

June Graduate

Margaret Parish
GATHMELL HOME PORTRAIT

Easter brings a number of the school set home for the short holidays. Among the girls who have returned at this season is Miss Margaret Parish, daughter of Mrs. J. W.

Parish. Miss Parish is enrolled at Monticello seminary in Godfrey, Ill. She is a senior student at that institution and will be numbered among the attractive June graduates of 1921.

Rhubarb and Asparagus

By LORETTO C. LYNCH, An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Department.

Already the fresh asparagus and rhubarb are proclaiming spring in northern markets, and those whose food allowance permits a little luxurious spending at times should treat the family to a serving or two of these foods so rich in mineral elements.

As it comes to the market, asparagus is tied into bunches. Each stalk should be thoroughly scrubbed with a small brush. Suppose there are 20 stalks in the bunch you purchase. If you are serving four, tie five stalks together. Then tie the four small bunches together to look as the bunch did when you purchased it.

Stand the large bunch upright in a cook pot. Pour in enough boiling water to come half way up on the stalks. Cover the pot and cook about one hour, or until the steam has made the tips tender. Remove the asparagus and untie. Put one small bunch on each serving plate. A sauce may be passed.

The simplest sauce of all is melted butter. In the top of a double boiler put the butter. Allow one level tablespoonful of hard butter for each one to be served. When the butter is melted pour it into a little sauce boat.

Cream sauce is always a welcome accompaniment. To make enough for four or five servings, melt two level tablespoons of butter and add to it two level tablespoons of flour and half a level teaspoon of salt. Pour on this one-half pint of rich milk or thin cream. Cook, stirring until the sauce boils.

Hollandaise sauce is delicious, but too expensive for the average purse, since it calls for several eggs. But here is a mock Hollandaise, which while not quite so high in food value, is inexpensive and delicious. Mock Hollandaise. Sauce—Flour, one and one-half tablespoons; butter, one and one-half tablespoons; salt, one teaspoon; milk, one cup (one-half pint); egg, one; lemon juice, about one tablespoon.

Make like cream sauce and add the beaten egg just before taking it from the fire. Stir until it is well thickened. Add lemon juice just before serving, beating thoroughly to make it smooth.

From the water in which the asparagus was cooked a delicious cream of asparagus soup may be made. Reduce it to one-half by boiling and then combine with one cup of cream sauce.

Young shoots of rhubarb come into the northern market just when we are getting a bit tired of fruits of winter. While rhubarb, strictly speaking, is not a fruit, it is acid and is used like fruit in the diet. Scrub and cut into inch lengths. Barely cover it with boiling water and simmer until the pieces are tender and falling apart. When nearly done, add sugar to taste. Any fruit requires less sugar if the sugar is added toward the end of the cooking, as sugar loses some of its sweetness in cooking.

Nebraska to Have Place in League Convention

Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich, chairman of the Nebraska League of Women Voters, has been asked by the regional director, Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis, to have charge of the get-together dinner of the delegates from the Sixth region of states, the group which includes Nebraska, at the second annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, which meets in Cleveland, April 11 to 16.

This dinner will be one of a number of interesting social events which have been planned for the convention. There will be confer-

A Chicago Paper "Immortalizes" Omahans

"Courtroom crowded; curious visitors stare; Stephen confesses theft." This is the heading over a story written by Miss Edna Levine in "The Boys and Girls Post" section of "The Chicago Evening Post."

Miss Levine formerly lived in Omaha and was a member of the Woman's Press club here. Her work as a writer took her frequently into the juvenile court and it is from her impressions and experiences gained there she has written her little folk story for "The Post."

"Judge Truman," she writes in the story, "was really a kindhearted, round-faced man, whose curly gray hair added the necessary touch of judicial dignity to his rosy cheeks and twinkling eyes. He loved his work, loved the little fellows that were brought before him, and, in spite of many disappointments, had kept alive his faith in the spark of eternal good in each 'bad boy.'"

This description and even the name itself, suggest Judge A. C. Troup to all who know him. The Joslyn conservatory is also described in a later chapter of the story to the joy of those who know the place.

Mrs. Hayes Hears From Her Sister in China

Mrs. C. W. Hayes has received a letter from her sister, Miss Ruth Paxson, whose headquarters are at Shanghai, China, acknowledging money that was sent her. Mrs. Hayes early last fall for Chinese relief. Miss Paxson has been with the Y. W. C. A. organization but is at present working directly with the Chinese people in mission work, financing herself for the year. In two months she will leave for home, but will return again to China after a visit of several months in Omaha and other places in the United States. She has been in China nine years and speaks the language of north China fluently.

An enclosure from Miss Paxson, being a letter from Amy Ware, who is doing relief work in China, said in part:

"In scarcely any home is there anything that human beings as a rule call food, only such as they feed animals upon. They would live on straw, but that is a scarce commodity. Chaff, the shells of peanuts, husks or perimmons, leaves, barks of trees and a little kind of prickly thorny wild thing, make up their food. It is a common thing to see the dead carried away just wrapped in a straw mat, they cannot afford coffins. Even those ordinarily well-to-do are reduced to begging. I have been to village after village, gone into the homes, looked into the receptacles where the grain is usually kept, and found nothing."

Mrs. Hayes is assisting the China famine committee in the work here. Ward Burgess is chairman in Omaha, appointed by the government. Isaac Carpenter is vice chairman. The quota in Omaha is $50,000 and in the state $160,000.

ence dinners addressed by noted speakers for the first evening, and a large general banquet later in the week.

Representation at the league convention is on the basis of representation in congress. Nebraska is thus entitled to eight full delegates and as many alternates. Mrs. Dietrich hopes to have a delegate from every congressional district in the state. The railroads are offering special rates for those attending the convention. Tickets at the reduced fare are good until April 20.

The recent extension of the franchise in Sweden now gives that country more women voters than men.

An open book for the play; the masks of tragedy and comedy appended to a ribbon; bay leaves to the left and oak leaves to the right, symbolizing the players' crown of victory, make up the significant and artistic emblem which has been adopted for its own by the Omaha Drama League.

A committee, including Mrs. Samuel Burns and Mrs. Myron Learned, was appointed from the Drama League in January to investigate the matter of securing an emblem for the society. At their invitation George Frinz, prominent architect of the city, designed the accompanying figure, which he presented as a gift to the organization.
