

Teachers' Body Votes Down Split

Contending Factions Patch Up Differences—Agree to Submit New Constitution to Referendum.

Omaha Meeting Closes

Wet, but happy, with suit cases bulging and minds full of new ideas assimilated in the last three days, Nebraska teachers by the hundreds boarded street cars in the pouring rain yesterday afternoon and returned to their homes and schools.

The fifty-fourth annual session of the Nebraska State Teachers' association officially closed yesterday. It attained an attendance record surpassed only by that of last year when 164 more were present. The talent and tangible results of the session this year easily led those of past meetings. They include:

Adoption of a plan to settle definitely the constant fight of whether there shall be a central meeting or sectional meetings.

Adoption of a plan to put an educational lobby on the job at Lincoln this year.

Hotel Accommodations.

Consideration of a plan by the officers of the association to make a contract with Omaha hotel next year in which rates to be charged will be recorded and avoid constant wrangling among delegates over hotel accommodations.

Establishment of two new sections to the association a typical section dealing with problems of the abnormal and subnormal child in public schools and a normal training section.

Officers and members of the executive committee must remain in Omaha today to pick up a few odds and ends of unfinished business before returning to their homes. These include counting of ballots cast for a new president, a vice president, a treasurer and the election of a committee of nine educators to adopt a new constitution which will be presented to members of the association for consideration in the near future.

Election Results to Come.

A. H. Stoddard, president of the association, announced last yesterday afternoon that the committee of nine would be selected by the executive committee early this morning at the Hotel Fontenelle.

The result of the voting will be announced by the executive committee. Ballots for three new members of the executive committee who will succeed Jesse H. Newell of Lincoln; A. V. Teed of Wayne, and R. J. Barr of Grand Island also must be counted.

The promises made over the division of the association into sectional meetings on the convention floor at the Auditorium yesterday morning did not materialize. At a committee meeting held Thursday night at the Hotel Fontenelle, the differences and agreements reached by the teachers, members of the association.

Resolution Adopted.

This was accomplished by adopting a resolution on the convention floor to amend the constitution and the amendment proposed was an entirely new constitution. Another motion carried giving a committee of nine power to write a constitution and providing, in the event the committee failed to do so, that the committee automatically become the constitution under which the association would operate.

To insure harmony on the convention floor, it was arranged that those who had been at loggertown on the proposition—True of McCook, Stoddard of Beatrice, Lefler of Lincoln and Beveridge of Omaha—should speak in behalf of the resolution.

New London Frock Models

Are Equipped With Bracelets

London, Nov. 5.—Dressmakers are adding bracelets of various kinds to the allurement of their new frock models.

Upon the bare upper arms of an afternoon gown "merrythought" bands of velvet are seen. Black is chosen as a white skin foil and is introduced on the left arm only in the form of a broad band fringed with monkey fur.

An evening tulle has a twin-train of filigree lace drawn to the wrists by supporting bands of flowers, easily detachable if desired.

Resource is displayed in other directions to produce unaccustomed effects. One beautiful frock is punched with metal-rim eyelet holes such as the shoemaker uses, and another has a gigantic broderie anglaise design upon it. Chinese designs are also immensely fashionable this autumn.

Second Congresswoman of U. S. Always Has Been Avowed Opponent of Woman Suffrage

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 5.—Miss Alice Robertson, farmer, cafeteria owner and the only congresswoman-elect in the United States sat in her little restaurant today planning the menu for the noon-day meal.

"I think I should celebrate my own election by preparing something special," she said as she typed the bill-of-fare.

"Miss Alice," known over the state as the most picturesque character in Oklahoma, made the race for congress, although she was opposed to and worked actively against the woman suffrage amendment.

The story of Miss Robertson's life which began in a little Indian mission 10 miles from here 65 years ago is the story of a sacrifice by a woman for the betterment of the Indian tribes here.

Her father came to the old Indian Territory in 1840 when the cry of "gold" was heard from California.

Her history was by 273 votes, out of approximately 50,000, in the case of "Miss Alice," campaign here was similar to President-elect Harding's, but instead of being conducted on her front porch, it was conducted in her cafeteria.

Whenever a man or woman went there to eat she sat down at the table and talked it over. She also ran advertisements in the daily papers proclaiming the day's menu giving Biblical quotations and advancing political arguments. The "ads" rivaled even the news columns for their interest.

Young Woman Is Found Murdered In Weed Clump

Ground Near Body Shows Traces of Desperate Struggle

Of St. Louis Girl Against Her Slayers.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 5.—Miss Edna Ellis, 18, was found mysteriously slain in a clump of weeds in a vacant lot in the northern section of the city today. Her throat had been slashed and a broken razor was found near the body. She was a stenographer. The girl had been beaten severely. Both eyes were discolored and her left jaw was swollen. The body bore numerous marks of maltreatment.

The condition of the ground near where the body was found indicated Miss Ellis fought desperately with her assailant. The lot is located in a populous section and police say they do not understand why the girl's outcries were not heard by neighbors.

Miss Ellis, who lived near the scene of the murder, was last seen setting off street cars in the neighborhood enroute home from work last evening. Shortly before the body was found at 9 a. m. Miss Ellis' mother reported to police that her daughter had not come home last night.

Police began a search of the neighborhood and footprints in the lot led to the discovery of the body.

Giant Bull Moose Stops Train Bearing Millionaire

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 5.—The "Millionaire's Special" bound from Pittsfield to New York with several members of the local colony aboard, was held up just outside the Lenox station.

A giant bull moose from the estate of William C. Whitney, one of a herd of 16 which gathered near the tracks, got in front of the engine and prepared to charge the train.

It looked as though either the moose or the engine was about to suffer considerable damage when Conductor Fred Scott, cornetist and moonologist, dug out his cornet, and, going to the rear platform, began tooting "Yankee Doodle."

The moose backed up and then started on a run for the back of the train. The minute he got out of the engine's path, Engineer Bert Shepard started full speed ahead.

Murderer Goes To Gallows for Killing Sheriff

Man Who Killed President of Pendleton Roundup in Jailbreak Expiates Crime With His Life.

Salem, Ore., Nov. 5.—Emmett Bancroft, alias Neil Hart, was hanged here today for the murder of Sheriff Til Taylor during a jailbreak at Pendleton, Ore., July 25. Bancroft's execution was the first in Oregon since capital punishment was restored by popular vote last month.

"I regret what I have done," were Bancroft's last words. "I feel that God is on my side and I am not afraid to go when He calls me."

Pendleton became, in spirit at least, a town of the old west again when Neil Hart, half-breed Indian, who was hanged here today, killed Sheriff Til Taylor, Pendleton roundup chief, Sunday afternoon, July 25, and with five companions broke from the Umatilla county jail and fled to the timber hills.

Out came rifles and revolvers and Pendleton business men, professional men and cattle raisers, many of whom rode the range, took to their horses and automobiles and set out in pursuit of the escaped men.

Within a week the prisoners were rounded up and back in jail and Hart had confessed to the murder.

Canadian Government Revives Old-Time "Grub-Stake" Rules

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The spectacular rush of hundreds of oil prospectors to the far north, where "strikes" have been reported, has caused the government to revive the old grub-stake ordinances of Yukon days.

As the situation threatens to become serious, it is proposed to prevent those who go in from being charged upon the Royal Canadian mounted police.

Under the new rules, only those in physical condition to stand an Arctic winter and with enough "grub" to keep them, will be permitted to go.

Discovery of oil at Fort Norman, in the MacKenzie river basin, has resulted in the departure of several parties from Edmonton, Alberta, with dog teams to stake claims in advance of others who will travel by the river route in the spring.

At the present time every available berth on all the boats plying to the north has been taken for the spring months.

Efforts Being Made To Solve Irish Issue

London, Nov. 5.—Two interesting, although unofficial, attempts are being made to solve the Irish question, it developed today. The first of these is an effort by influential political quarters to induce the government to communicate with the Sinn Fein members of Parliament in order to try to reach a practical agreement and prevent the ruin of Ireland.

The second is that three coalition members of Parliament will formally propose a plan for withdrawing the military in Ireland to strategic centers and allowing the local authorities to take the responsibility for the preservation of law and order with the eventual view of negotiating a political settlement of the problem.

Anti-Bolshevik Asks French Aid

Position of General Wrangel In South Russia Is Reported to Be Extremely Dangerous.

France Refuses to Help

Paris, Nov. 5.—Further dispatches confirming the extreme gravity of the position of General Wrangel, anti-bolshevik forces in south Russia, have been received by the French foreign office, but are being withheld temporarily. With the capture by the bolsheviks of Perekop and the surrounding territory regarded as the key to the isthmus, fears now expressed in French official circles that General Wrangel's very existence in the Crimea may be seriously endangered.

It is reliably reported that General Wrangel has sent an urgent appeal to France and other allied powers telling of the critical situation confronting him and requesting more aid.

From an authoritative source, it was learned that France feels it now is "too late" to give him further assistance. It was explained that France had rendered him all the assistance in her power and any further support would have to come from the other allied powers.

Troops in Crimea.

Sebastopol, Nov. 5.—(By The Associated Press.)—Gen. Barovitch, head of the anti-bolshevik government of south Russia, has successfully withdrawn his troops to Crimea before the advance of soviet armies south of the Dnieper river. He is master of Perekop and also Salkova.

At Salkova General Wrangel has captured thousands of men belonging to the units of General Budenny's cavalry. The spirit of his troops is good, but they are worn out by their long fight.

Some of the escaped men are besieging the anti-bolshevik trench system on the narrow neck of the Crimean peninsula.

"We are fighting hard, in full hope."

The baroness, who has spent many sleepless nights since the bolshevik offensive began, said today:

"All I want is the truth; no matter how bad it is, I can stand it."

But one night he was frozen in a blizzard and when he was found he was severely frozen that both his legs were amputated above the knee, as was his left hand and most fingers of his right. Since then he has been known as "Billy the Bear," and he has become one of the most beloved characters of all this section.

Attempt to Poison Iowa Man Fails

Farmer Suffering From Gunshot Wounds Charged With Trying to Kill Neighbor's Family.

Ruse Catches Victim

Walter L. Bardsley, 33, wealthy Pottawattamie county farmer, is under arrest in the Jenette Edmundson Memorial hospital at Council Bluffs, suffering from gunshot wounds in his head and legs, as the result of his alleged attempts to poison the family of W. E. Zimmerman, 55, a neighbor, living about four miles west of Neola, Ia.

According to the story told by Zimmerman to County Attorney C. E. Swanson, four or five attempts have been made by a previously unidentified person to poison him, his wife and his two children. On one occasion water in a well on his farm was found to be impregnated with a bitter tasting stuff, thought to be poison. The well was pumped dry and fresh water placed in it.

Another time someone broke into the house during the absence of the family and tampered with a dressed chicken, which was to be cooked for dinner. The chicken was fed to a cat and a dog. The cat died and the dog's life was saved by a veterinarian. Zimmerman suspected Bardsley and reported the attempts to the county authorities.

Ill feeling between the two families was caused by a dispute over the ownership of a purebred hog and by quarrels over the alleged straying of Bardsley's stock onto his neighbor's farm. Several of Zimmerman's cattle and hogs died from strange maladies, he told the county attorney.

Thursday night, during the reported absence of the entire Zimmerman family from the farm, Zimmerman was in wait for instructions with a shotgun and fired a shot into the barnyard and ordered him to halt. The man dropped a bag which he was carrying and raised something which, Zimmerman says, looked like a rifle. The latter opened fire with his shotgun and then turned a flashlight on his opponent.

Zimmerman told the county attorney that the man he saw in his barnyard was Bardsley, that he recognized him by the rays of his flashlight. He was only 30 feet away. Bardsley escaped, however, and returned to his home, where he phoned Sheriff William Groneweg at Council Bluffs and told him that he had been shot on his own farm by thieves who attempted to steal his automobile.

He was brought to the Jenette Edmundson hospital in this city, suffering from wounds in his head and lower limbs.

An information was sworn out in justice court yesterday by Zimmerman, charging Bardley with violation of the state law by mingling poison with food. A warrant for his arrest was served upon him in the hospital, and he is held pending his preliminary arraignment on the charge.

The bag dropped in the Zimmerman barnyard was found to contain a substance thought to be caustic potash, a manufactured product containing lye and quick lime. A spade, dropped by him at the same time, was also found. Zimmerman's initials were on the handle.

Harding Refuses Offer of Vessel For Panama Trip

President-Elect Thanks Wilson for Tender of Battleship, But Says Arrangements Are Completed.

Marion, O., Nov. 5.—President Wilson's offer of a battleship to carry President-elect Harding to Panama on his vacation voyage, was declined today by Mr. Harding.

The president-elect wired to Washington that although he was thankful for Mr. Wilson's courtesy, he already had perfected his plans for the trip and has engaged passage south from a gulf port on a passenger steamer.

The sailing plans of the Harding party have been the subject of considerable negotiations between Harding headquarters and steamship companies and although the first impression of officials here was that use of a battleship would offer a welcome solution, the senator himself decided he would prefer to keep the booking agreement already made. He sent his message to Secretary Daniels, who had transmitted the president's offer.

"I most gratefully acknowledge your gracious telegram in which you convey the president's thoughtful courtesy in directing a warship to be placed at my disposal for a contemplated trip to Panama, along with the use of the Mayflower for connection at Hampton Roads. Please assure the president of my grateful appreciation of his consideration, but I cannot accept because I am traveling by railroad to a vacation point in Texas and I have booked my bunk from a Gulf port to Panama."

"I thank you also for your courtesy."
