Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Financial

The New Hork Times.

By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES. New York, Jan. 22.-The money market situation was not greatly cleared up by today's week-end bank statements. A surplus reserve was restored at the associated banks, as tual cash holdings of the reserve bank which really caused the lower letters in his home in Kansas City ratio. Apparently, gold had been arranging for the tryst in Omaha shipped from the banks' vaults to the general fund at Washington, but without an equivalent increase in New York's share of that central reserve. If so, this would seem to mean that interior reserve districts have been drawing on New York.

have been drawing on New York.

Statement Puzzling.

In other respects the statement was somewhat puzzling. Rediscounts which had been reduced substantially in the two preceding weeks of January, rose $55,000.000 last week and $15,560,000 of the increase was on bilds secured by government collateral, for which a reduction had been reported in every week since the middle of December. On the other hand, the reserve banks note circulation was cut down $7,000,000 last week and it is now lower by $87,800,000, or nearly 10 per cent than its high mark on December 22, and lower than in any week since February 7, last. The statements of the other reserve banks and of the system as a whole should serve to explain the New York bank's position.

On the stock exchange the backing and filling movement of the week continued without change of form. Declines ranging from a fraction to a couple of points occurred in the early trading, then the prefessional fraternity, to whose energies the declines were plainly attributable, turned about and bought back what they had bold, leaving the market with fregular changes for the day and with several considerable net advances. When todey's closing prices are compared with those of the week before it will be found that the changes vary widely and quite meaningless, but that on the whole, advances predominate.

Today's bond market was again active with an upward tendency and Liberty bonds as a rule maintained their recent gains.

To put across what I have in mind, it will be necessary to procure testimony from a great many people on the subject of prices. In last Thursday's papers I asked everyone to write what he or she thinks about prices. A number of interesting replies were received-but not enough.

One man said: "There has been so much manipulating of prices that a son can't have confidence even in his father."

Another said: "The present business condition is due solely to want of confidence, and many merchandizing methods extant today are doing more to destroy than to restore confidence." Then he goes on to quote a number of specific instances.

What do you know about the price situation? Kindly express yourself on the subject. State the facts that have come under your observation. will be possible to help the cause of the consumer if I have enough testimony to support

If you think that I am helping the return to normal, baok me up with a letter. I can't carry on this campaign without your support.

Write me today, State frankly what you think about the price situation. I want the facts-not fine writing. Your name will not be used. Help to make this thing interesting. I'd like to receive 2,000 letters in tomorrow's mail.

Pit Notes.

There is a feeling in certain quarters of the grain trade that prices have been lowered to a level where it is best to go slow on the selling side for the time being, although there is nothing in sight to warrant steady buying for a big upturn. Liquidation has been drastic and those who have been friendly to the buying side are possibly a little more so because of the decline.

The short interest in grains was reduced moderately by the rally Saturday, the disposition being to take profits because it was the end of the week.

The taking of wheat for shipment as far in the future as April, in the face of the coming movement of the coming Argenting crop, is not to be ignored, says R. W. McKinnon, of Thomson, McKinnon & Co. We offer and recommend:

Yielding From 8 to 9%

There are so many splendid opportunities for investment in safe Securities yielding high interest rates, it is unnecessary and unwise to accept questionable investments that promise abnormal returns and may (and usually do) return nothing.

Good Bonds are the safest and most desirable investment. They now offer opportunities which, in normal times, are impossible and with the gradual and steady readjustment which is in progress and which will continue until the financial and commercial situation has reached an equilibrium, cheaper money is only a question of time, possibly only a few months. This factor combined with an ever increasing demand for high grade Securities indicates that good bonds will advance in price.

This means that if you have money that is not invested you should invest it now and take advantage of the opportunities which are before you and which you may never see again.

We offer our services in recommending good Bonds that will meet your investment requirements and will mail our January list of offerings upon request.
