

N. P. Organizers Invited to Leave Nuckolls County

Citizens' Committee at Nelson Asks Workers to Get Out and Stay Out—League Attorney May Sue.

Nelson, Neb., Jan. 28.—A citizens' committee, in which ex-service men were prominent, Thursday waited on Nonpartisan league organizers who have been in this vicinity several days and asked them to leave Nuckolls county and stay away.

The organizers complied and four of the five league workers who were in Nelson at the time drove away in the automobiles in which they have been touring the county. No disorder accompanied the notice served on the organizers, although nearly 100 people gathered at the hotel to witness their departure.

One of the party was a woman, Joseph Fradine of Minnesota, who has been aiding in the organizing work, was permitted to remain because of illness. There are said to be several other organizers in different parts of the county.

Lincoln, Jan. 28.—C. A. Sorenson, attorney in Nebraska for the Nonpartisan league, said last evening his advices from Nelson were that the league organizers had been driven from that town by threats and intimidations. He said he intended to bring suit in federal court for damages from the men who constituted what he designated a "mob."

"I was first told that an American legion committee waited on the league workers," said Mr. Sorenson, "but legion officers at Nelson have informed me the committee was not authorized by the legion post."

Nuckolls county is in south central Nebraska, on the Kansas line. It was the scene of similar disturbances several weeks ago.

A. Barnard, Beatrice; secretary, M. L. Eudres, Omaha; treasurer, J. G. McCormick, Chappell. Omaha was chosen as the next meeting place.

Mrs. Tracy and J. K. Leonard from the state motor vehicle department gave instructive talks along legislative lines.

Addresses were given by W. L. McCandless of Broken Bow, who spoke along the lines of get-together; Williams Abers of Lancaster county, on the tax sales problem.

A banquet was given Wednesday night and at the close a lecture was given on the natural resources and industries in Nebraska by Prof. N. A. Bengiton of the state university.

The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views. Professor Bengiton spoke first of the mineral resources, showing by the views the parts of Nebraska with stone, cement and potash fields. He enlarged upon the potash fields of Sheridan county, showing the machinery in operation and the securing of this product from start to finish.

In referring to the agricultural resources, he said that Nebraska ranked third as a producer of small grain. Iowa and Illinois are the only states that raise more small grain. Pictures were shown of large corn and wheat fields and apple orchards and the potato industry.

Charge Stoecker Letters Insult To Legislature

Chairman Druesedow Rules Out Motion to Exclude Omaha Man From Light Hearing.

Lincoln, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Every member of the Nebraska legislature was insulted Thursday by the tone of letters received and signed by W. E. Stoecker, former member, urging their support to house roll No. 1, according to charges last night at a meeting of the committee of cities and towns by Representative Dyball of Omaha. Stoecker was present. Dyball is a member of the committee.

"I move that one man here be denied an audience before this committee," Dyball said, and he named Stoecker. Then he read this excerpt along with the letter to the committee:

"There are a few members in our Douglas county delegation that oppose house roll No. 1, and many of our citizens infer that they are not possessed of real American spirit that prompts self-determination. Will you please see that these opponents are transformed to American citizens that favor self-determination."

"I second the motion," Representative Osterman of Merrick, a member of the committee, snapped. "I rule the motion out of order," Robert Druesedow, chairman, said, "because he is an American citizen and has a right to address this committee at future date."
