The Venetian Pump An Instant Success at the National Style Show, Designed by Shoe Specialist of Omaha.

QUITE the loveliest of the new strap pumps for dress wear are the pumps designed by Mr. Tuttle of the Thos. Kilpatrick company shoe department, The lower strap, slashed in manner most witching, fastens, seemingly, in under the sole at either side of the instep, the upper strap buckled trimly, is connected to the wider ankle strap by a perpendicular strap gracefully cut, reminiscent of the sandals worn in Italy. This model, an instant "hit" at the National Retailers convention in Milwaukee where it was worn by the style show models, is a product of Baker Bros., made up exclusively for Mr. Tuttle, the designer. In brown, black suede, or gray suede, a gray suede and black patent combination and black satin; these are altogether fascinating bits of foot-wear offered at the nominal sum of $13.50.
