Sharp Advance in Prices Traced to War Conditions Public Goes on "Strike" And Value Tumbles.

By International News Service. New York, Dec. 31.—The stock market passed through an eventful period-through a period of read justment following the war during which values were driven up to dizzy heights far beyond their true levels. Just as sharp as had been the advance earlier in the year, just so sharp were the declines which followed when stocks were driven down to their true levels. so precipitate did the decline brcome that toward the latter part of the year-in November-bany sues were forced down far below their intrinsic values. The advance in prices can easily be traced to the natural effect of war conditions. Salaries were high-Bushels in 1920 war conditions. Salaries were highwas rampant. Everybody seemed imbued with the fever to invest money into something that would bring immediate and big returns. The people had to have some out let for their excess funds and the stock market furnished the medium. An era of luxury buying set in
