Offering Christmas Suggestions

DON'T they just burst upon you—those Christmas decorations on the main floor? I think the real reason why they put posts between the floors is so that there will be convenient places to hang gorgeous decorations.

Pine Forests

JUST like a brilliant trading post in the North Woods—if one can imagine a forest of Christmas trees with lights and tinsel and presents right on the trees! And, truly, the new racks built above counters purposely for Christmas display are just like big Christmas trees themselves. And the spirit of Christmas is carried clear above.

Timberline!

FOR there on the east wall the forest comes to an end and we see the cold, snow-covered heights of pearly mountain peaks; and forgetting the warm brightness of the forest I drew my furs tighter and shivered.

Cocktails

ABSOLUTELY necessary to start off the Christmas dinner. Just three things are essential—good oysters, good cocktail dressing and good oyster forks. I saw a charming little set in Community plate at the silverware counter—just six little forks in a satin lined box. They are the Colonial style, but you can get them in several patterns—and they engrave them, too.

Rare

SUCH Cluny pieces as they have in the linen department. A scarf I saw there had a center of purest linen with wide border of hand-made lace. It is in the 18x36-inch size, convenient and practical, yet of amazing beauty. Other Cluny pieces are lunch cloths, doilies and table runners.

Komfy Kicks

I SAW some bedroom slippers of wine-colored felt with soft leather sole; silken pom-pom on the instep closes the border of floral decoration that is hand painted! I'd pass up the movies any evening just to sit in my room with a book and a pair of these.

Dainty Fingers

THOSE Cutex sets in the drug department are the most complete supplies one could wish. An ivory buffer, emery board and orange stick, together with all of the Cutex preparations, compactly arranged in boxes of three sizes—for handbag, traveling or bureau.

Page Darwin

IF THERE isn't a bond of blood relationship there's a bond of real sympathy between us and "Punk," the comedy jockey, whose capers keep the audience chuckling at the Toyland Dog and Pony Shows. While the canine trouper are content to ride the royal little Shetlands, "Punk" mounts to the shoulders of the master of the show and proves himself a more accomplished if less considerate jockey. I noticed, too, that the good

Old Alibi

ABOUT "taking Willie to the circus" holds good here, and the audience comprises a goodly proportion of chaperons. Myself, I watched the entire performance with absorbing interest and the result is—I have more respect for ponies and dogs, monkeys and men than ever. The show is arranged just for the girls and boys—particularly for those between the ages of six months and sixty years. The performances are given at 11 A. M., 2 and 4 P. M.

Just the thing to wear under your thin frocks and diaphanous waists. No. 1503 is made of lace and pink satin, with a low V neck and dainty ribbon shoulder-straps. Sizes 34 to 44.
