

Poultry Show Starts Today at City Auditorium

Record Numbers and Varieties Entered in Seventh Annual Exhibit; Game Cocks to Box.

Omaha's seventh annual six-day poultry exhibit, under the auspices of the Omaha Poultry association, will open in the Auditorium today.

More than 2,000 fowls of 35 different varieties, as well as several varieties of ducks and pheasants will be on display.

Tonight a junior class of children from Clay Center, Neb., who have won prizes in national exhibits, will feature the program in a demonstration of the care and breeding of poultry.

Several booths will be nicely decorated and filled with prize-winning birds which have been entered in national shows.

Feels Confident.
With a larger variety and amount of birds than have ever been put on exhibition before in Omaha, Arthur L. Edson, secretary of the association, said he feels confident that he show will attract thousands more enthusiasts interested in the raising and breeding of poultry than attended last year.

Large Entry List.
There is a large entry list of barred Rocks and White Leghorns of all classes.

Every effort is being made to make this year's poultry exhibit the best and most interesting ever held in Omaha.

The United States Department of Poultry Husbandry will take an active part in the exhibit and will furnish two carloads of pens for handling the poultry.

The Nebraska Rabbit Breeders' association will have an exhibit of more than 200 rabbits, including New Zealand, Flemish Giants, Ruby Reds, and fancy birds.

A varied display of honey products will be put on exhibition by the Douglas County Producers' association.

Experts on poultry husbandry of national reputation will lecture each evening.

The Omaha Boys and Girls Poultry club will have a coop of ring-necked pheasants on display. Further features will be "humane" fights each night between game cocks, which will be equipped with "boxing gloves" and muzzles of rubber to prevent serious wounds being inflicted during the battles.

Prizes will be offered for chickens on exhibit in competition. Announcement of the winners will be made Friday night.

On Wednesday evening every lady attending the show will be presented with a flower.

Tuesday evening there will be a guessing contest. Chickens will be given corn to eat. The one guessing the nearest to the amount actually consumed by the fowl will be awarded a prize of a chicken.

There will be no music during the show, because fowls do not like music. No admission will be charged to the show.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

OUR LADY OF THE SNOWS

A Yankee, who in Montreal
Would fain have got a bun
(This happened early in the fall)
Was told it wasn't done.
The barkeep whispered with a wink:
"Though Montreal may thirst
We feel, that in dispensing drink
The U. S. A. comes first.
And though no customers are barred
From sipping beer and wine,
All liquor of the kind called hard
Is sent across the line."

Another Yankee in Quebec,
With an expectant grin,
-Allowed he'd like to wrap his neck
Around a slug of gin.
But a Quebecian, suave and bland,
Said in a soothing tone;
"The need, sir, of your native land
Is greater than our own.
For gin your parching lips to love
You here will seek in vain.
The liquor of the sort you crave
Has all been shipped to Maine."

Thus Sidney, stretched upon the field
Made desolate by war,
Was generously moved to yield
The cup he needed sore.
And thus the Lady of the North
Observes a suffering land
Forgets all self, and stretches forth
A moist and helping hand.
The liquor that would bear her past
The winter's snow and ice
From her own table she has cast,
With noble sacrifice.

A LETTER FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garnett, Kas.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to be on my feet but very little and could not do my housework at all. I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a curb-stone. One day one of your booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There was so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."

American Hen Reigns Supreme In Omaha Today

Great Educational Exhibit of Fowls Attracts Widespread Attention; Admission Will Be Free.

By EARL M. WHITNEY.

The seventh annual exhibition of the Omaha Poultry association will open this morning at the Omaha Auditorium. Until Friday evening the great American hen is to reign supreme.

Through the liberality of Omaha business men and poultry fanciers, admission to the show will be free. This is an unusual procedure and has gained for the Omaha show, nationwide publicity. It marks a forward step in poultry show development and other cities will do well to follow the plan of the local association, not only in this one respect, but also as regards the educational features.

In addition to all the popular varieties of standard-bred fowls, there will be exhibited many rare specimens of birds that the public seldom sees. There perhaps is no better method of determining the one variety of poultry you wish to raise, than to visit the poultry show and by comparison of the large number of different varieties, make your selection of the particular variety you like the best. It is generally conceded by all experienced poultrymen that the variety you like the best is the one you will be most successful with.

Big Government Exhibit.

The poultry division of the United States bureau of animal industry will be on hand with a display from the government farms at Beltsville. The exhibit will be in charge of F. E. Mussch and H. M. Wells and old-time fanciers as well as amateurs will find it interesting and instructive.

There will be a culling demonstration daily by the champion team of three children, known as the Inland team, which won over 12 competitors at Sioux City. The demonstration will also include the crack team from Clay Center, Neb. The Omaha organization enjoys the distinction of being the first large show of the country to recognize the utility class and to place premiums on eggs as well. It is required that all birds entered in the utility class be purebreds of a standard breed, but they need not have show type or coloring further than to establish the variety to which they belong.

J. W. Welch, president of the association, is a poultry fancier, of nine years' standing. It is a hobby with him and like many others, he is devoting his efforts to the production of birds of high egg yield, having imported some of the famous Tom Barron strain from England for this purpose. Mr. Welch was one of the winners in the recent American egg laying contest at Leavenworth, Kan., where birds from all sections of the country were entered in a competition lasting a year. The contest birds will be exhibited at the show.

Following are other officers of the association: S. E. Munson, vice president; Fred A. Morgan, treasurer; Arthur L. Edson, secretary.

Judges, A. C. Smith, E. C. Branch, George M. Wells and Eric Smiley will place the awards and many of the largest poultry breeders of the west will be among those competing for first honors.

Experts of the United States Department of Agriculture have developed a machine that gathers the heads from clover as it is driven over a field so that the seed can be obtained.

The old reliable, proven remedy for Fowl Cholera, Canker, Swelled Head, Bowel Trouble, Shuffles, Wounds, Scabs, Loss of Fur or Feathers, Skin Diseases, Etc.

M. A. Kiser, 504 N. Long Ave., Chicago, Ill., says: "I had none of the worst kind of cases of scabs in my chickens and I thought I would not care any but I have used three bottles, thanks to Germonozone." R. A. Haines, Hialeah, Fla.: "If we had tried Germonozone at first it would have saved us $1,000 worth of expensive experiments."

Mrs. Z. A. Miller, Dallas, Mich.: "Have used Germonozone for years and could not get along without it." E. W. Tied, Washburn, Wis.: "I have used your Germonozone for white diarrhoea in baby chicks and sure got wonderful results. I also use it right along on grown fowls."

Germonozone is sold by mail, drug, and poultry supply dealers, or mailed prepaid in 15c, 50c and $1.50 packages, from Omaha, Poultry Book and Book on Diseases FREE.

Light the Hen Houses and Increase Egg Yield

Increased egg yield in winter may be effected by the use of artificial lights in the hen houses from October 1 to April 1. Experiments along this line have been especially successful in northern latitudes where the days are much shorter during those months than farther south. The lights, electric or otherwise, may be turned on about 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning and kept burning until daylight and turned on again in the afternoon about 3 or 4 o'clock, depending upon the cloudiness of the day. The fowls will eat more food, take more exercise, and lay more eggs at the same time keeping healthier through the increased exercise, it is said. Those who have electricity available may well try this out this winter—The World-Herald, Oct. 25, 1920.

Common Sense

THE TIGHTWAD AND SELF-DENIAL.

By J. J. Mundy.

That man in your department known to you as a tightwad may have expenses of which you know nothing, and he may have urgent use for every cent he can earn. He may be paying for some property at a time when you are worrying because you have to move from the place you rent, and he and his family may be secure in a home of their own, just because he has been so saving as to earn from you the title of "tightwad."

So-called "tightwads" are usually laughed at at first, but before many years the laugh may be turned the other way.

The man who has sense enough to lay aside or save by investment for the rainy day, when wages are high, is a mighty sensible individual.

He sets an example you would do well to follow.

It is not because he would not enjoy spending money that he cuts his pleasures and his everyday expenses to bare necessities.

The question is rather to deny himself now and enjoy more comfort and less worry in the future. After all, is it not a sensible plan to save carefully while you have the opportunity?

Parents Problems

At what age should children be taught to "tell time," and how is this best taught?

Children vary as to when they learn to "tell time," some learn when 4 or 5 years old, and others when much older. A clock face, made of cardboard, is a helpful device; the clock itself is a still better one. Explain the matter in the simplest way possible; and do not explain it all at one sitting. Begin with supper time: Say, "This is the little hand, at 6; this is the big hand at 12; it is 6 o'clock, supper time." Then, on another day, take another bedtime time, such as breakfast, or bedtime, and explain in the same way.

I'M THE GUY

I'M THE GUY who delivers lectures at the movies. The pictures are all wrong. Why shouldn't I say what I think of it. I don't understand how the people who are paid for seeing that such things are correct, let such glaring errors get by. It makes me boil. It doesn't do any good to write to the producers; they pay no attention to you. So all I can do is to tell the world what I think of the picture.

Besides it gives me an opening to show how much I know. And I proceed to tell about the story;
