

South Side Dold Packing Firm On Profit Sharing Basis

Buffalo Man Placed in Charge of Skinner Packing Plant As Omaha Branch.

One month after signing the lease for the Skinner Packing company plant on the South Side, the Dold Packing company has the plant in full operation.

J. C. Dold, president of the Jacob Dold Packing company signed the lease. His son, Ralph S. Dold, is in charge of the Omaha branch.

Mr. Dold is a native of Buffalo, N. Y., where his father founded the Dold Packing company in 1826.

This new firm has plants in Buffalo, Kansas City, Mo., Wichita, Kans., and Omaha.

The Dold Packing company is operating the Skinner Packing company upon a profit-sharing plan. They pay no rentals, but turn over to the stockholders of the Skinner Packing company half of the profits as rentals.

The firm of Ernst & Ernst audit the records of the plant and upon their findings the profits will be determined.

"We have the utmost confidence in Omaha," says Mr. Dold, "and know that it is destined to grow rapidly in the near future, and it is our aim to secure here the same confidence we enjoy in Buffalo and in other cities in which we do business."

Describes Welfare Work

The management of the Dold Packing company in Omaha is in the hands of Ralph S. Dold, son of J. C. Dold, who follows the footsteps of his father and grandfather in the packing business.

J. C. Dold will visit Omaha often and retain the supreme management of the plant here.

Stories of the welfare work among the employees of the Buffalo plant are told by Mr. Dold with great pride and he has promised to model the Omaha concern after the Buffalo plant, especially in this respect.

Police Court on South Side Empty After Crimeless Day

Everybody's been good on the South Side. There wasn't any police court down town yesterday because there was nobody to face the judge.

They didn't have any police court down town yesterday because there was nobody to face the judge. Not an arrest was made by South Side police all day Thursday or all night Thursday night.

This makes the first time this year that the police blotter at South Side station hasn't been marked by the name of some evil-doer or the report of some holdup or robbery.

Home as He Awaited Trial

While Joe Miller, forty-eight and white, South Side, awaited a hearing of a federal case against him in court yesterday, a deputy United States marshal and a city detective searched his home, still in operation, and 200 gallons of mash were found, the report states. Miller was arrested later.

Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Live Stock

Financial

The New York Times

By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES. Chicago Tribune—Omaha Be Leased Wire. New York, Jan. 7.—In the two branches of the financial markets which have thus far appeared to present the line of least resistance to a January recovery, the week's advance continued vigorously today.

Both the rise in stocks and the rise in Liberty bonds occurred again; without any yielding in the rates of money. Under all the circumstances, with request for money either on call or time at a very low rate and with merchants' requirements heavy, this persistence is at least unusual.

Perhaps tomorrow's statement of the New York federal reserve bank will explain this week's anomaly.

Spell Broken. On the stock exchange it seemed at the start of the week that recent professional speculators for the decline were disappointed. It was not to be, however, that the somewhat over-familiar maneuver was employed, of violent concentration of funds to force down the price of two or three outstanding stocks, while others were recovering.

But the spell was apparently broken, and the price of the two stocks which were followed by quick recoveries which carried them to their former levels. Even the railway shares, which had held back in the first stages of recovery, were making respectable gains.

How much further and general recovery may reasonably be expected, under all the present circumstances depends on conditions here and abroad, and on the amount of securities which were sold for the purpose of making respectable gains.

Without the stimulus of the present season, of a speculative rally, which would be influenced by the action of the market, it is not to be expected that the market will be able to sustain a recovery of the kind which has been seen in the past few days.

By CHARLES D. MICHAELS. Chicago, Jan. 7.—Lower prices for all grains featured the market today. There was a good volume of trade and news was largely favorable to a decline. The dip was no more than natural after the advance of the previous days.

Corn had support from industrial interests on breaks and came out fairly on the few hard spots. Traders were mainly bearish. Export buying was lighter with around 100,000 bushels sold and some claims of more. Cash sales were 65,000 bushels. Car lots were unchanged to 1c lower, with arrivals of 292 cars and seaboard exports for the week 573,000 bushels. Argentine shipments were lighter.

Wheat was the leader of all grains, with a break of 4c from the extreme top yesterday and a 1/2c to 1c above the low point. The lowest prices were for the softest grades, and interest who were the largest buyers last Monday. Their sales were based on a revival of an interview with James Barnes, former wheat director, in which he was quoted as saying that the demand for the softest grades of wheat was increasing.
