picture puzzle in colors of "Old Man Dollar" on presenting the tag at the Toy Department on our fourth floor.
Tags will be redeemed only one day, Saturday, November 6. After that date they will be void. Only one tag will be redeemed from any one child.
Merchandise certificates given to the winners will be good for 60 days from their date.
