

American Bureau Federation Has Million Members.

Newcomer Among Farmers Organizations Has 35 State Boards Affiliated With It.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—J. R. Howard, president of the American farm bureau federation, announces that the federation has now over a million members and has 35 state organizations affiliated with it. The national federation took permanent form here last spring and established headquarters in Chicago this last summer.

Sketching the character of this newcomer among the national farm organizations, together with its program, Mr. Howard, himself an Iowa farmer, said:

"The federation is an alliance of county farm bureaus into state farm bureau federations, and this in turn became federated into a national organization as the American farm bureau federation.

"Its purpose is to work for the economic, social and educational advancement of the farmers of the United States and for the general welfare of the nation. It is proposed to develop this work by means of bureaus.

"Our bureau of agricultural economics and statistics has already been set up. It will make a study of costs of production of the principal agricultural products and will direct and compile statistics in co-operation with the department of agriculture and various state agencies. This work will give a much better insight into the supply and demand of agricultural products, with the thought that this will lead to more efficient marketing.

"Our bureau of transportation is making a study of necessary transportation facilities, both by land and by water, for the marketing of our farm crops. The purpose of this bureau is to get at the real facts in the transportation problem and govern its actions accordingly. It purposes to establish rate and traffic files, which have never yet been built up for agricultural products.

"The bureau of trades relations will make a study of world supply and world demand. This information, coupled with the work of the farm economics and statistics bureau, will give us accurate world-wide knowledge upon which to base our plans.

"We are already undertaking important investigations in co-operation with the establishment of a bureau of co-operation. This will make a study in the country and abroad, with the thought that special industries interested in forming a local or district co-operative organization may profit by the experience of other people in similar enterprises before starting their undertaking.

"The bureau of education which we have planned, but which has not yet been started, will present facts relative to the food supply and other necessities produced by agriculture to the daily papers in order that there may be a more general understanding of agricultural production and a closer relationship between producer and consumer.

Ex-Ruler's Brothers Declare Plebiscite to Again Enthroning Him

Rome, Nov. 19.—Princes Andreas and Christophoros of Greece, brothers of former King Constantine, stated to The Associated Press today that they believed the plebiscite for the purpose of deciding upon the occupant of the throne would be held next week. They declared it would be a demonstration in favor of Constantine that would eclipse that of the recent election in that country.

"The present attitude of the Greek people," said Prince Andreas, "must not be considered as a condemnation of the foreign policy of former Premier Venizelos. Constantine never favored a policy against the interests of the entente. Reports stating he concluded a secret understanding with the central empires were absolutely false."

Britisher Urges Germany Be Made League Member

Immediate Admission of All Enemy Countries Advocated By Labor Representative of Great Britain.

Geneva, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Immediate admission of Germany and the other former enemy states to the league of nations was urged today by the assembly of the league today by George Nicoll Barnes of the British delegation. Representing, as he did, the laboring people of Great Britain, said Mr. Barnes, he knew the great majority of them demanded that all the enemy states be admitted without delay.

The British delegate recalled the fact that Germany had taken part already in the deliberations of the international labor bureau, established by the league. "The people of Great Britain, whom I represent here," he said, "do not forget that the central empires plunged the world into war. They do not forget the misery and devastation caused. But the question now is to rescue the world from ruin, and the co-operation of the former enemy states is needed."

Many Reasons Given. In reinforcing his argument for speedy membership of ex-enemy states in the league, Mr. Barnes referred to the instability of present economic conditions and the anomalies in exchange.

"What is needed above all," he said, "is greater production and the utmost freedom in business transactions between the different countries, and this is unobtainable as long as the world is divided into two camps."

The assembly, which customarily listens to a speaker without manifesting its sentiments until he has finished his remarks, broke into general applause at this point.

"Countries kept out from association with us will form an association of their own," the British delegate added, "and we shall return to the dangerous pre-war system of alliances."

Wilson's Message Read.

At the opening of today's session of the assembly of the league of nations, Paul Hymans, the president, read a reply from President Wilson to the message sent to Washington by the assembly on Monday.

George Nicol Barnes, a British delegate, then took the floor to begin discussion of the report of the council of the league.
