Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 9.—(Special Telegram.)—Charges that former Nebraska lawmakers foresaw an opportunity to make money out of a statute permitting a private firm to place markers on public highways have been under investigation for several days by the joint committee of the house and senate which today is writing a report on its find-ings preparatory to submitting it at a joint meeting of the house and

It is further known that C. Petrus Peterson, a Lincoln attorney and former legislator, was charged in the reports brought to the committee with conceiving the money-waking opportunity in such a contrast previous to the enactment of the law. The law firm to which Peterson is attached owns stock in the highway marking company, the committee was informed.

George W. Johnson, secretary of the department of public works, was called before the committee and it is reported substantiated in general the story told to the committee by Dunlap.

Johnson explained the terms of the contract which permitted this company to put up markers and pay for their work and investment from proceeds of advertising signs placed above and below the markers. He also pointed out that the company, under the contract, automatically releases 5 per cent of its share in the ownership of the signs every year until at the end of 20 years the signs become state property.

The committee also demanded and received a list of stockholders of the company. It learned that only one of the present members of the legislature is a stockholder of the company, according to report. He is Representative E. E. Good of Representative Dysart, leading the pposition, made a careful analysis the bill.

"This bill does three things," he said. "It gives the water board paramount power to call an election on the question of building a light plant, whereas the city commission now has that power, subject to the peo-ple's right of initiative. It cuts the percentage required to vote bonds from 60 to a mere majority. Fur-thermore, it gives the publicly-owned plant a monopoly of street lighting, irrespective of the competitive price."

Condemns Duplication. Mr. Dysart condemned the dupli

"We now have a municipal water plant, a municipal ice plant and a municipal gas plant, all operated by the water board," he said. "We have only partly digested our municipal water and ice plants, with bonded debt running into the millions," he said. "We have not begun to digest the gas plant and I ask you, let us decide for ourselves the time and manner of undertaking to digest another public utility."

Question of Right. Representative Rodman declared that if every member of the Douglas county delegation and every other member of the house favored the bill he still would oppose it.
