

Senate Passes Bill to Enforce State Dry Law

Act Changed to Conform With Federal Measure and Gives Officers Specific Authority.

Lincoln, March 11.—(Special)—The senate Friday advanced to third reading in committee of the whole S. F. No. 185, amending the prohibition law to conform with federal restrictions.

The bill gives state authorities specific power to seize stills and mash, and makes more specific the rules governing the sale of proprietary medicines containing alcohol by druggists.

Only one section was stricken out, that making conviction for a liquor offense sufficient notice to the owner of property in which the law was violated for the abatement of the property as a nuisance.

The committee of the whole killed S. F. No. 272, creating a state bureau of forestry and providing for a state forester, on the ground that Director George A. Condra of the state conservation and soil survey bureau is given forestry supervision in another senate bill.

The committee of the whole reconsidered its action of Thursday in accepting a committee report to kill S. F. No. 345, creating a state bureau of animal health, and referred the bill back to the committee.

Another bill advanced was S. F. No. 180, drafted by Sary county citizens, to abolish the present two-mile road improvement zone limit in counties under 40,000, and permit the county board to assess the benefits back as far as the property owners want the district.

Other measures sent to third reading were: H. R. No. 49—State boiler inspection, S. F. No. 271—Regulating the keeping of gasoline and kerosene.

Municipal Campaign Under Way at West Point

West Point, Neb., March 11.—(Special)—Municipal politics is attracting the greatest interest here of recent years. The People's and Citizens' parties have held their caucuses and all candidates are making active campaigns. Miss Sarah E. Lindale, the first woman ever nominated for office in the city, has been placed on both tickets for city clerk. Frank Miller for city treasurer is also on both tickets.

Other officers nominated: People's tickets: John Clatanoff, mayor; Dr. C. J. Collins, Walter Reeson and E. J. Bruun, councilmen; Aaron Schairer, police judge; O. C. Anderson, G. L. Neuburg, W. H. Gillogly and W. H. Harstick, school board. Citizens' ticket: William Dill, mayor; John Benne, Louis Zobel, William Hartwig, councilmen; J. W. Hodges, police judge; Dr. I. L. Thompson, George Korb, Frank Boyer and Dr. F. J. Kotlar, school board.

Supreme Court Holds for Juvenile Court Jury Trial

Lincoln, March 11.—(Special)—The juvenile court had no authority to impose a jail sentence on Louis Swanson, Philip Norton and Joseph Nightingale of Omaha without a jury trial, which the defendants demanded, at their hearing on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Ruth Funnell, a girl under 16, in October, 1919.

The Nebraska supreme court so held, in reversing the case on the defendants' appeal. The court took the position that the general criminal code and procedure had to be followed, instead of special juvenile court procedure.

Supreme Court Revises Cases

Two Damage Suit Verdicts are Denied by High Tribune—Attorney Loses Fee.

Lincoln, March 11.—(Special)—Failure of A. G. Wolfenbarger, Lincoln attorney, to include the names of Douglas H. Roberts and L. L. Turner in his suit against Joseph B. Britt and others, wherein he recovered a judgment of $400 for attorney fees in the Lancaster county district court, was fatal to his cause in the Nebraska supreme court. The high court reversed the case, holding that the other parties, who

Highlander Injunction Case at Aurora Postponed

Aurora, Neb., March 11.—(Special)—Judge F. E. Good, who has been trying a Highlander lawsuit in Aurora during the past three days, adjourned the hearing to be completed in Lincoln, where most of the records of that society are now located. This suit was brought by several members against the holders of the pioneer certificates to secure an injunction to prevent other suits similar to the Henthorn suit, to decide the validity of the pioneer certificates, being filed.

Earl Bayd Smith, well-driller, sued J. H. Bailey and 53 others of Red Cloud, Neb., for damages and $3,000 breach of contract, and got a $2,500 verdict on the contract, but the supreme court reversed the case. His contract was that he should provide wells which would yield 250,000 gallons of water a day for the city of Red Cloud, for which he was to receive $1 a day while they were in operation, with the proviso that the other parties could buy the wells at any time for $3,000.

They paid him $1 a day for three years, and then ceased. He sued them and got a judgment on the purchase clause of the contract. The supreme court held that he could not enforce the optional purchase, since he had a remedy in a suit for damages.
