

Little Ones Suffer As Biting Cold Nips At Shoeless Feet

So Here's a Fine Way to Make Their Xmas and Yours Happier—Contribute to The Bee Shoe Fund.

Bitter weather—biting wind and snow and ice!

Tender little feet of the children of the very poor.

The Bee's Free Shoe fund supplies shoes to an army of ragged waifs, most of them the little children of hard-tolling widows whose life is a continuous struggle.

Every cent of the money goes to buy shoes for deserving little children whose feet are exposed to winter's chilling blasts.

EVERY cent goes for this purpose. No salary or "rake-off" for anyone.

If you have anything to spare send it to the Bee office to buy a pair of warm shoes for some little waif who is waiting in the list.

Boy Scouts Guests Of Rotary Club

Major Mat Tinley of Council Bluffs Chief Speaker at Yuletide Meeting.

The Yuletide spirit predominated at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club, following their noonday luncheon in the Rome hotel yesterday, when more than 114 Omaha Boy Scouts were guests of the members.

Charles Gardner and George C. Cunningham, dressed in boy scout uniforms made a hit as they led the members in song and provided other means of entertainment. Outside their captivating roles, they acted as real Santas, when they presented a score of the reliable members with the things that "Santa Claus brought them."

After the Yuletide celebration, Chairman A. C. Scott introduced Maj. Mat Tinley of Council Bluffs, who delivered a stirring address on "Democratic Discipline," in which he eulogized Rotarians, stating that the discipline which exists in the United States has its fundamental workings in such organizations as the Boy Scouts and Rotary club.

"These youngsters," the major declared, "will make good Rotarians when they grow to manhood, because they are now laying the foundations which develop a well-disciplined citizenry. A soldier is no good without discipline. A citizen is no good without discipline. It is democratic discipline which won the war for the allied powers—the kind that is developed here in the United States. That great struggle resolved itself into a contest between those two great forces—democratic discipline and Prussian autocracy. The mobilization of all the life forces of our nation—industrial, financial, agricultural, social, military and naval—constituted this democratic discipline."

Youngest War Veteran Much Impressed With Industries of Omaha

Miroslav Marek, 17, youngest world war veteran, now visiting in Omaha, will have much to tell his adopted father, T. G. Masaryk, president of Czechoslovakia, about the wonders of America when he returns to Europe.

Though the youthful veteran has experienced the horrors and sorrows of war in seven countries in Europe from Siberia to Egypt, he was thrilled with new surprises yesterday when he was escorted through Omaha industrial plants.

The youth is touring the United States at the personal expense of his father, whose life he saved at Moscow, early in 1919, when the bolsheviks attempted to blow up the hotel where Masaryk was signing official papers. He will leave Omaha today for Denver, whence he will go to Pacific coast cities.

Walking With Pleasure

There is a glow of happiness in a good walk. Nature rewards your effort by lifting the shadows from the mind and taking the kinks out of the body.

Following a great misfortune, or in the midst of the doldrums, men and women instinctively turn to a brisk walk for relief. It's the balm of Gilead that Nature offers to one who will "give her a chance."

Nature will correct foot ills, or keep them away. But you must "give her a chance." Shoes that bind the feet, pinch the toes, restrain the free action of the arch muscles, impede the blood circulation, will inevitably cause Nature to cry out—first in pain, later in real illness such as fallen arches, backache, headache, nervousness.

Can't you see how Nature wants her only desire—to keep you well and comfortable and happy. They are good looking shoes, with flexible (not rigid) arch, toe-room, snug but easy fit.

They are recommended by foot experts, by educational authorities and by a host of women who find them comfortable and agreeable.
