Another Woman Discovered In Stillman Case

Fresh Sensation Disclosed in Matrimonial Tangle of Well-Known New York Family.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, March 19 .- The James A. Stillman divorce sensation took another turn late today. The searchlight disclosed a second woman who is reported to have figured in the personal affairs of Mr. Stillman, just prior to the advent of Mrs. Florence H. Leeds.

Like Mrs. Leeds, her predecessor is described as a show girl. In fact, she is said to have brought Mr. Stillman and Mrs. Leeds together early in 1917, while Mrs. Leeds appraced on the Century theater bills as plain Florence Leeds, in the role of "Chicken."

According to the informants, the second woman is known thus far only as "Edna." She is supposed to have been a "pony" in the Century Omaha. show at the same time Florence Leeds cavorted before the footlights.
Up in Poughkeepsie, where the legal aspects of Mr. Stillman's suit and Mrs. Stillman's answer are dripping out, it is stated that this "Edna" girl was maintained in a luxurious apartment, similar to the style which Mrs. Leeds later enjoyed.

Mrs. Leed's Successor.

In fact, Mrs. Leeds is mentioned by divorce persons as the actual successor of "Edna." Numerous theatrical people had smatterings of these joint affairs at the time and expected jealousies to bring the mat-ter into publicity, but nothing oc-arred until Mr. Stillman filed his suit for divorce.

One indication that persons in "society" and other places where they might have gleaned knowledge of the movements of the banker are endeavoring to assist Mrs. Stillman in her defensive fight, was the admis-sion in Poughkeepsie by John E. Mack, guardian for Guy Stillman, who said he had received at least six letters, some anonymous, giv-ing information of material aid to the case of the infant and Mrs. Still-

Similar letters have been sent to Mrs. Stillman, some of them at Lake Wood. N. J., and others have gone to John F. Brennan, Yonkers attorney, retained by the defense. In some of these missives mention was made of another girl.

Lawler Denies Report.

While James S. Lawler, plumber, enics "Florence Leeds" is his denies "Florence Leeds" is his daughter, neighbors and friends condaughter, neighbors and friends con-firmed that there is no mistake in identity. Lawler and others of his tamily deny they ever had a daugh-ter named Florence or any other daughter who went on the stage.

Another legal maneuver in the di-vorce case will be staged in White Plains Wednesday, when arguments will be heard on the question of $10,000 a month alimony and counsel shows decreases in the number of persons employed and in the amount of the pay roll in all 14 industries of the pay roll in all 14 industries. torneys, secured an order for this when compared with February, 1920 earing from Judge Morschauser at The largest decreases in the number White Plains today.

They hope, too, to quiz Mr. Still-man about the stories of "Mrs.

Leeds" and others and particularly the Leeds baby.
The hearing Wednesday is the move that was "indefinitely post-poned," by agreement of both sides few days ago. Reports were heard then that an agreement to drop the divorce action had been reached, inspired by the publicity be-Today's developments is taken to mean there will be no settlement out of court and that Mrs. Stillman is going through to the finish with her "counter defense" to the charges of Mr. Stillman.

Woman Tries to End Life And Then Sets Fire to House

Stuart, Ia., March 19 .- (Special.) -After attempting to commit suicide by cutting her throat and wrist, Mrs. Charles Haskins set fire to her home and then walked to a doctor's office. She is in a critical condition but attending physicians say she will recover.

Recently Mr. Haskins applied for a divorce, but the suit was dismissed.

Ars. Haskins is believed to be mentally deranged. The house was completely destroyed,
