Drama League Plays

MRS. MARY LEARNED GATCHELL HOME PORTAIT

Mrs. Myron Learned, whose friends seem to enjoy calling her "Mary Learned," is author of "Once a Year," which will be presented by the Drama League Tuesday, March 22, 4 p. m., Fontenelle hotel ball room. Mrs. Harry Dooley's "White Lies" will also be presented on that occasion. Oscar Wilder Craik is producing director for these one-act plays.

Among other plays written by Mrs. Learned are: "The Spirit of Walden Wood," presented at Hanscom park in June, 1916; "Voices of the Dunes," written for the Prairie club of Chicago and produced on the shores of Lake Michigan, near Portchester.

When to Get There

One should never arrive for luncheon or dinner more than five minutes in advance of the time stated. In giving luncheon or dinner invitations the hostess should always specify definitely the time she wishes her guests to come. Among close friends it is sometimes customary to ask luncheon or dinner guests to come well in advance of the meal hour, but when that is expected the hostess should specify ask her guests to do so. A dinner is usually regarded as an entire evening's entertainment, and one does not hurry away from dinner, but lingers in the drawing room or living room for possibly an hour. However, among women who entertain extensively a luncheon invitation is not regarded as an invitation for the entire afternoon and incl. Memorial day, 1918, and "Pan and the Rose Fairy," given at the Brandeis theater, Omaha, June, 1919. Of her "Pan and the Rose Fairy," Thomas Wood Stevens, head of the School of Dramatic Art, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, said: "Your masque has the note of joy, which all the critics say we never get on the stage in this country."

Mrs. Benjamin Boasberg and Mr. Craik will play the two roles afforded by Mrs. Learned's play. Members will be admitted upon presentation of their cards, non-members upon payment of a door fee.

unless some entertainment, such as cards or music, is provided for the afternoon guests leave shortly after they have adjourned from the luncheon table. However, that is a matter of local custom. In small town society to hurry away 10 minutes after a luncheon is over would be regarded as discourteous.

Mrs. Hainisch, mother of the new president of Austria, has been long known as the foremost champion of women's rights in that country.

A New Schumann-Heink Story

This is no reflection on Chicago, for the lady may have been a visitor from New York, Boston or Muskegon, nor is it a reflection on the Chicago Opera company because there is no musical-historical test to be passed by purchasers of tickets. It is merely a verbatim report of a between-the-acts remark overheard at a performance of the Chicago Opera company—Lady scanning the names emblazoned around the stage opening: "Derloiz, Mozart, Beethoven, Schumann," she read and then turning to her companion, "I suppose," she hazarded, "they left off the Heink because there was not room for it."

Ernestine Shayler Thursday Bride

Bishop and Mrs. Ernest V. Shayler announce the marriage of their daughter, Ernestine, and Marion C. Heath, son of Mrs. M. C. Heath of Cleveland, O., which took place Thursday afternoon, March 17, at 4 o'clock at Trinity Cathedral.

The father of the bride read the Episcopalian service in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom. Owing to the Lenten season the wedding was quiet and simplicity marked the arrangements. There were no attendants.

The couple have been friends since their childhood and have been betrothed for several years although no formal announcement of the engagement had been made.

The bride wore her traveling suit of navy blue tricotine with small black hat. Flame color sweetpeas formed her bouquet.

Following the ceremony Bishop and Mrs. Shayler entertained at a dinner of 12 covers at the Omaha club in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Heath.

The bride has attended Sweet Briar college, Virginia, and the University of Washington. During the
