

Timely Photographs Gay and Grave, Right in the News

Wonderful aerial photograph of the enormous Yale bowl, scene of many great football battles. Picture was taken during Yale's game with Brown University. Note the thousands of motor cars parked all about and the clearness of the lines of the gridiron.
Photo, Underwood & Underwood.

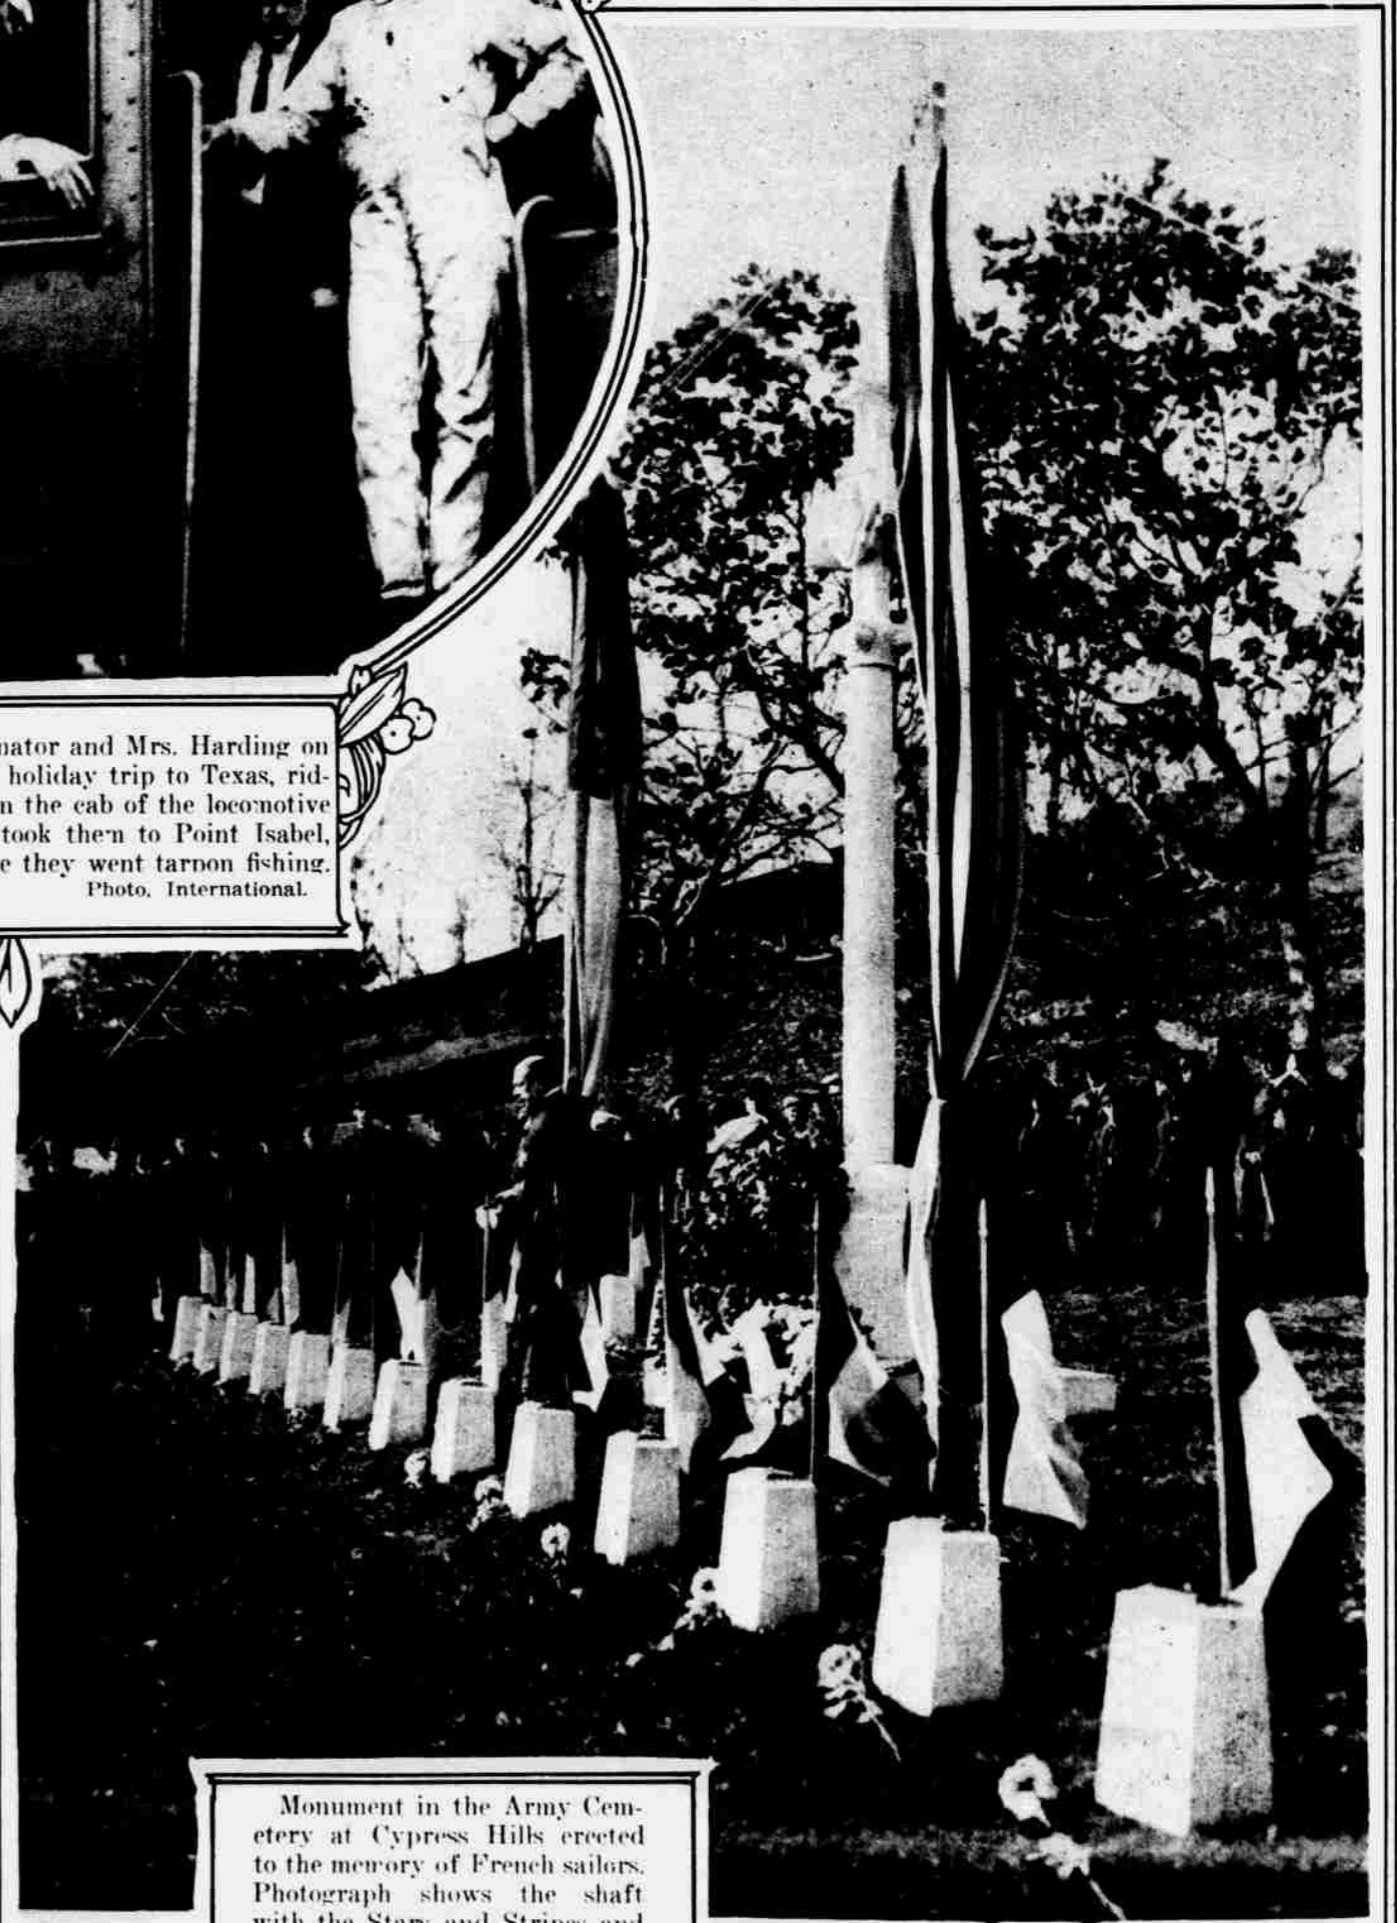

Above—Armistice Day services over the graves of twenty-five French sailors who died in American waters. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia delivering the address in Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn.
Photo, International.

Senator and Mrs. Harding on their holiday trip to Texas, riding in the cab of the locomotive that took them to Point Isabel, where they went tarpon fishing.
Photo, International.

At right—Sergeant Archie A. Peek, only enlisted man in the Seventy-seventh Division to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, being presented with the Victory medal by Col. Raymond Sheldon at the Seventh Regiment Armory Armistice Day celebration.
Photo, International.

Monument in the Army Cemetery at Cypress Hills erected to the memory of French sailors. Photograph shows the shaft with the Stars and Stripes and Tricolor drawn aside.
Photo, International.

Photo, International.