Daughter of Mrs. Stanton Writes

parents dined in Dublin, Ireland. She asked the Irish liberator, as O'Connell was called, if he expected to win liberty for Ireland. "No," he replied, "but always demand the uttermost, then you will get something."

"Of course those on the platform were furious at her for springing her resolution in the convention; it created hot debate, but the brilliant defense of Douglass, and her own eloquence and logic so roused the audience that many arose and spoke for her side. And after a two hours' tussle the resolution was carried, so that Elizabeth Cady Stanton's demand from the first was those three little words: "Votes for Women."

Susan B. Anthony was not present at that first convention. She did not come into the movement till three years later, 1851. But almost from the day of their first meeting she and my mother became the warmest friends, and stood nobly by each other for over 60 years. Theirs was probably one of the most beautiful friendships that ever existed between two women.

Chew More; Eat Less

It sounds absurd to say that we do not have time to chew our food sufficiently, yet scientists tell us that we do not chew it enough to get full benefit of its nourishment.

The more thoroughly our food is chewed, the more nourishment we receive from it, and consequently, the less food we require. Everything we eat or drink should be taken slowly so as to be well mixed with saliva. Even milk should be slowly sipped instead of being drunk as water.

At present the Women Police service is only a semi-official organization, working in London and other large English cities, but an attempt is being made to have it incorporated into the regular police force under the home secretary's office.
