Two Games to Be Played in Omaha Tonight

Commerce Meets South at Auditorium and Creighton Plays Haskell Indians—Huskies at Grinnell.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Commerce High against South High at City auditorium.
Nebraska against Grinnell at Grinnell.
Haskell Indians against Creighton at Creighton.
Central High against Sioux City High at Sioux City.
Doane against Lincoln City league at Doane.
Washington against Oklahoma at Norman.
Missouri against Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.

Nebraska broken even with the Iowa State college basketball squad yesterday afternoon by defeating the Cyclones, 32 to 23. Tonight the Cornhuskers open a two-game series with the Grinnell team at Grinnell. Grinnell is holding down one of the lower berths in the Missouri Valley conference standings and if the Huskers display the same brand of basketball that they showed yesterday afternoon, Coach Schissler's men stand a good chance of boosting their valley record to six victories and one defeat.

Commerce Plays South High.
Commerce and South High will meet in their second contest of the season at the City auditorium tonight. Bookkeepers easily won over the Packers in the first clash and are expected to take the measure of the South Siders again tonight.

The Haskell Indians will pit their basketball playing ability against the "coaches." Creighton university squad at Creighton gymnasium tonight in the first of a two-game series.

Little is known of the strength of the Redskins, but one thing is sure and that is, if the Indians have been playing the same brand of basketball that has characterized their play in the last two seasons, Creighton will find a tough proposition in defeating the invaders tonight and Saturday.

Creighton has one thing to its advantage, that is playing on its own floor. In Wise, Kearney and Berry, the locals have three floor men who rank among the best in this section of the country, including the Missouri Valley. These players know the floor and baskets and considering these facts, Creighton will enter the game favorites.

Central High will attempt to defeat the Sioux City quintet again tonight, but this time on the lowans' floor. Coach Harold Mulligan's tossers tossed their way to victory over the neighboring city basketballers at the local "Y" in the first mix.

Following the Sioux City game, Central will journey to Fort Dodge, Ia., to meet the high school team of that city.

Washington plays Oklahoma at Norman tonight and Saturday, while Missouri and Kansas Aggies clash at Manhattan in the third valley game of the week-end.

Many Changes in Major League Managers

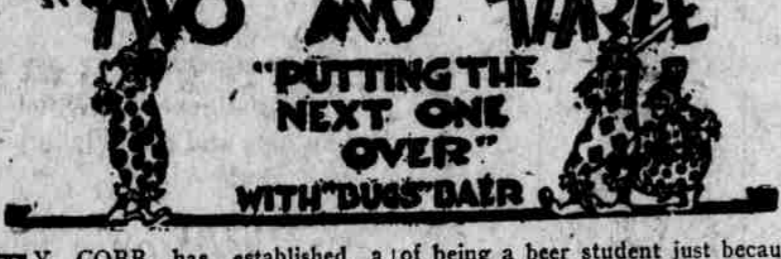

Seven Teams Will Be Under New Pilots

New York, Feb. 10.—Changes in the managerial ranks of major league teams have featured the present off season.
When the curtain rises on the 1921 base ball campaign next April seven of the 16 big time clubs will swing into action with new pilots leading them.
The widespread upheaval among the managers, the like of which has not been seen in many years, is expected to put new life into the coming pennant races. Here are the "new" men who will take up active duties as field generals when the season gets under way:
Chicago Cubs—Johnny Evers, Philadelphia Nationals—Bill Donohue, Boston Braves—Fred Mitchell, Philadelphia Nationals—Bill Donohue, Washington Senators—George McDuffie.
Detroit Tigers—Ty Cobb.
St. Louis Browns—Lee Fohl.
Boston Red Sox—Hugh Duffy.
In addition to the "battle staff" of the New York Giants has been augmented by the signing of Hugh Jennings as assistant to Manager Mc-

Jennings to Assist McGraw of Giants

Grav and Jesse Burkett as coach of the pitchers.
Five of the seven new managers have the advantage of previous experience in the holding of the reins over major league teams.
"Wild Bill" Donovan, who succeeds Gavy Cravath as boss of the Phillies, was a popular and far from unsuccessful pilot of the Yankees for several years.
Evers Back in Chicago.
Johnny Evers, who takes Fred Mitchell's place in Chicago, is merely returning to an "old love," as he was there before. In addition Evers has had experience as assistant manager of the Braves, Giants and Phillies.
Fred Mitchell left the Boston Braves, where he made a reputation as a coach with Stallings, to take the management of the Cubs. This year he returns to the Hubtown Nationals and is shaking the team up to a fare-thee-well.
Hugh Duffy comes back to the majors as a manager after somewhat of an absence. Hughie once man-

TY COBB has established a new training system for the Tigers that will probably meet with success—provided that each player on the Tigers is another Ty Cobb. Ty is not laying down any rules—in fact, he is picking some rules up that were down longer than the old lineolium on the kitchen floor.
He never did care much for spring training and morning practice. His record shows that he didn't need 'em. Built on tall, slim lines, Ty was always in condition. A guy-bud needs no preliminary rehearsals before stepping forth on a rabbit chase. It's the rabbit that requires the practice.
Condition is up to the individual himself. You can surround a man with rules, regulations and the Ten Blue Don'ts, but if he wants to bust 'em he can break each rule dish up 'em in 144-piece dinner set.
Cobb has apparently grabbed the right idea out of the raffle. He has cut the 7:30 reveille off the Tiger's menu. The players can sleep as long as they want to, provided they don't wear their pajamas on the base lines.
A base ball team isn't like a variety crew that trains 11 months for forty century defeat. The actual business of playing base ball every day is a conditioning process. When Bat Levinsky was fighting six fights a week some time ago, Bat didn't have to bounce around in gymnasiums like a frog on a burning log. Lots of fighters have lost their big light in the gymnasium. Bat proved that you could save it and lose it in the ring.
It's up to the man himself whether he wants to stay in shape or not. By spraining your memory a trifle you can remember the old days when quite a little oil was used on the swinging doors of the corner foam studios. Many a star of the old days used to like his mug of malt bubbles after a tough game. And many a temperate player got the reputation

Pensy Uni. Inaugurates Open Air Basket Ball Games

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—Open air basket ball is the latest innovation of the University of Pennsylvania's sport for all departments. A new cage has been built at Franklin field and seven more are to be erected on the new athletic field.
Which is why it looks as if Cobb might have the right idea in classifying morning practice with the one horse chaise, the side-paddle steamer and the hand-pumped fire engine.

Rickard Will Stage Big Scrap in U. S.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE-OMAHA BEE LEASED WIRE.
New York, Feb. 10.—The Jack Dempsey-Georges Carpentier proposed international wrangle will not be shunted to London, Tex. Rickard, who is promoting the contest took occasion again today to reiterate with a loud emphasis that the bout will be held in the good old U. S. A. and in all likelihood, it will be staged not at a stone's throw from Manhattan.
Rickard also said that he knew nothing about Charles B. Cochran changing his mind about continuing as an associate in the arrangements for the big bout and that the bout would go to England.
"I can't understand why such a fuss is being made about this contest," said Rickard today. "I have the two boxers under contract. I have lived up to all my obligations, and as I have repeatedly stated, will go through with the program as originally arranged. William A. Brady has withdrawn and I have accepted him as the legal representative of Charles B. Cochran. Brady has assured me that Cochran is out to stay. However, if Mr. Cochran has changed his mind and wants to play, I will be glad to have him with me."
Ty Cobb Steps In.
Ty Cobb and George McBride, both veteran players, are breaking into major league managerial ranks for the first time. Both of these men are thoroughly steeped in base ball lore. They know the ins and outs of the pastime from "A to izzard" and their efforts at the helms of the Tigers and Senators will be watched with interest.
Hugh Duffy, by the way, will have Jimmy Burke, erstwhile manager of the Browns, to assist him at Boston this year, and Miller Huggins will have the helpful counsel of Ed Barrow, new business manager of the Yankees and former pilot of the Boston Americans.

Rickard Takes Over Brady and Cochran Interests for Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Tex Rickard announced today he had arranged for the immediate transfer to him of the interests of Charles B. Cochran and William A. Brady in the proposed Dempsey-Carpentier championship match.
The transfer, he said, would be made through an attorney representing the other members of the original promotion project. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, will take part in the transaction, he added.

North Dakota Aggies Win

BROOKINGS, S. D., Feb. 10.—North Dakota Aggie college basketball quintet defeated South Dakota state college here Wednesday night by a score of 37 to 19. The same teams will play here again tonight.

Base Ball Chatter

Jack Dunn of Baltimore pulled a new one when he signed a pitcher named Harry Frank. Dunn promised him a bonus if the Orioles failed to cap the pennant and the pitcher promptly signed.
The latest holdout among the stars is George Kelly, the tall New York Giant first baseman. Kelly will be given a raise and a new contract already has been mailed to him.
The Dodgers have signed a new heater from the Virginia team. He is Samuel Post and proved a sensation with the Portsmouth club last year, according to the reports.
Speaker is expecting a lot from George Uhl this coming year. The sandlot recruit flashed brilliantly in 1919 but rarely had control last season. However, he promises to be in perfect condition when the next campaign opens.
Norman George, a south paw obtained from Grand Rapids by the Cubs last fall has been turned over to Peoria for more experience. George shows a lot of promise and should be a star in a year.

Federal Judge Releases 11 Men From U. S. Prison

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 10.—Federal Judge John C. Pollock in the district court of Kansas ruled yesterday that the Volstead act repeals the old liquor revenue laws of the country and ordered the release from the federal prison at Leavenworth of 11 bootleggers convicted under the old statutes.
In ruling favorably on habeas corpus writs in behalf of the men Judge Pollock said:
"If the revenue laws remained in force after the passage of the Volstead act the government would be put in the position of collecting money for violations of the law."
Should the ruling be sustained by the supreme court it affords a virtual release for all persons serving time for violation of liquor revenue laws, enacted prior to January, 1920. It is estimated that 50 such are now in Leavenworth.
