Regitors PROBABLY nine men out of ten would be willing to wager a luncheon upon their ability to give a correct definition of the word "realtor"; and yet the chances are that eight of them would lose their bets. The proper definition is not so obvious as it seems, for though all realtors are real-estate brokers, not all real-estate brokers are realtors by a long shot. Anyone who doubts the existence of a distinction may satisfy himself of its reality by reference to the records of the district court of Hennepin County, Minnesota.

It appears that the word "realtor" was coined by a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards for the purpose of creating a distinction between those real-estate brokers who are bound by the code of business ethics of this association and those who are not. The association's exclusive right to the use of this word was confirmed in a case in which a telephone company which had been requested not to list under the designation "realtor" brokers not members of the association in question was enjoined from so doing.

Transfer Said to Violate Treaty Thorough Study Necessary To Determine Status of vention. Washington, Feb. 21.-Transfer of a part of the Syrian mandate from France to Great Britain under a convention concluded between the two powers without reference to the league of nations was interpreted today by State department officials as an apparent violation of the treaty of

Franco-British Con-

The State department view was set forth as holding that the tracing of the boundaries of the mandate territories was the function of the Since the question of the mandates, however, has become so involved with the controversy now extending between the State department and the other powers concerning Mesopotamia and the Island of Yap, officials indicated a thorough study of the mandate problem upon which the State department is engaged, would have to be completed before the precise status of the Franco-British convention could be determined.
