Attention, Everybody!

Looks as though the photographer had said "Attention" to Frank and Eddie. But he didn't. The boys knew something important was happening and they naturally assumed this military pose. Something important? Yes, very important. For upon 5-year-old Eddie and 6-year-old Frank falls a great responsibility. They must make you want to do something you might forget about otherwise. Before you know what it is, look at the light in their eyes and let it send a shaft through to your heart. Then when your heart is all warm and mellow, read "The Mikado," at the Brandeis theater Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, February 18 and 19, all proceeds of which will go toward the Day Nursery. The Omaha Opera association, including some of the city's best soloists, will appear in the performance. And this is the responsibility of Frank and Eddie. They must make you want to go, or at least get tickets for "The Mikado." Do you wonder that they are standing up straight and tall and that they are trying to make you like them from the tops of their soft woolen caps to the bottoms of their warm, and buttoned overshoes?

Washington Society

(Continued from Page One.) most prominent of the widows of Washington. It is her country place which the general occupies. They made an interesting picture as they entered the ball room and all eyes were upon them. Mrs. Corbin looked very regal in black velvet point lace and diamonds. The general spent little time in the Govin box for he was one of the most active of the dancers on the floor.

Mrs. Draper Smith of Omaha was one of the interested spectators in the house of representatives on Wednesday when the electoral vote for president and vice president was counted. Mrs. Smith came to Washington as alternate to bring the electoral vote of Nebraska, accompanied by Mrs. Wheeler of Lincoln, official messenger. She was the guest at the capitol on that day of Mrs. A. W. Jafferis of Omaha, and Mrs. E. E. Holland of Suffolk, Va., wives of representatives in congress. Mrs. Holland was formerly Miss Eunice Ennor of Omaha. Mrs. Wheeler returned home 10 days ago. Mrs. Smith has been sight-seeing and incidentally awaiting the arrival of her trunk, which was lost. It came a few days ago, quite safely. Mrs. Holland gave a handsome luncheon for Mrs. Smith last week at the Willard and had among her guests Mrs. George Norris, wife of the senator from Nebraska; Mrs. Jafferis and Mrs. Reavis, wives of representatives from Nebraska; Mrs. Emory D. Stanley, formerly of Omaha; Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, formerly of Crete, Neb., and her daughter, Mrs. Robert L. Straeten. Mrs. Smith will return to her home in a few days.

Representative Holland, who retires from congress on the fourth of March, will go to Panama immediately after inauguration, accompanied by Mrs. Holland. After their return from Panama they will go to Europe for an indefinite stay. Mrs. Holland will have as her guest next week her sister, Mrs. A. L. Lott of Detroit, in whose home she was married to Representative Holland last spring. Mrs. Lott will be considerably entertained during her visit, as she has friends here from almost every state.

The wives of nearly all the members of the Nebraska delegation in congress acted as patronesses for the concert of Thurston L. Lawrence and his wife, and their assistants from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Nebraska, given here on Thursday evening of this week, in the Masonic auditorium. A large audience greeted the musicians and gave them an enthusiastic reception.

Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. M. D. Stanley, formerly of Nebraska, have as their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gould of Omaha, who arrived here Friday on their way south. Commander and Mrs. Stanley had an informal reception for their guests Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gould will go to Savannah, Ga., from here, then on to Florida. On their return trip they expect to make a longer stay in Washington. Both these marriages are the result of college romances of the state university at Lincoln where all four were students.

Why Men Enjoy the Theater

Men often attend a play because on the stage they see their ideals realized. You, too, are pleased by the sight of faultless grooming and have undoubtedly often tried to improve yourself only to be discouraged by such remarks as, "All nonsense; nice women don't use rouge, lip sticks are disgusting, natural women are so much better." But are they? Look about at some of the "natural women" and see if you could not improve on nature! Try to capitalize yourself. If you are in doubt, go to the Marinello Licensed Shop, 566 Brandeis Theater Building. They have experts who will gladly advise you. Your mirror will prove the success of your efforts. Beauty is always the result of effort, but this effort must be intelligent. Find what you need—then use every article as directed. IRENE GRAY.
