

Congress Called Upon to Decide Japanese Issue

Oriental Eager to Settle Land Controversy on Basis of Undertaking to Stop Future Migration.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Local Wire. Washington, Nov. 11.—Whether Japan immigrants shall be excluded from the United States hereafter by statute or by agreement with Japanese government is a question which congress shortly will be called upon to determine.

Japan is eager to settle the California land controversy on a basis of Japanese undertaking to prevent further Japanese immigration to the United States and America undertaking to safeguard the property rights of Japanese already in this country.

The Wilson administration appears disposed to compromise in the differences with Japan in line with this proposed compromise, which has been the subject of negotiation by the two governments for several months.

It is assumed that Japan will prefer to give a guarantee of the exclusion of her nationals from the United States in the form of a new and more stringent "gentlemen's agreement" replacing the present informal agreement, which never had been published textually.

Even if the Wilson administration should effect this settlement and submit a treaty embodying it to the senate this winter, it is a foregone conclusion that it would not be ratified and that consideration of the whole matter would be postponed until after the inauguration of Mr. Harding.

Governor Stephens and other California leaders maintain that the Japanese question never will be settled permanently until the "gentlemen's agreement" is abrogated, Japanese excluded by statute and Japanese property being rights protected by the California referendum measure.

The question of moving to terminate the treaty and of excluding Japanese by statute will be considered by the house immigration committee when it resumes here next week, the hearings on the oriental issue held on the Pacific coast last summer.

Fokker Predicts Big Strides in Aviation During Next Decade

New York, Nov. 11.—A. H. G. Fokker, inventor and builder of wartime combat airplanes, arrived today from Rotterdam. The Fokker was the swiftest pursuit plane used by the Germans on the western front.

Mr. Fokker, who said as a pilot-landed, he had taken no personal part in Germany's war operations over the allied lines, predicted rapid advances in the art of flying in the near future.

"Within the next five or 10 years," he said, "people will be able to cross the Atlantic in less than a day and in much more comfort than in travel by steamer."

The development of directional wireless, he added, would enable pilots to fly by night and in murky weather, as well as on clear days.

The greatest need of aviation at present, he said, was construction of flying machines capable of landing on and taking off from small areas, such as the roof of buildings.

Secretary of State Denies President Wilson Is Worse

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary of State Colby undertook to stem the tide of rumors that President Wilson is a sicker man than the public has been led to believe. He broke silence on the subject when his attention was called to a cablegram from London quoting American Ambassador Davis as saying that the president was much sicker than people believed and that he realized he would not be able to participate further in politics.

"I can hardly credit that," said Secretary Colby. "I happen to know the president is steadily gaining. President Wilson's condition is a source of satisfaction to his friends and his gain in health has been for several months steady and unobstructed."

Parties With Rich Girl Lead to Jail

"Send Me Over the Road," Says Youth, When Maid Ignores Him.

Gay parties with a wealthy young Omaha girl are blamed by Harold Swenson, Iowa youth, automobile tire clerk for an Omaha firm, for his predicament.

Swenson was arrested Wednesday night for forgery and is held without bond for further investigation. He is accused of forging checks on his mother in Iowa.

His salary was insufficient to stand the strain of the parties, he said, and his mother honored checks he cashed on her until the last five.

"She turned the last five down," he said, "because my stepfather would not stand for the seeming extravagance."

The youth called the young girl for whom he staged the parties on the telephone shortly after his arrest, and pleaded with her to get him out of jail.

"Send me over the road," he said. "She told me her father wouldn't let her and besides she was washing her hair."

Dignity Marks Observance of Armistice Day

No Wild Uproar or Hubbub In Omaha on Second Anniversary—Silent Tribute Is Paid.

Two years ago yesterday Omaha was filled with hubbub and jubilation and joy.

Business was forgotten, and shouting, laughing, singing crowds paraded the streets trying to give vent to their joy with all manner of noise.

For a great event had happened. The greatest war of all history had ended. The central powers had cried "enough." The hated kaiser had fled to Holland. The suspense of the thousands whose loved ones were "over there" was at an end and they looked forward once more to the reunion.

As things were in Omaha on that great day, so they were all over the world.

"Armistice day" was observed in Omaha yesterday informally. It is not a holiday, legal nor by proclamation. But the people remember, nevertheless, the thrill of the big day two years ago.

A moment of silence was observed in all the public schools at 11 yesterday morning, the moment when the war came to an official close, when the thunder of the artillery at the front suddenly was succeeded by silence, when soldiers embraced each other and danced and cheered at the prospect of home-going.

Last night the American Legion gave a dance in the Auditorium. At 10 o'clock there was a pageant in which Richard Wood was "Uncle Sam," Edith Standaev was "Columbia" and Emma Hansen "The Greatest Mother in the World."

Fifteen degrees above zero was registered by the official Omaha thermometer at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, a new season low record.

Lander, Wyo., came to the fore again Wednesday night as the coldest place in the United States, with a temperature of eight degrees below zero.
