

Wife Attacks Woman She Says Took Mate's Love

Victim Seriously Injured by Assaultant, Who was Armed With Revolver Containing Blank Shells.

"She made life hell for me for months!"

These words were shouted by Mrs. May Richardson, 2215 California street, yesterday afternoon to Acting Chief of Detectives Pisanowski after she had been arrested for attacking Mrs. Carrie Hughes, 1122 North Twentieth street, at 11:30 yesterday. Mrs. Hughes lies at her home with a lacerated scalp, bruised jaw and what is believed by police to be a gunshot wound in her chest.

Mrs. Richardson accuses Mrs. Hughes of stealing the love of her husband, Edward Richardson, 2925 Parker street, from whom she has been separated several months.

Blank Shells in Gun. When arrested Mrs. Richardson had a revolver filled with blank shells, one of them exploded.

Dr. C. G. Winterson, who attended Mrs. Hughes, told the police she was suffering from a wound made by a lead bullet.

"The only reason I didn't have lead bullets in my gun was because of my love for my two boys, 11 and 15," declared Mrs. Richardson, "for I love them more than I do my husband."

Later yesterday afternoon, police received a summons there had been a shooting affray near Twenty-third and Paul streets. Detectives Lloyd Toland and Charles Whalen were sent to investigate.

Find Woman in Bed. They found Mrs. Hughes at home in bed, injured, and Mrs. Richardson at the home of a brother-in-law, Ed Wray, 2923 Parker street, where her husband has been living since his separation from his wife several months ago.

At 11:30 yesterday morning, Mrs. Richardson lay in wait behind a shack on Paul street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, the police report relates.

Soon Mrs. Hughes came walking along. Suddenly Mrs. Richardson leaped upon her with a club in her hand, and beating her over the head with it, drew a revolver with her other hand and fired one shot at close range.

Mrs. Hughes fled into a nearby home with her screams at her heels. Through the front door they ran, into the living room, on back through the dining room into the bedroom and bathroom.

Then everything became quiet. It was then the police were called to investigate.

Admits Attack. When taken to Central police station, Mrs. Richardson admitted attacking Mrs. Hughes, and declared she did so because Mrs. Hughes was the cause of the breaking up of her home.

Investigation of the revolver she had revealed blank shots.

Police are puzzled by the wound Mrs. Hughes suffered, and declared a further investigation will be made. Mrs. Hughes denies any connection with the separation of Mrs. Richardson and her husband.

Mrs. Richardson declared she was suing for divorce and naming Mrs. Hughes as co-defendant.

"I'm glad to know she is in a serious condition," Mrs. Richardson said, following her arrest. "She broke up my home. She's made life hell for me for months."

Mrs. Richardson was released in $100 cash bail pending the condition of Mrs. Hughes.

Woman to Run for Mayor of Omaha

A woman entered the race for city commissioner yesterday for the first time in the history of Omaha. She is Mrs. Mary J. C. Aberly, wife of Dr. Henry J. Aberly, 4833 South Twenty-fourth street. She obtained a blank at the election commissioner's office yesterday.

"Some one asked me why I did not run for mayor and I decided I would," she told the clerk. "When it was suggested that her chances for the mayor's chair were not very bright, she replied: 'Then I would like to be police commissioner.'"

Blanks were also taken out on behalf of the candidacy of John F. Murphy, Harry B. Zinnman, Leo J. Crosby and John F. Trainer.

City Commissioner W. G. Ure filed for the office yesterday.
