City Jail to Be Ready This Year. Councilmen Say

Construction Started January 2, 1920, Delayed by "Just One Thing After Another," Committee Asserts.

The proverbial delay of the law is being paralleled in the construction work of the new city jail and central police station at Eleventh and Dodge streets. This work is now well into its second year and it is believed by the committee of the city council, which has this work in charge, that the job will be completed this year. This special committee comprises Police Commissioner Ringer and Commissioners Ure and Towl.

Commissioner Ringer ventures the prediction that the work will be fin-ished this spring.

This public work has been "just one thing after another," the com-nussioners aver and they assert that they have been beset by unavoidable circumstances which hindered an earlier completion of the building.

Work Resumed. Work has just been resumed after a suspension of four weeks on account of a disagreement between the contractor, Robert Butke, and the commissioners over the payment of extras which were necessary after the original plans were modified. The piecemeal payment plan adopted by the city and the financial exigencies of the contractor's side of the controversy brought the work to a temporary halt.

An adjustment of the extras was agreed to on the basis of $6,447, al-though the contractor claimed more than that amount. The extra work consisted of enlarging the space orwhich will be housed in the building, also a modification of the cell arrangement for juveniles and women and a change in the police court

The old county jail building will be utilized in connection with the new structure. The upper floors will serve for use as a woman's detention hospital, the first floor for general city prisoners and the second floor for women prisoners.

The special committee of the city council admits that the work has been slow, but they insist that they have done the best they could under adverse circumstances.

After the ceremony and breakfast, Captain and Mrs. Foster left for a short stay in Atlantic City. They will be at home after March 15 at the Burlington in Washington, Captain Foster was in South Da hicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, March 13.-Charges wolving either an actress or musician, will be made against James A. Stillman, multi-millionaire National City bank president, by Mrs. Ann Stillman, his wife. The name of the alleged woman in the case is not disclosed

This will be Mrs. Stillman's answer, besides a general denial of the charges of her husband involving Fred Beauvais, half-breed Indian guide, and Mrs. Stillman at the Stillman camp near Three Rivers Quebec.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser in Poughkeepsie was ready, today, to hear counsel for Mrs. Stillman argue a plea for $25,000 counsel fees and $10,000 a month alimony, but not a lawyer appeared. It was reported that the alimony and fees issued had been arranged between the attorneys.

John E. Mack, appointed tempor ary guardian of the 2-year-old boy in the case, was in court and filed formal proceedings to protect the child's interests.

In response to questions Mr. Mack said that young Guy was with his mother, but that he did not where they were living.

Beauvais, described in the com plaint of Mr. Stillman as "an Apollo Belvedere" for a time had charge of the fishing tackle department of Abercrombie & Fitch, a house specializing in sporting goods and pro-moting among the well-to-do the spirit of "the call of the wild."

Beauvais was employed at the store on the recommendation of Mrs. Stillman, who was a highly considered customer, it was explained there today. She brought him to the attention of the management in May, 1918, and he was put in charge of the fishing tackle department.
