A letter should be addressed with due regard to the individuality of the recipient. Generally speaking, a physician prefers to be entitled Howard De Vere, M. D., rather than Dr. Howard De Vere. A dentist should be addressed Joachim Cuspid, D. D. S.

A doctor of divinity is The Reverend Sebastian Lucas, D. D.; a doctor of literature is Felix Philomath, Litt. D.; a doctor of music is Haydn Clavier, Mus. Doc.; a doctor of laws and literature is Emerson Blackstone, LL. D.

The article "The" should always preface the name of a clergyman; for example, "The Reverend Wesley Polk." A bishop's name is prefixed "The Right Reverend." Archbishops, whether Roman or Anglican, are styled "The Most Reverend." A cardinal is addressed thus: "His Eminence, James Cardinal Gibbons." The courtesy title, "Honorable," is given to all our national and state officials to judges and to members of congress; thus, "The Hon. Gideon MacBrief, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C." Week of Parties For Boston Visitor

Right at the beginning of Lent there will be one week just filled to the brim with parties of every possible kind. But really there is a very good reason for it all. Mrs. Lewis Lombard of Boston arrives Sunday to remain until the following Sunday in Omaha with her brother, Lyle Hersey, and Mrs. Hersey. Mrs. Lombard has never visited either in the central or the western part of the United States and truly expects to find Omaha infested with Indians, cowboys and various personages to be feared in uncivilized territory.

Mrs. Hersey is planning a series of entertainments for her guest. These include a tea on Monday from 4 to 6 at her home for 40 guests; a bridge party Monday evening for 12; a luncheon for 14 at the Athletic club, followed by a matinee party at the Orpheum Tuesday; a bridge luncheon at the Omaha club Wednesday for 16 guests; a dinner party at the dinner dance at the Athletic club Wednesday evening, and a bridge party Friday at the Athletic club for eight guests.

A number of other affairs are to be given for Mrs. Lombard. Mrs. T. M. Finney will give a bridge luncheon of 16 covers at her home Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Shotwell will entertain at a bridge dinner at their home Thursday evening. An afternoon bridge is planned for Friday by Mrs. W. H. Quigley at her home. Mrs. Allen Parmer and Mrs. E. C. Leggett will give a dance Friday evening for about 20 couples at the Leggett home in honor of Mrs. Lombard. A bridge will be given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. I. Shuler and a supper party is planned for Sunday evening at the Athletic club by Mrs. W. H. Quigley following the dance of the Week End Dancing club. "Will Mrs. Lombard think us 'back-woods'?" We think not.

Frances Nash In Recital

India has a quaint marriage custom. The bride and bridegroom go to the river to worship Ghatola, the god of river crossings. On their way the bridegroom runs after the bride, beating her with a stick but on the way back the bride beats the bridegroom.

Mrs. Earl Buck is spending several weeks in California.

Problems That Perplex Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Infatuation or Love?

Dear Miss Fairfax: I met a nice girl whom I like very much, and I am sure she likes me. We have been going about together for five months. But there is one reason that makes me doubt her love. She seems to like a variety and goes out with other men. When I tell her how it makes me feel she says she is sorry and won't let it happen again, but still she does not keep her promise. Please let me know whether you would give up going with this girl for that reason. She is 18 and I am two years older, and I keep telling her that two nights a week is enough for any girl or man to go out.

At 18 it is just as natural to crave a good time and to want to race about in search of it as it is foolish. Your whole situation is made of paradoxes. For her future well being the girl ought not to go racing out night after night. She is spending her energy far too rapidly. But her youth seeks this outlet. And that indicates that however fond of you she is, she probably is not ready to choose one man from all she knows as her man. I think you're a sensible lad—except in one regard—and that is in taking your youthful infatuation for real well-grounded love.

S. N. H.: When a girl really needs assistance in getting on a car, or crossing a street at night, the man should take her arm. Otherwise, no arm holding is necessary between a man and woman. If married at home or at the paragonage, a man and his bride usually kiss. Sometimes they do even if they are married by the county judge, which seems all right to me, though if they prefer they might agree to dispense with what might seem like a public display of affection. The man, of course, should kiss the girl under these circumstances. Green ought to be acceptable for the color of a man's suit, though blue is more customary for weddings. If you were having a home wedding, I would recommend black or blue, but if you are married by the county judge you might wear the color that suits you best. Your happiness will depend upon yourselves and not upon the month in which you are married.
