

Omaha Rum War Over, at Least For Time Being

Two Dry Officers From North Quit Force After Clash Over Identity of Suspected Violator.

The rum war in Omaha is over. At least for the time being. For the rum sluths who swooped down from the northland to clean up Omaha met disaster here. Most of the members of the flying squadron have been ordered out in the bird regions of the state. Their field marshals shooed 'em out at the suggestion of Prohibition Director James H. Hanley. And two of the "No-rummen"—Officers Claude Warfield and Ole Olson—have quit the force in Omaha. They left under fire—after two thrilling escapades. One of these was, staged on the fire escape at the Keen hotel last Monday night. The last one ended with Assistant United States District Attorney Lloyd Magney signing an unconditional release from the county jail for Fred Green, head bellboy at the Paxton hotel, where Magney lives. Magney signed the release after a clash with Warfield and Olson when these two arrested Green twice for the alleged sale of liquor after Magney had heard the officers quarrel over the identity of the man.

Gayety Cuts Price of Sunday Matinee Seats

In an effort to keep step with the tendency to bring costs back to pre-war times, the Gayety announces a permanent reduction in the price scale for the Sunday matinee performances for the balance of the season. In some instances the reduction amounts to as much as 50 per cent of former prices. The cut was made without there having been any reduction made in the cost of operating the theater. Old Man Johnson states that when such material reductions do come there will be still further slashing of the permanent scale of prices.

While crossing the Atlantic, Mr. Lange learned that Wrangel had left his scene of activities and thus far the former Omaha pilot has been unable to resume correspondence with the general.

Hayden Personal Estate

Worth More Than $600,000

An inventory filed yesterday in probate court by the special administrators of Joseph Hayden indicates that the personal property of the late head of Hayden Bros., is worth more than $600,000, all in gilt-edged bonds, bank accounts and other securities. One of the items showed that Mr. Hayden invested $178,760 in Liberty bonds, making him one of the largest holders of these bonds in Omaha. The shareholdings included Union Pacific, Armour & Co. and the Federal Land bank. Only about 5 per cent of the lower animals are defective at birth, a much lower ratio than among human beings.
