All of the important tournaments were seriously marred by a disgraceful number of defaults. The situation became so intolerable as to cause investigation on the part of the United States Lawn Tennis association officials. BUGS SAYS: BAER

A Successful Failure. The 18th amendment will be remembered so long as there are studious birds to drink in history. Prohibition has been a success. For the bootleggers.

In the old days, a wife could depend on her husband being in the old corner boozarium. The difference between prohibition and the old days is that a wife used to know where to find her husband. Now, she doesn't know where to look for him; he isn't dependable any more.

He may be following the distilled tracks of the hootchlegger to his subterranean mansion or sniffing the breezes for a bottled in bond cure. Prohibition has made drinking exclusive. Make anything exclusive and all the neighbors' children want to join the party.

Tell a boy he can't do something and he will do it if he busts a leg. The boy is father to the man. And father's legs are stronger.

They've got to be. In the olden days they aged the alcohol in the wood. Now they age the wood in the alcohol. It's getting so in these days that black looks like a gay and festive color. If folks see a man smiling, they marvel at him like an Arab seeing his first airplane.

Sunday is going to be a beautiful day for a murder by the time the blue-hibitionists, the prohibitionists and don't-hibitionists get through oiling the machinery with a monkey wrench.

The abolitionist of 1861 freed the slave. The abolitionist of 1920 slaved the free.

The 18th amendment doesn't work because it was designed for folks who do work. The rich man can still step forth and grab headlines, pauser and delirium sea-cums, but the poor are denied that luxury.

The canning of vodka saved Russia. Now they fight better than ever. And the 18th amendment will save America when it passes over the bootleggers' veto.

JUST the BEST of SPORTS BY RALPH WAGNER

The Western league club owners at their annual meeting in Des Moines yesterday accomplished one good act when they voted to prohibit the importation of players from major league and Class A and AA teams during the remaining 30 days of the season.

In former years it was possible for club owners whose teams were in first, second and third places in the standings to import pitchers and heavy hitters just before the final race for the pennant started.

The ruling made yesterday will prohibit any major league or Class A or AA players joining Western league clubs during the last 30 days.

Although W. A. (Pa) Rourke is out of Western league base ball for the coming season, club owners in the circuit voted yesterday to make the veteran Western loop-jean owner an honorary member of the league.

Adoption of a 168-game schedule will be a help to every city in the Western league. By having a longer playing program it is necessary to play three-game series in each town, where, under the 154-game chart, the series consisted of three and four games. The longer schedule calls for more games in each town, thereby helping the "strong box."

Omaha fans will not have an opportunity to cast their optics upon the local squad of diamond stars until Friday, April 29, when the Omaha club opens a three-game series with Oklahoma City.

Mrs. T. R. Jameson broke into the spotlight among the women bowlers of Omaha recently when she rolled three series, three games each, chalking up a total of 592, 650 and 670 in each series, which is going some. Mrs. Jameson's average for the nine games was 212.

She is a leader of the Chocolate Shop team, member of the Ladies' Metropolitan league.

Basket ball is becoming a popular sport with base ball players and wrestlers. Babe Ruth, Maranville, Frank Frisch, Clic Shorten, Mike McNally and Waite Hoyt are a few who are playing the indoor game.

Joe Stecher says he is getting into condition by playing basket ball.

Harry Reed, former boxer, who appeared in several bouts in Omaha last winter, has stored his gloves in the attic and is in the sporting goods business in Lincoln. Reed is connected with the Lawlor Sporting Goods Co., 117-119 South Fourteenth street, Lincoln.

King George Says Violence Will Not End Irish Tangle

King Declares Misguided Section of People Resort to Criminal Methods to Obtain Independence.

London, Feb. 15.—Violence will not solve the Irish problem, King George declared here today in his speech from the throne to the two houses of Parliament in formally opening the session. One of the outstanding sections of his address referred to Ireland, the king saying: "The situation in Ireland still causes me distress. A misguided section of the Irish people persists in resorting to methods of criminal violence with the object of establishing an independent republic."

"Neither Irish unity nor Irish self-government can be attained by this means."

The king's speech was brief, but touched on numerous vital questions confronting the government. At the outset it referred to the coming conferences to be held in London, and attended by the representatives of allied nations, Germany and Turkey.

Hopeful of Peace. In discussing the Irish question the king said: "Arrangements for bringing into force the government's Irish act are now well advanced, and I earnestly trust that in the near future the majority of the people will show their determination to repudiate violence and give effect to an act which confers upon their responsibilities of self-government, and provides machinery by which they can attain Irish unity by constitutional means."

Solution of the problem of unemployment does not rest with Parliament, the king declared in discussing this important subject.

"The most pressing problem confronting you," he said, "is that of unemployment, which is a result of world-wide restriction of trade. You will be invited to pass a bill extending provisions which were made for the unemployed under the unemployment insurance act."

(This act provides that employees pay a premium against unemployment, by which they receive government assistance if they are out of work.)

Will Ask Dry Law. "A measure will also be introduced in the House of Commons," the king continued, "dealing with the safeguarding of essential key industries of the country and with certain aspects of unfair and abnormal industrial competition. I earnestly hope these efforts may be seconded by the loyal and frank co-operation of employers and employed, for it is through co-operation of capital and labor, in a spirit of mutual trust and confidence, that early solution of this grave problem may be found."

King George announced "the determination of the government to reduce expenditures to the lowest level consistent with the well being of the empire," and he stated a bill would be presented dealing "with the sale of alcoholic liquor in the light of experience gained during the war."

Mystery of Skull in W. O. W. Cellar Solved

Their eyes stuck out so far they could have been scraped off with a shingle.

Yes, sir! Those workmen excavating under the engine room of the Woodmen of the World building Monday evening stood aghast when they unearthed a skull.

Omaha officials were pestered to desperation for explanations. Captain Briggs pronounced it the skull of an Indian interred in the old Indian burying ground on which the building was erected.

Others said it must be the skull of one of the three workmen who were buried when a huge drake collapsed during the construction of the building 10 years ago.

But John N. Crawford, superintendent of the building settled it. It was a papier-mache skull—one of the kind used to assist neophytes into the mysteries of the Woodmen circle.
