

Officer Risks His Life to Halt Runaway Team

Thief, Who Makes Off With Daring Detective's Coat, Captured by Sleuths After Chase.

Scores of pedestrians at Twenty-fourth and Farnam streets stood aghast yesterday afternoon as they watched a thrilling runaway and spectacular chase between detectives with drawn revolvers and "Checkers" Armstrong, police character.

Man Held on Charge Of Assaulting Woman

Five thousand dollars was the bond set by Judge Dunn in Central police court yesterday afternoon for Frank Harris, alias Solomon Oliver, negro, who was bound over for trial in the district court on charges of assault.

C. of C. Members Gargle Mush

Noise Might Have Been Taken for Floor Scrubbing, But It Was Agriculture Committee Inhaling Corn Banquet.

Diners adjacent to the private dining room used by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday at noon might have thought the room was being scrubbed because of the splashing which came from within. It wasn't scrubbing, though, which made the racket, it was the members wicking "wicked" spoons in dishes of corn meal mush, supplied as the main dish of the luncheon.

carefully wiping the mush from his whiskers yesterday afternoon. Mr. McIntosh, who guides the destinies of the agriculture bureau, said: "The agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce is dead in earnest to develop some method of using up the vast surplus corn which now seems to embarrass the agricultural interests of the middlewest. The committee began by urging Herbert Hoover to buy corn products in this territory for his European relief work.

immediate relief, but the Chamber of Commerce men know no such word as fail. They decided to put on the corn banquet and eat as much of the surplus product as possible." Mrs. MacMurphy lectured to the committee on methods popularizing corn as food. Other organizations will be asked to give corn banquets.

Consecration of Sacred Heart Church Planned

Pastor Announces Entire Debt On Structure Paid—Erection of New School Building Contemplated. Plans for formal consecration of the Sacred Heart Catholic church, Twenty-second and Biway streets, are under way following the announcement yesterday by Rev. P. F. Judge, pastor of the church, that the entire debt on the structure has been paid.

Judge's achievement during his silver jubilee year in the priesthood, which ended January 1. Same repair work is to be done on the interior of the edifice before the consecration services are held, Father Judge announced. The consecration probably will be held on the Catholic feast of the Sacred Heart in June.

He was on the lookout for pickpockets. Around the corner at Dodge street came racing a team of horses, dragging behind them an Alamito dairy wagon.

Traffic at the corner was at its height, automobiles and street cars starting through the intersection and pedestrians waiting their turn to hurry across the muddy street.

Palmtag Leaps. Down Twenty-fourth street came the galloping horses, endangering the lives of the men and women scurrying for the sidewalks.

Leaving himself from his overcoat and throwing it into a nearby automobile, Palmtag leaped into the street just as the horses came dashing by.

For their heads he jumped, grasping their bridles, and swinging himself from the pavement just in time to save himself from being trampled to death under their hoofs.

His weight, so suddenly hurled onto their heads, took some time to have any effect.

For over half a block the maddened team dragged him through the mud and mire, until finally they slowed down to a trot and then came to a halt.

Chase Started. While this thrilling act was being staged for the pedestrians on Twenty-fourth street, those on Farnam street were treated to another, fully as thrilling.

Almost the moment Palmtag threw his overcoat in the automobile Leonard "Checker" Armstrong, sauntering in the vicinity, seized it and with a sudden jerk, starting east on Farnam street, down grade.

But Detectives Heller and Franci happened to be there, strolling down Farnam, and saw Armstrong get their comrade's coat.

With a shout, they started to give chase.

The shout only increased "Checker's" speed.

Chase Lasts Block. Out of their pockets came two mean looking revolvers, and with cries of "Stop or we'll shoot," the detectives bore down on their prey.

For almost a block the chase lasted, the officers being afraid to shoot because of the crowds of pedestrians on the sidewalks.

But, breathless and weary, they soon overtook Armstrong and placed him under arrest.

Palmtag's overcoat had been recovered, the runaway team had been stopped, and Omaha had been given a movie thriller that would have done honor to Los Angeles.

"Checkers" has been arrested a number of times on charges of stealing articles from automobiles parked on downtown streets.
