

Postpone Bill To Exempt Tax on Building Stock

Senate, After Bitter Fight, Kills Measure Favored by Building and Loan Associations.

Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—(Special Telegram.)—The bitterest fight in the state senate during the present session ended this afternoon with the death of the bill to exempt from taxation the capital stock of building and loan associations.

The vote stood: For, Anderson, Beebe, Bliss, Cronin, Davis, Gannon, Halderman, Harris, Humphrey, Johnson, McGowan, Miller, Randall, Reed, Rickard, Sturm, Ulrich, Warner, Watson and White.

Against, Berka, Brown, Bushee, Cooper, Dutton, Good, Hastings, Hoagland, Noyak, Pickett, Robbins and Saunders.

Removes Double Tax. Advocates of the bill declared it was calculated to remove the present double taxation—the tax on property paid by the mortgagee and the tax on stock representing money loaned on the property.

Help Poor Man. "I see the bankers present here sneering," he said, "I want to tell you—you can't sneer any man out of his home."

Robbins Defends Bill. "Why this outburst from building and loan associations who tell us they are about to be devoured, when since 1911 their investments have grown from $24,000,000 to $77,000,000?" asked Senator Beebe of Holt.

Your Face and What It Tells

Are You of the Motive Type, Like Roosevelt, Billy Sunday and Doug Fairbanks? Jay Burns Is Omaha Example.

By MABEL WARNER RUGG. DID you ever think Theodore Roosevelt, Douglas Fairbanks and Billy Sunday were alike? They had one essential point in common, that of structure. All three represent fundamentally the motive type.

Square Faces and Bodies. The outstanding characteristic of the motive type of body structure is a general squareness of body-build—square face and square body.

BILLY SUNDAY

They Are Strenuous. Every one of the five shows the strenuousity that is another phase of the motive type.
