Children Can Hardly Believe Their Eyes When They Visit

TOYTOWN

There is so much to see and hear that you will have to come day after day to see it all. There is always something new going on that you haven't seen before.

There is Santa Claus waiting to find out what every little boy and girl wants for Christmas; there is "Peter Pan," the cunning little pony that is the delight of every one that sees him, for he can do all kinds of tricks, can answer questions, dance, and many other things that real actors do; there is a cage of real live monkeys, and then there is an orchestra of five children, who play for the pony and have regular concerts.

And the toys—there are so many that you can't begin to describe them all—toys that you have never seen before and toys that every child must have at all times.

Among the many are
