

Argentine Gift Bacon Is Spoiled

Shipment of 600 Tons to Austria Too Badly Decomposed for Use Even in Soap.

Intended For U. S. Army

Buenos Aires, March 28.—The bad bacon which comprised a part of the 5,000,000-peso gift of foodstuffs and clothing from Argentina to Vienna, shipped on the steamer Bahia Blanca to Hamburg, originated in the United States, it is asserted in a dispatch to La Nacion from Hamburg.

The bacon totaled about 600 tons and the correspondent quotes the Shenger company, which the Austrian government placed in charge of the consignment of foodstuffs, as saying there was evidence that this bacon was originally intended for the United States army and that trade marks of North American firms were distinctly perceptible, although the decomposition was such it was impossible to read the lettering.

A representative of the firm, the dispatch continues, declared the Argentine government must have been the victim of deception when it purchased the bacon, which was in such a state of putrefaction that it would not be possible, he said, to use it even in the manufacture of soap, for which purpose the Austrian government had directed that it be sold.

The Austrian consul general at Hamburg has confirmed the reports of the bad condition of the bacon, according to the correspondent, who adds that he himself personally investigated the matter and found evidence of attempts to obliterate the labels and dates, but that the mark "New York" was easily distinguishable.

The revelations concerning the bad condition of portions of the food shipments are continuing the sensation of the hour in Argentina. Thus far the government officials have not been quoted in any comment on the subject, although it is understood a rigid investigation is in progress.

Search Continued For Balloonists

Dirigible Will Take Air to Make Thorough Hunt of Countries.

Pensacola, Fla., March 28.—Naval authorities here today entered on the fifth day of the search for trace of the naval balloon which has been missing since last Tuesday when it took the air here with five passengers. Although still working on the theory that the five men have been picked up by some fishing vessel, officials planned to continue the search unrelentingly.

In arranging to send the dirigible C-7 out for a thorough hunt today over Day and Holmes counties, naval officers were working on the theory that the balloon might have carried far enough to reach land there before descending if the men miscalculated the basket and climbed into the rigging. A steady shoreward wind, they believe, would have carried the bag clear of the gulf in that direction if the weight had been reduced.

Wife Kills Husband With Cleaver as Finish Of 17-Year Quarrel

Chicago, March 28.—For 17 years Mrs. Dora Waterman and her husband had been quarreling. Hardly a day in all that time, but there had been a fight. She finally ended it by killing him with a small kitchen cleaver. Their sons, Jacob, 17, and Russell, 10, witnessed the killing and say their mother had no other course.

Waterman was a painter. He drank freely and brought all his groceries and "hangovers" home and vented them upon his wife. She had endured the hope of holding the family together until her boys were old enough to shift for themselves.

At midnight he came home, and started a fight with her that lasted two hours. He was beating her and threatening to kill her, when she ran into the kitchen. The cleaver was at hand and she seized it and struck out wildly, splitting his skull.

Former French Premier Comes to Meet Harding

René Viviani Arrives in New York "On a Mission of Courtesy"—Goes to Washington Today.

New York, March 28.—Former Premier René Viviani, envoy extraordinary of France to this country, arrived today on the steamship Lorraine and will go to Washington tomorrow. He expects to confer with President Harding, to whom he came "on a mission of courtesy."

A small reception committee went down the bay to meet the visitor and brought him back to Battery Park, where thousands had assembled.

As M. Viviani, accompanied by Stéphane Lauzanne, editor of the Paris newspaper Le Matin, stepped on to the pier motion picture photographers surrounded them. M. Viviani doffed his hat and smiled obligingly.

He declined to discuss the official nature of his visit before having talked with President Harding. "I have come to the United States," he said, "to pay to the president the respects of the government and the nation of France. In saluting the first and great citizen of the American democracy, I salute also the great and noble people for whom France keeps her tender affection and eternal gratitude."

Plans had been made for Jules Jusserand, French ambassador, to meet M. Viviani but the ambassador was missed by the committee sent to the railroad station to meet him on his arrival from Washington.

M. Viviani will remain in Washington until Friday, when he will return here for a luncheon Saturday.

He will return to Washington Sunday, where he will spend most of his time until he returns home.

Passports Not Required by U.S.

Repeal of War Laws Included Travel Regulations—Aliens May Be Affected.

Copyright, 1921, King Features Syndicate. Washington, March 28.—Americans leaving or entering the United States and outgoing aliens are no longer required to have passports, under the act repealing the war laws approved March 3, though whether Congress in that act intentionally or otherwise repealed the law requiring passports of incoming aliens, is now before the Attorney general for determination.

Although not required under our laws to provide themselves with passports, Americans would find it possible without them to enter but few foreign countries, passports regulations being still in effect abroad, though France and England are showing a disposition to lift the bars imposed by the war. Passports are still necessary therefore, except in visiting countries which do not require them.

If the attorney general decides that the repeal act blots out passport control as applied to arriving immigrants, passports cannot be required of incoming aliens until congress passes a new law to meet the situation. Nothing would prevent a rush of foreigners to this country. The danger of the situation is mitigated, however, by a fact that a sufficient number of would-be immigrants with properly vised passports already are awaiting the transportation to fill steamers arriving for some time to come and the very one to be affected would be aliens whose passports showed irregularities, as in the case of those now under consideration.

Soviet Russia To Appeal Again For U. S. Trade

Rebuff Administered By State Department Will Not Prevent Further Overtures.

By The Associated Press. Helsinki, March 28.—Regardless of the rebuff administered by the State department at Washington in its recent communication on the subject, the Russian soviet government probably will continue its efforts for trade with America, Jan Antonovitch, Beltrist soviet minister to Finland, told The Associated Press.

"Other efforts undoubtedly will be made," he said, "most likely through American business concerns to which we are ready to grant concessions, while of course, soviet Russia is undoubtedly ready to make overtures at any time the American government sees fit to change its viewpoint toward us."

"But one thing is certain, despite all newspaper reports to the contrary, Russia will not give up communism and revert to the principle of private property."

We now have for the first time peace with our neighbors and have things well in hand at home. Our government is willing to become a capitalist concern itself, in order to maintain communism within its borders. As a government it will deal with foreign concerns, granting and guaranteeing concessions, but the results of these deals in produce necessary for our people will continue to be distributed communistically by our government."

M. Behrns said that soviet Russia had a certain amount of raw products including wool, ready to offer to America now, but that the principle in view in the trade offer was future concessions in Siberia and elsewhere, the minister pointing out that a vast territory in the Russian domain was still undeveloped.

Police at Bitterfeld Disarmed

Communists, There, Succeeded in Disarming Local Officers and Are Occupying Public Buildings.

Rioting In U. S. Area

By The Associated Press. Berlin, March 28.—The rioting activities in the communist uprising in central Germany are concentrating now on Bitterfeld, where the extremists have succeeded in disarming the local police and occupying the public buildings, according to an official communique issued shortly before midnight today. During Sunday, the statements said, bandits looted the bank and postoffice at Sangerhausen and put the local telegraph office out of commission.

A Halle dispatch today announced that Sangerhausen, southwest of Eisleben, had been occupied and put under control by federal forces.

Through trains which normally traverse the Halle section are being rerouted, owing to the sabotaging of the track and bridges by communists, who are continuing to spread terror westward from Halle, with the security police at their heels.

The extent to which a general strike movement is likely to develop as a sequel to the present outbreak could not be determined today, as the workers everywhere are taking their Easter holiday.

Troop reinforcements are constantly arriving at different points in the riot area and the government announces that it does not propose to enter into a truce, and that it will also demand the unconditional surrender of the arms and munitions held by the communists.

Riot in U. S. Area

Lower freight rates, tariff and revenue legislation, more liberal extension of credits, regulation of future grain exchanges, and extension of the co-operative and marketing associations are some matters which it was said will probably be considered.

The movement to get together was said to have "been spontaneous," although partly an aftermath of the firing of differences before the house banking and currency committee.

The American Farm Bureau federation has announced a meeting of its executive committee and one member from each state here beginning April 11, when a legislative program will be discussed. The National Farmers' union has called a meeting here for April 20. New York, March 28.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People made public telegrams to President Harding and Governor Dorsey of Georgia, which allege that the peonage system is generally existent in "most southern states and particularly in the Mississippi delta."

The message urged President Harding to authorize an investigation by the Department of Justice of peonage conditions in Jasper county, Georgia, where John Williams, a white land owner, has killed or caused to be killed 11 negroes who threatened to testify against Williams regarding peonage.

Communications Asking for Establishment of Diplomatic Relations Sent to U. S. Japan and China.

Washington, March 28.—No report has been received here concerning the arrest of John Williams, Jasper county farmer, charged with peonage and murder. Department of Justice officials said today, although agents of the department have been investigating alleged conditions in that section of Georgia for some time, in the matter of the murders, it was said, the state authorities have the case in hand, but fear was expressed that the deaths of the negroes would hamper peonage prosecutions by the federal authorities.

Rail Employes On Short Lines Lose Wage Case

Chicago, March 28.—The petition of 4,000 employes of 67 "short line" railroads for wages and working conditions identical with those on the trunk lines was dismissed by the railroad labor board. The case was heard last fall on the request of 15 unions.

Because of the diversified duties of the short line employes, the board declared it was "impracticable" to determine what reasonable rules shall be on the short lines" and without a uniform classification of work, the board declared it could not undertake to determine reasonable wages.

Diversified Duties and Press of Trunk Line Hearing Given As Reason for Dismissing Petition.

Originally 103 carriers, employing from 25 to 400 men each were parties to the dispute. Ten electric lines were dismissed and 25 others applied the wage scales of the trunk lines. Under the decision, employes and carriers may still negotiate their own agreements on wages or working conditions, but the decision stipulated that it should not be considered as affecting "any wage increase now in effect nor any agreement regarding wages between any carrier and its employes."

Income Tax Contests Are Decided

Four Victories Won by Government in Rulings By United States Supreme Court On Appeals.

Relate To Stock Sales

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Special Wire. Washington, March 28.—Four important victories were won by the government today in decisions by the United States supreme court in tax cases.

The case involved similar cases relating to the taxation as income of profits derived from the sale of corporate stocks, bonds and capital assets. The court held that profits of this kind are properly taxable as income under the 16th amendment to the constitution.

The principal case was that of the Merchants Loan and Trust company, Chicago, as trustee of the estate of Arthur Ryerson, against Julius Suetnikan, formerly collector of internal revenue for the First district of Illinois. This case involved profits from the sale of corporate stocks held in a trust fund.

The second case, that of the Eldorado Coal and Mining company, an Indiana corporation, against Harry W. Mager, collector of internal revenue of the First district of Illinois, involved profits made in the sale of the corporate stocks of the company.

The third case was that of David M. Goodrich against William H. Edwards, collector of internal revenue of the Second district of New York. This involved profits from the sale of corporation stock. Two separate transactions were involved in one of which a decision was given based on the decision in the Ryerson case, favorable to the government in the other of which it was held no tax could be levied where there had been no actual profit on the investment, even though there had been an appreciation in value from March 1, 1913, to the date of the first income tax law. In respect to this second transaction, the court merely held in accordance with the admission made recently by Solicitor General Frierson that an error had been made in attempting to impose a tax where an actual loss on the investment had taken place.

Favorable to Government. In the Ryerson, Eldorado and Goodrich cases, the decisions of the lower courts were favorable to the contention of the government.

The fourth case was one in which the lower court had decided in favor of the taxpayer. The case was that of James J. Walsh, collector of internal revenue in Connecticut against Fred K. Brewster. It involved three different transactions. The decision followed the principals laid down by the court in the Ryerson and Goodrich cases and in the Eisner stock dividend discussion of March, 1920.

Solicitor General Frierson in commenting upon the decisions said that the government's position had been completely upheld. He regarded the cases of an important nature inasmuch as adverse rulings would have meant refunds of millions of dollars of taxes.

The Ryerson case involved 1,000 shares of capital stock of an Illinois corporation which was held by the Merchants Loan and Trust company of Chicago as trustee of the estate of Arthur Ryerson. The stock was valued on March 1, 1913, at $561,000. It was sold on February 2, 1917, for $1,280,000, and the collector of internal revenue imposed a tax upon the profit amounting to about $700,000.

Will Keep Tax. In seeking to recover the tax paid upon this amount, the Merchants Loan and Trust company contended that the gain in four years of over $700,000 was not "income" within the intent of the 16th amendment to the constitution.

A second contention made by the plaintiff in the Ryerson case was that the word income as used in the 16th amendment and in the income tax act does not include gain from capital realized by a single isolated sale of property, but that only the profits realized from sales by one engagement of buying and holding as a business—a merchant, a real estate agent, or a broker—constitute income which may be taxed.

In the case of the Eldorado Coal and Mining company, the company in 1917 sold its interests and practically wound up its affairs. On the basis of the fair market value as of March 1, 1913, the sale of the capital assets resulted in a profit of about $6,000. The income tax assessment on this profit amounted to more than $3,000. The court held that the profits were properly taxed.

The case of David M. Goodrich against William H. Edwards, collector of internal revenue of the Second district of New York, involved profits from the sale of corporation stock. Two separate transactions were involved in one of which a decision was given based on the decision in the Ryerson case, favorable to the government in the other of which it was held no tax could be levied where there had been no actual profit on the investment, even though there had been an appreciation in value from March 1, 1913, to the date of the first income tax law. In respect to this second transaction, the court merely held in accordance with the admission made recently by Solicitor General Frierson that an error had been made in attempting to impose a tax where an actual loss on the investment had taken place.
