

"Better Kitchens." Motto of Exhibit at Orchard & Wilhelm

Food and Kitchen Equipment Firms to Hold Big Show February 21 to 26.

Food and kitchen equipment firms will hold an exhibit February 21 to 26 in the Orchard and Wilhelm store from 7 to 9 p. m. to show Omaha women how to make their kitchens more efficient.

These firms will have booths and demonstrators at the exhibit: Iten Biscuit company, Mid West Milk Producers, Fairmont Creamery, Jay Burns Baking company, H. J. Heinz company, Skinner Manufacturing company, Paxton & Gallagher, H. J. Hughes company, Uncle Sam Breakfast Food, Perfection Oil company, American Ironing Machine company, Orchard & Wilhelm, Swift & Co. Hardware, Cream company, Omaha Flour Mills, Lobse-Wiles Biscuit company, Farrell & Co., Gordon-Rainalter, Armour & Co., Trimble Bros., Detroit Jewel Stove works, Voss Bros. and the Wear-Ever company.

Public Service. The show will be open from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 to 9 in the evenings. No business will be transacted in the evenings.

"The Better Kitchens exhibit is designed to function as a real public service," said Edwin L. Holland, in charge of the show, "bringing home these things to the head kitchen executive so that her kitchen may in miniature approach in convenience the modern office or manufacturing plant."

"The exhibit is being created to interest the 100,000 women who toil in the 100,000 kitchens in and around Omaha. It is easy to make these kitchens from 5 to 75 per cent more efficient, with the work of each woman cut down and made lighter and more pleasant."

Like Human Servants. "The Better Kitchens exhibits will show gas, coal and combination ranges in the two score modern models, refrigerators that operate on a sanitary dry air circulating principle, fireless cooking equipment, kitchen cabinets that are almost like human servants, cooking wears that reduce work to a minimum."

And almost more important than the equipment is the food packed in convenient-sized packages, sanitary, fresh and delivered on time according to the need. All these will be shown."

Toscanini Will Carry Welcome to Rome

Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the La Scala orchestra of Milan, Italy, which is to be in Omaha February 25, under the auspices of the American Legion, will take Mayor Smith's proclamation of welcome to Rome and place it in the historical archives of the Italian government.

Mr. Toscanini's personal representative, H. J. Rupert, advised the Legion committee today that Mr. Toscanini will ask for the original copy of the mayor's proclamation, which is:

"The City of Omaha extends to Maestro Arturo Toscanini and the La Scala orchestra of Milan a most cordial welcome to our city and congratulates the people of Omaha on their opportunity to hear this splendid orchestra, made up of the accomplished Italian musicians."

The people of Omaha should understand that this orchestra is touring the United States under the auspices of the Italian government for the aid extended to the Italian people by the people of the United States in the recent world war. The concert to be given at the Auditorium on the evening of February 25, is under the immediate direction of the American Legion, to which the people of Omaha are indebted for this opportunity to hear what is no doubt one of the finest orchestras in the world. No opportunity has ever been presented to the people of Omaha to see or hear such an exposition of orchestral art as that which will be given by Toscanini and the La Scala orchestra.

In behalf of the City of Omaha, I am glad to extend to this orchestra and its leader a most cordial welcome, and appeal to the lovers of music in this city to greet them with a splendid and enthusiastic audience.

Bride Loses Her Memory

The strange case of Mrs. Estelle Koetsch of Hammond, Ind., is puzzling the physicians of the South Shore hospital, Chicago. Mrs. Koetsch, a bride of six months, has suffered a complete loss of memory. Despite the ardent appeals of her husband, she insists that she does not know him and never saw him before. Before her identity was established by her husband, Carl Koetsch, she was a mystery to the hospital and police authorities. It was while on her way to visit her 4-year-old son by a previous marriage that her mind collapsed. Separation from her son, to whom she was devoted, is thought by the hospital authorities to have caused her loss of memory. Mrs. Koetsch is shown here with Nurse Elise Pierson at the South Shore hospital.

Two Mothers Near Death Seek Sons

Omaha Police Asked by Relatives of Youths to Search for Them.

Lives of two mothers can be saved if Garrett King, 24, and Jess Hudson can be located in Omaha. Police here have been asked by relatives of these two men to search for them. Charles Shackelford, Jefferson hotel, Wichita, Kan., offers $100 reward for information concerning the whereabouts of King, whose mother is seriously ill. Shackelford sends this message to King, who was last heard from when he left Casper, Wyo., January 24:

"Your silence is killing your mother. You could at least be spanned enough to tell her of your whereabouts."

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

You've probably sold a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Federal Sleuths Hunt in Vain for Tom Kelly, Et Al

Have Warrant "All Dressed Up, But With No Place to Go." Rendezvous Is Searched in Vain.

A warrant, signed by the governor-consul of Saskatchewan and C. E. More, attorney for the Canadian consul at Chicago, is conspicuously displayed on a desk in the office of the United States marshal.

But nobody knows what to do with it.

The warrant carries the names of Tom Kelly, Art Williams, J. F. Burns and "Jack" Shelton. They're wanted up in Canada for theft of $2,000 worth of perfectly good hooch.

Friday night federal sleuths, accompanied by Omaha police officers, combed the city. A North Sixteenth street rendezvous, where a short time ago highjackers congregated nightly to take invoices of their loot, was searched from top to bottom. Friends and former companions of the quartet were questioned sharply.

But nary a clue was uncovered and gloom continues to pervade the offices of the federal agents.

Floyd Shelton walked into the office of United States Marshal Dahlman yesterday. "Jack" Shelton, one of the men sought, occasionally uses, among others, the name of Floyd Shelton, and Mr. Shelton with some surprise read his name in The Bee last night.

"If you've got a warrant for me," began Mr. Shelton with a grin. Then he revealed his identity to the marshal. He works at the Central market.

The marshal assured Mr. Shelton that he would remain undisturbed by federal law enforcers.

"The prospective owners of homes must realize now that building material has taken its last slump and when the demand begins to strengthen may increase in value," Mr. Mitchell said. "The exhibits at the show will be illustrative of that."

Paul W. Kubus, president of the Conservative Saving and Loan association, said, "a building program in Omaha can best be launched by the people of the city getting behind the building show at the Auditorium."
