President Dartignave Says He Is Unable to Prove Existence of Homicide or Violence.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 12.—(By The Associated Press)—Sudre Dartignave, president of the republic of Haiti, testifying yesterday before the martial board of inquiry, declared he had no official knowledge of the charge of indiscriminate killing of natives by United States marines. Speaking through an interpreter, the president said he was without means of proving the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by the marines, adding: "They have been accused by public clamor."

Hearing Is Adjourned.

M. Dartignave was the only witness testifying and after he had left the chair, Judge Advocate Dyer announced he had no further witnesses or evidence. The court then adjourned to reassemble upon call by Admiral Henry T. Mayo, president of the board of inquiry, and it is not probable another session will be held before next week.

The Haitian president, with democratic simplicity, walked from the palace to the court room, climbing the two flights of stairs. He expressed his pleasure in informing the United States government what he knew. Answering a direct question if he had knowledge regarding alleged indiscriminate killings, he said:

Evidence is Hearsay.

"Officially, no. I have heard of regrettable acts perpetrated at Hinche, St. Marc, Croixes, Douquais, Grande Revere du Nord, Mirebalais and Las Cabañas. When people have been reproached for not having kept the government informed of all that was being said, the answer, rightly or wrongly, has been they were afraid of being caught by martial law. Victims or their parents have never brought their grievances to me because leaders of the revolution gave them to understand there was no Haitian chief of state."

More Reasoning Needed to Solve Irish Problems

Removal of Outside Influences Would Bring Harmony Among Factions.

Less feeling and more reasoning on the question of Irish independence as a means of solving the Irish problem was advanced by Rev. Owen R. Lovejoy, chairman of the Protestant Friends of Ireland's executive committee, who arrived in Omaha yesterday from New York to speak at the Brandeis theater.

In his room at the Hotel Fontenelle yesterday morning Mr. Lovejoy calmly discussed the principal objections to Irish independence, explaining each point with no show of feeling.

"It is claimed there is a division between Ulster and south Ireland, but the removal of outside influence would bring the factions together on friendly terms," asserted Mr. Lovejoy.

"It is also claimed the move for Irish independence is a plot promulgated by the Roman Catholic church, but no proof has been advanced. During the last half century half of the leaders for Irish independence have been Protestants.

"Again, it is said that Ulster would be subjugated by the Catholic majority," continued Mr. Lovejoy. "That is no more true than any of the other assertions. Ulster would be no more subjugated than are the Protestants in O'Neil, Neb. In one Catholic stronghold in Ireland a Protestant mayor was recently elected by a huge majority."

Business of America.

"The spirit of co-operation and friendship between Catholic and Protestant in Ireland is stronger than in this country. To the man who says the Irish question is not the business of this country I call attention to the situation in Belgium when invaded by the Germans."

Mr. Lovejoy asserted the Irish home rule bill which was passed yesterday by the House of Commons would not aid in the solution of the Irish question.

In his discussion at the Brandeis theater tonight he will lay emphasis on the economic phases of the situation.

Mr. Lovejoy, who is a Congregational minister, also is active in child welfare work and was guest at a luncheon given by children's welfare workers at the University club at noon.

Liberal Member Of Parliament Is Tried in Court

Lt. Col. Malone Arraigned Under Defense of Realm Act Prohibiting Language Likely to Incite Sedition.

London, Nov. 12.—Lieut. Col. L. E. Malone, liberal member of the House of Commons for the division of Leyton, who was arrested Wednesday night in Dublin, where he had gone by invitation to speak in a debate on bolshevism, was arraigned in Bow street police court today under the section of the defense of the realm act prohibiting the use of language likely to cause sedition among the civilian population.

The proceedings arose from a speech delivered by Lieutenant Colonel Malone in Albert hall here last Sunday. The case was adjourned for a week and the defendant was released in £2,000 bail. A large crowd of sympathizers outside cheered him as he left the court.

Humphrey Travers, the crown prosecutor, declared Colonel Malone's speech was nothing less than an "incitement to murder." He quoted the following passage from the speech in question:

"The Russian revolution taught us the humbug of the old Parliament. . . . I hope the day will soon come when we shall meet here to pass a blessing on the British revolution—when you meet here as delegates of the first All-British congress of workers, sailors and soldiers."

"When that day comes, woe to all those people who get in our way. We are out to change the present constitution, and if it is necessary, to have bloodshed and atrocities, we shall have to use the lamp posts or the few Curzons on lamp posts compared with the misery of thousands of human beings."

Chicago Girl Held In San Francisco in $5,500 Forgery Case

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Dorothy Peters, pretty 22-year-old nurse, who says her parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dean of Chicago, was arrested here today, together with Stanley E. Holmes, and charged with forgery. Detectives say that both Miss Peters and Holmes have confessed to obtaining $5,500 from the Anglo-California Trust company by a check made out to Miss Peters to which the name of H. D. Pillsbury was forged by Holmes.

They later divided the loot, according to the confession. Holmes was formerly a bookkeeper in the bank and is said to have taken one of Pillsbury's checks with him when he was discharged for incompetency. From this he traced the signature, made it payable to Miss Peters and she cashed it by opening a savings account. Two days later she is said to have withdrawn her account. Police are investigating her Chicago connections.

Pillsbury is a member of a law firm here. A third man who is believed to have shared in the loot has not been arrested as yet.

Foreign Demand For Coal Causes Prices to Stay Up

Was Only Minor Factor However in Keeping Domestic Prices High According to Report of Committee.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Foreign demand for American coal was an important factor in high domestic coal prices along the Atlantic seaboard during the first nine months of this year, but it was only a minor factor in the creation of high coal prices for the country as a whole, the Interstate Commerce commission declares in a report made public today and prepared on request of the senate last June.

"The foreign demand intensified the abnormal domestic demand and several factors together afforded an opportunity for the exacting of prices not justified by the cost of production," said the report.

During the first nine months of 1920 the commission's table shows that a total of 33,273,379 tons of coal left the country, of which 23,560,013 tons was exported coal and 6,713,366 tons was for foreign bunkers.

With an estimated production of 357,142,857 tons for the first nine months of 1920 the export and foreign bunker coal for the nine months was 8.5 per cent of the estimated total production," the commission declares.
