HOLDING A HUSBAND

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Why Lillian Warned Madge.

There! Ladies! at the right! Here is the place of which I was speaking. It really is one of the most beautiful places in this whole section...

"How much is this?" I began, but Mr. Jones, now as voluble as he had been taciturn in the beginning, deftly vaulted over my question and took a running leap into an ecstatic description of the neighborhood.

"One of the most exclusive in the section," he exclaimed. "Mr. Conrad Almont's home is directly across the road."

I looked in the direction he indicated, but saw nothing except a stretch of pasture land.

"I do not see," I began. "Oh, dear, not the house, not just here!" he said, as if something in my question had shocked him.

"Which is the Almont house?" I asked. "That big yellow one down there." He pointed to a rambling barn-like structure several rods down the road.

Lillian and I exchanged glances, turned simultaneously and looked at it earnestly.

"If I had a house opposite to that thing," she said vehemently at last, "and had no other view from my front windows I should move my house or tear it down."

She was in the truculent mood which always comes to her when something offends her artistic sense. Mr. Jones gazed at her with the respectful but alarmed curiosity which a man generally gives to any unusual specimen of that species which Kipling has assured us is "deadlier than the male."

Mrs. E. H. Silsbee of Lincoln, who was in Omaha for a short time, returned to her home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Edward Higgins of Platte Center, Neb., who has been visiting friends in Omaha, has returned home.

Miss Lillian Anderson spent the week end in Lincoln where she attended the Kappa Delta Phi party Saturday evening.

Miss Margaret Wattle, who spent the week end in Omaha, has returned to the University of Nebraska to resume her studies.

Katherine Reynolds, who spent the week-end in Omaha, has returned to her studies at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sutherland spent the week end in Lincoln where they chaperoned the Kappa Delta Phi house dance Saturday evening.

Mrs. Joseph Garneau Ringwalt of New York City is the guest of Mrs. J. R. Ringwalt. Mr. Ringwalt accompanied his wife to Omaha and then continued to California. He will return here March 1 when Mrs. Ringwalt will join him to return to their home.

Mr. Jones was babbling, as he saw my eyes fixed upon the house. Ready to move right in. One of the most wonderful bargains...

"Mr. Jones," I stopped abruptly. "It is no use whatever for me to look at this property unless I know the price of it."

He looked at me shrewdly for a second, yielded to the inevitable.

"They are asking $40,000 for it, but I think they might be induced to take—say, $38,500 if an immediate sale was made."
