

Society

Toy-Maldonado.
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Marion Maldonado, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Fox, and Arthur R. Toy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Toy, on October 9, 1920. The couple will reside at 2916 Vinton street.

Mrs. Gulick Coming.
Mrs. E. L. Gulick of Brookline, Mass., arrives in Omaha Sunday to remain until Wednesday, as the guest of Mrs. Charles G. McDonald. Mrs. Gulick is the sponsor of the three Aloha summer camps for girls in the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire.

A motion picture, showing the various camp activities, will be shown in Omaha at the Rialto theater on Monday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings.

For the benefit of those interested in the camps, Mrs. Gulick will receive visitors on Tuesday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock on the mezzanine floor of the Fontenelle.

Miss Helen Smalls of this city has attended the camps for several years. Last season she was a director of music at the junior camp. Miss Charlotte McDonald also spent last summer at an Aloha camp.

Evening Bridge.
Misses Irene and Ruth Carter entertained at a bridge party at their home, Thursday evening, in honor of their house guest, Miss Marie Patterson of Los Angeles. Seven tables were set for the game.

Affairs to be given for this visitor next week include a bridge party Tuesday evening by Miss Dorothy Ballbach, an informal tea on Wednesday by Mrs. Sanford Gifford, and a bridge party Thursday afternoon by Miss Emily Keller.

Miss Patterson goes to the home of Miss Mildred Rhodes about March 20 where she will be a guest for a short time.

Fort Omaha.
Mrs. Henry T. White has returned to Fort Omaha from a trip to the coast.

Mrs. George Lundberg will entertain at a bridge party at her quarters at the post, next Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Henry T. White and Mrs. R. E. Thompson, who will be leaving the fort in the near future. Captain White and Lieutenant Thompson have been ordered to Ross Field, Cal. Lieutenant and Mrs. Thompson leave April 10.

The bridge club will be entertained by Mrs. William McKinley Friday afternoon of this week.

For Miss Hall.
Mrs. C. D. Sturtevant entertained at a bridge luncheon of 20 covers at her home, Thursday, in honor of her sister, Miss Mary Hall of Chicago. Yellow daffodils formed the decorations.

Mrs. Sturtevant will give a luncheon Monday for her sister and Mrs. Frank Brown will entertain at luncheon at her home, next Wednesday, in honor of Miss Hall.

Comus Club.
Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Marti will entertain members of the Comus club and their husbands informally at cards Saturday evening at their home.

Afternoon Tea.
Mrs. C. J. Claassen, assisted by Mrs. Howard Kennedy, will entertain wives of officials of the Peters Trust company at tea at the Claassen home, Friday afternoon. Fifteen guests will be present.

Max Landow in Recital.
Max Landow, pianist, formerly of Omaha, appeared in recital March 4, 1920, at the Conservatory of Music of the Peabody Institute, Baltimore, Md., according to word received by friends here. His program included compositions by Franz Liszt, Johannes Brahms, Max Reger, George F. Boyle and Frederic Chopin.

Luncheon for Mrs. Magee.
Mrs. W. D. Hosford entertained informally at luncheon at her home, Thursday, in honor of Mrs. Ella Cotton Magee, a guest at the E. W. Nash home.

Clubdom

For Welfare Worker.
Forty-five guests, including representatives of welfare organizations in the city, attended the luncheon for Virgil Johnson of New York, general secretary of the National Association of the Travelers' Aid society, at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday.

Following the luncheon Mr. Johnson spoke on his work.

Mrs. Carrie Ada Campbell, general secretary of the Omaha Y. W. C. A., presided.

Mr. Johnson left Wednesday evening for Des Moines.

Chapter B. P. Elects Officers.
The following officers of chapter B. P. of the P. E. O. sisterhood were re-elected at the annual business meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. J. Haas: Mrs. J. W. Hazlett, president; Mrs. P. J. Haas, vice president; Mrs. Robert Allen, recording secretary; Mrs. J. W. Hawkins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. C. Bronson, treasurer; Mrs. J. B. McGrew, chaplain; Miss Martha Peacock, guard.

Mrs. Ella Griswold was elected delegate to the state convention of P. E. O. to be held at Lexington in June. The president, Mrs. Hazlett, is a delegate by virtue of her office.

Calendar.

Federal Art Club—Friday, 3 p. m., Y. W. C. A.

Phi Kappa Psi—Friday noon, luncheon, University club.

Round Table Chautauque Circle—Friday, 7:30 p. m., Y. W. C. A.

George Crook W. B. C.—Friday, 2 p. m., Memorial hall, court house.

League of Women Voters—Friday, 2 p. m., council chamber, city hall.

First Central Congregational Women's Society—Friday, 2 p. m., social meeting.

Longfellow Chautauque Circle—Friday, 7:30 p. m., court house, Ella Connelley, leader.

Scottish Rite Women's Club—Friday, 3 p. m., Scottish Rite cathedral, business meeting.

Omaha Dorens Club—Friday, 1 o'clock luncheon with Mrs. Louis Nelson, 2506 Lafayette avenue.

Extension Society—Friday, 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. Michael McVeigh, 1142 South Twenty-ninth street.

West Omaha Mothers Culture Club—Friday, 3 p. m., with Mrs. C. D. Hutchinson, 414 Nevada street.

Citizenship School—Friday, 3 p. m., council chamber, city hall. Mrs. H. H. Wheeler of Lincoln, speaker.

Lecture on Ancient History—Friday, 4 p. m., Dueschene college and Convocation of the Sacred Heart, Thirty-ninth and Burr streets. The public is invited.

Wife of Our New Attorney General

Mrs. Harry M. Daugherty, wife of the new attorney general, who will be a newcomer in Washington social circles. Mrs. Daugherty has taken little interest in public affairs.

Mrs. Daugherty is a close friend of Mrs. Harding, but it is not expected for the present at least that she will transfer her home from Columbus to Washington, as she has been an invalid for years and is at present in mourning. Of Mrs. Daugherty's two children the daughter, Mrs. Ralph S. Barry, lives in Columbus, and the son, Draper Daugherty, in New York.

Craig Players

"The Gypsy Trail," the comedy which the Craig Players will present in the Lyric theater building on Saturday afternoon and on the following Wednesday evening, is the first of a series of three-act comedies which Mr. Craig plans to produce for the public on Wednesday evenings and Saturday afternoons until June 1.

Robert Housman's comedy, "The Gypsy Trail," is said to be as romantic as it is amusing. It is the story of Michael Rudder, a young man who has never grown up, who has led a most adventurous adolescence, who can cook chicken a la King and play the ukulele—a wanderer on the "Gypsy Trail," who finds "the" girl, is engaged before he knows it.

Mr. Craig and his players are said to have spared no pains to present the play in a manner that will satisfy the most exacting observers of the drama. Mr. Craig will be seen as Michael, with Miss Lea Lipsey as "the" girl and Lee Atchison as her plain, more practical lover. Others in the cast are Mrs. Frank Prawl, Mrs. Benjamin Boasberg, Mrs. Anton Bigelow, Mark Levings, Marcus Higgins and J. Edwards.

Theta Phi Delta.

An informal dance will be given Friday evening at the Strichow club house by the Theta Phi Delta fraternity.

Municipal Concert.

March 28 has been set as the date for the next municipal concert at the Auditorium.

WOMEN

find decided pleasure in reading the section of The Bee devoted to their interests. The breezy style, the many features, and the completeness with which it follows the trend of all social activities is taken as a matter of course.

The following comparison from the Sunday, March 6th, issues of the three Omaha papers is ample proof of the completeness of our Woman's Department—

	Bee	News	World-Herald
Number Columns of Space...	31	15	15
Number of Pictures.....	14	8	7
Number of Local Items.....	33	14	25
Number of Club Items.....	74	35	48

In addition to the above, The Bee had the only Food Page, Benson Society, Council Bluffs Society, Woman's Feature and Washington Society Departments.

THE OMAHA BEE

Contains ALL the Women's News

Personals

Mrs. John F. Nesbit of Tekamah is visiting her daughter, Miss Lois Nesbit.

Mrs. Charles Daugherty of Columbus, Neb., is visiting Mrs. F. T. Walker, Sr.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bixton Thursday at the Stewart hospital.

A son was born Wednesday at the Stewart hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Updike.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cameron have gone to Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend a month.

Miss Marian Hamilton will return to Omaha Friday after spending several weeks in the east.

Mrs. W. R. Coates leaves Friday for an eastern trip, including Boston, Mass., and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. R. Levensky leaves March 12 for a stay of several months in New York, Pittsburgh and other eastern points.

Mrs. Carl Gray will leave Omaha about the middle of June to spend the summer at her summer home in Pleasant Point, Me.

Mrs. F. H. Rinehart and Mrs. George Marsden return Friday from Chicago, where they have been spending several weeks.

Mrs. Howard Kennedy goes to Lincoln, Saturday, to attend the luncheon of the Order of Golden

Kreiser Concert

The Kreiser concert Friday evening at the Auditorium will close a brilliant and successful season for the Tuesday Musical club. Nominations for officers during the coming year will appear on the printed program Friday night, as well as the date for the annual election. It is probable Mrs. A. V. Kinsler will be re-elected president.

The Auditorium management reports a good steady sale of tickets for Fritz Kreiser, amounting to a better advance sale than on Pavlowa. Good seats are still available, according to Mrs. Lucien Stephens, who says a large enthusiastic audience is assured for the occasion.

P. E. O.

Omaha P. E. O. association will meet at a monthly luncheon Saturday, at 12:30 in the south room of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is estimated that the total woman's vote in the recent presidential election amounted to more than 15,000,000.

Fleece of which her daughter, Betty, is a member.

Mrs. Ellen Martin of New York City is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Whitehorn. She is enroute to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Max Bruckner of Platte Center, Neb., who has been visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gruenther, left Wednesday for her home.

Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

St. Patrick's Party.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I would be thankful for any suggestions you can give me on entertaining a St. Patrick's party. Also what to serve. This party is to be with indoors.

A FRESHIE.

In The Sunday Bee of February 27 you will find suggestions for a St. Patrick's party, or send self-addressed envelope and postage and we will mail you the clipping.

Needs Clothing.

Miss Fairfax has the name of a young lady out in the state who is 5 feet 4 inches tall, 36 inch bust and 27 inch waist. She needs undergarments, and old suits or dresses.

Anyone wishing to send her old clothing, may obtain address through Miss Fairfax.

Miss Beatrice Fairfax: I come to you for a little information. Will you please publish what significance of love accompanies an "orchid," and obliged to you, I am, M. A. E.

According to the World's Almanac, which gives a long list of flower signs, the orchid has no significance whatsoever. The young man who is lavish enough to send orchids must be very much in love, or at least extravagant.

Billy: It is not necessary to thank your employer for your salary, but if your employer hands you a check or the money personally, I think it is only common decency to thank him for it. You have earned your salary, presumably, but a courtesy is something you want to give on your own account. When the office girl hands me my morning mail, I feel like saying "Thank You." To be sure it is her job to distribute the mail, but I feel some gratitude to her for handing it to me politely, perhaps even with a smile.

The far-reaching effect of good manners cannot be estimated. It is no strange truth that to a large extent we receive from the world what we give. Give courtesy, good will, honest endeavor, and intelligent service and you will never have cause to complain of the world's abuse.

Blondy: Have you been reading the letters which were sent to "Mother and Daughter?" If so, you probably have some idea about the advisability of a girl 16 having boy friends. I wouldn't want to answer for all girls that age, but judging from your letter, you are a very sensible 16-year-old girl, and in my opinion, the companionship of boy friends would be very desirable for you.

Do not try to force your society on any young man. I judge you are quite interested in the Catholic boy you mention. If he cares for you, he will let you know, without any advance on your part.

I agree with you entirely about the wrong of allowing "privileges" to boy friends.

Personally, I am against high French heels. I could write you a long letter on the one subject. Go to the Y. W. C. A. and ask to see their literature and charts on high heels. I believe the day is fast coming when all women will wear sensible heels.

Many of our smartest and best dressed women of Omaha wear the common sense heel, except in a ball room. I would go a step farther than merely to recommend a sensible heel. I would add, always have a rubber-heel. It saves a certain jar and makes walking more quiet.

HOLDING A HUSBAND

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

The Way Dicky Took Command Where Katie and Jim Were Concerned.

"There!" Mrs. Durkee set a low bowl of roses on a small table by the window and looked around Leila's room in triumph. "I think it's done now, or would you put another cluster—"

"Not a single bud more, please!" Lillian ejaculated. "It's perfect now. Don't spoil it."

"All right." Her fluffiness looked at her tiny wrist watch and uttered an ejaculation of dismay. "We've got to hurry, folks, or we won't be dressed. Alfred said we should meet them at the station, as he didn't know just which of the early evening trains they could catch. But we've got to be ready for them at 6 o'clock, for they may be able to make connections with the train which reaches here at that hour. So you folks who are going to dress in the other house, please scat right out of here. Edith will arrange the flowers in the living room, and I'll start the dinner, and then we can dress."

"I suppose that 'scat business' means us, old dear," Dicky drawled, looking at me. "So let's yamoose. I'm anxious to see the damage over there, anyway."

"It also means Marion and me," Lillian said. "But we're 'quick changes'—me child and me—so we'll let you get through your inspection first before we amble over."

She flashed me a significant glance, which I returned with a grateful one. Dicky must have seen both glances, for he suddenly laughed.

"I'll promise not to leave any scars, or to use a stick thicker than my thumb," he said sardonically. "But I ask you now, as man to woman, what'll be the use of having a wife unless you can hold her responsible when things happen?"

"Will you stop gabbling, and get out of here!" our little hostess demanded frantically.

Dicky seized me by the hand, rushed me out of the room and down the stairs.

"What did our beloved handmaiden say to the mess when she discovered it?" Dicky asked as we crossed the lawn.

I stopped short with a little gasp of dismay. I had completely forgotten my little maid and her tantrum, and I wondered if we should find either Katie or Jim on the premises when we reached there. That Dicky must be acquainted forthwith with this new development was certain. I didn't wish him to get the idea that I was keeping this new development from him also.

"What's the matter? Just remind me of it!" Dicky called after me.

bered that you left Katie locked in the coal cellar?" Dicky drawled.

"Worse than that," I retorted. "Stop right here till I tell you."

I rapidly sketched the incidents leading up to Katie's outburst and her flight to her room, ending with a despairing little wail.

"They Won't Leave."

"And I don't know what in the world I shall do if Katie and Jim leave just now with all this work on hand."

"They won't leave," Dicky declared confidently. "Katie might be nut enough to try it, but Jim has a lot of sense, too much to be pulled around by a petticoat. He knows what a good thing he has with us, crippled as he is, and he'll never let Katie upset the apple cart. Nay, nay, dear heart. Pluck up your courage."

I tried to emulate his cheery mood, and succeeded somewhat until we came to the side door, for there we found Jim and Katie waiting for us.

"I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"

I held my breath, wondering what Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before."

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

each with a small grip packed. Katie's swollen, tear-stained face was filled with resentful sullenness, while her husband's, though free from anger, was still eloquent with dignified disapproval.

"We're going, Mrs. Graham," Jim addressed himself to me. "Katie here is all excited like, and I'm going to take her down to my folks until we can find a place. She won't be back, but I'll come back tomorrow, if you like, and help you through with the packing and moving. I'm sorry to leave like this, but I don't think we deserved having our home broken up in this way without ever telling us. We expected to stay with you as long as—"

A Peremptory Order.

"Why, Jim!" I interrupted. "You must misunderstand. I never meant—"

Dicky interrupted me with a little air of authority which I had seen him display to me but once or twice before.

"Please let me attend to this, my dear," he said quietly, then turned to Jim.

"My dear chap," he said cordially, "suppose we talk this over first. Remember I've just got here, and know nothing about this. Katie's voice was crisp, peremptory, 'go to your room and wait for Jim.'"