CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Christmas Gifts for Saturday

Be Great?"

observed December 25, the men and women of the world failed to renew the fighting and the quarreling? Wouldn't life be more than worth the living if after keeping Christmas in the form, by filling the children's stockings on Christmas eve and exchanging gifts and salutations with friends on Christmas day, we kept Christmas in the heart for the balance of the year?

One writer gave us a hint when he said that the kindness and good cheer generally prevalent during the Christmas season represents the normal condition of society when it shall reach that perfection possible among human beings.

Wouldn't it be great if in their everyday relations men could feel that softening influence: "The kids have come in."

Our Cafeteria

Open Every Night till 9 p. m.

Beginning Saturday, December 18, and continuing up to and including Christmas Eve, our new cafeteria will be open every night until 9 o'clock. Father, brother or lover can come directly from his place of business and meet the ones he loves best for evening dinner here. Then they can shop together—or separately if they don't want the secret to get out. Try the new cafeteria—you will not regret it.

Trappers Fewer This Year Than For Years Past

Less Than Five Per Cent Usual Number of Fur Animals Being Caught for Pelts, Officials Say.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 17.—Less than 5 per cent the usual number of fur-bearing animals in Nebraska are being trapped for their pelts this year, according to buyers and state game officials. Fewer pelts are available this year than in history, buyers report. It is not that there is a noticeable scarcity of animals, but because hunters refuse to trap and sell pelts at present prices.

Pelts of all fur-bearing animals are netting trappers less money than in years. Muskrat pelts last year brought trappers from $3 to $3.25. This year the quotation is from 25 to 50 cents. The exceptionally fine pelt, buyers say, will bring $1. Mink, raccoon, opossum, otter and skunk pelts also are low in price, and very few trappers are reported to be searching for animals.

Coon Pelts Drop. Buyers are paying from $2 to $7 for coon pelts this year. A year ago just an ordinary coon pelt brought trappers $8, and fine specimens twice that sum.

The trapping season in Nebraska is nearly half over. It began November 1 and continues until February 15. In previous years the season continued until March 20.

Charles N. Cadwallader, head of a local fur buying company, says his company last year handled more than 75,000 muskrat pelts. "We do not expect to handle more than 10 per cent of that number this year," he said. Trappers tell Mr. Cadwallader they can make more money husking corn this year.

Won't Reduce Prices. Mr. Cadwallader is of the opinion that present low prices of raw furs will not bring about a reduction in finished articles. "The shortage of pelts on the fur markets," he said, "will keep the price of the finished articles up to present quotations."

In the northwest section of Nebraska in the lake region, fur-bearing animals, especially muskrat and mink, are said to be as numerous as usual this year. Low prices, however, have discouraged trappers going after them.

Another thing that has discouraged trappers this year is that they are compelled to take out state licenses, costing $2, before they can trap. This is the first year the trapping license law has been rigidly enforced.

Employers' Challenge To Labor Is Accepted By Federation Chief

New York, Dec. 17.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address here last night accepted the challenge of employers, who he said, "seek to destroy labor unions" and negative the principles established by unionism.

"American labor accepts the challenge of the employers and will not be driven back from its advantages," he declared. "Let those who are opposing our movement beware. Those who are working for our destruction beware."

One of the first acts of the newly organized labor body was the adoption of resolutions calling upon President Wilson and the State department to protest against the British atrocities in Ireland and also against the burning of buildings in Cork. Another resolution asked that Thomas Mooney, Warren K. Billings and James Larkin be released from imprisonment before Christmas.

Platte County Lays Off

Patrolmen on Federal Road Columbus, Neb., Dec. 17.—(Special.)—Acting on orders from Supervisor Peterson, County Clerk George H. Bender laid off the seven patrolmen who have been looking after the condition of federal aid roads in Platte county. The action was taken in the interest of economy.
