Boys and girls!

What do you know about George Washington? To Omaha children of today the life and deeds of Washington should mean much.

mean much. There never was greater need than now of widespread following of his high ideals of the duties of citizenship. There never was greater need of appreciation of those ideals by school boys and girls. There are many lessons to be drawn from his unselfish patriotism.

unswerving loyalty, unfailing honesty and broad and farsceing views of men and affairs.

The right sort of an essay of appreciation from an Omaha boy or girl, The Bee believes, would be a fitting tribute to the memory of Washington in commemoration Tuesday of next week of the 189th anniversary of his birth.

Though dead for more than a century, Washington influenced the lives of countless thousands of the generations which have followed him in the work of upbuilding this mighty nation.

How greatly is that influence extending into the lives of Omaha school boys and girls of today?

The Bee offers boys and girls a chance to answer this question through competitive essays on "What George Washington Means to Me." All students of Omaha graded, private and parochial schools and ot the city's high schools are eligible to enter the competition. The contest has the endorsement of school officials.

Essays are limited to 300 words.

• The Bee offers $30 in prizes for the best essays. There will be a first prize of $10 and a second prize of $5 for the best essays submitted by high school students. First prize also will be $10 and second prize $5 for essays from boys and girls in the grades below high school.

Essays must be brought or mailed to The Bee office not later than Sunday, February 21. Address letters to George Washington Contest Editor, The Bee Prize winning essays will be selected by a committee appointed by J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of schools.
