

Police Blast
Honeymoon of Omaha Dancer

Groom Held in Swindle of Film Men; Bride Weeps at Hotel as Hubby Jailed On Check Charges.

Up in her bridal suite at the Sanford hotel, a young wife is weeping. Down in the Central police station her romantic lover is champing at the bit.

At the Sanford hotel, where they were honeymooning, are two checks for $43.

At the Castle hotel, where they were wed three weeks ago, is a check for $52.13.

And at the Herzberg Toggery, Sixth and Douglas streets, is another check for $49.50.

All these checks were returned marked "no funds."

Thus ended the romance between the dark-complexioned, neat theatrical promoter and the vivacious Omaha dancing teacher.

Groom Is Arrested.

For the heart-broken bride, who now sits in her bridal suite refusing to even go to the police station to visit her lover, was before Cupid tied the knot, Miss Grace Abbott, dancing teacher, with studios in 403 Lyric building.

And the bridegroom—ah, the gentle lover with the snapping black eyes and the sleek, shiny black hair—he is known as E. Mack.

His returned checks were made out on a bank in Elizabethtown, N. J., and he represented himself as an agent and promoter for the Pugh-Neal Concession company of Topeka, Kan.

Mack was arrested Friday night by Private Detective E. L. McComber.

Movie Men In On It.

The detective alleges that Mack got returns from nearby every motion picture theater in Omaha, both downtown and suburban houses.

And contracts in his pockets indicate that he did.

These contracts indicate that Mack booked the Omaha motion picture theaters for all sorts of concessions from this Pugh-Neal company of Topeka.

And Detective McComber declares he has information to show that Mack swindled these same movie men out of thousands of dollars by these contracts.

Bride Refuses to Talk.

The detective has slight information concerning this man's whirlwind courtship with the Omaha dancing teacher.

But he has other important information, and that is that Mack is a former convict from San Quentin prison in California.

The weeping bride declined to discuss the bursting of her love bubble.

The bursting came with too great a surprise.

And the black-haired, black-eyed lover—his lips say nothing but those black orbs speak books.

Mack is held pending word from the Pugh-Neal company.

He will be arraigned early next week.

Green Motif, Even to Eats, Carried Out at Uni Freshies' Party

Green costumes, green decorations, green ice cream and green cake were a feature of the freshman party at the University of Omaha Friday night. Over 200 students heard George Campbell and Hugh Wallace of the Y. M. C. A. quartet sing, and saw the magic tricks of Floyd Brown, local magician.

As hero, heroine and villain, George Campbell acted out a "play with three actors and only one scene (scen)."

Har, Ohman, an Omaha boy, did a song and dance act. Latest "jazzy" hits from the music halls were "Ohman-rod" for the students.

Hugh Wallace as "Ole Olsen" impersonated a Swede and called attention to the funny side of school life.

Miss Charlotte Van Orden whistled a solo; Miss Gertrude Thiem, with her mother, Mrs. Charles R. Thiem, at the piano, played a violin solo; Floyd Brown as "Mirza, the Magician," gave a 20-minute entertainment.

Herbert Edce is president of the class of '24. David Robel is vice president, Mildred Sheppard is secretary and Mildred Parks is treasurer. David Robel and Kenneth Baker had charge of the program last night.

Advertising Manager Of Chicago American To Address Ad League

Leonard R. Brooks, advertising manager of the Chicago American, will address members of the Advertising-Selling league at the regular meeting and dinner in the Hotel Fontenelle Monday night. His subject will be "Advertising as a Business Regulator."

Mr. Brooks literally "grew up" in the newspaper world, having served in various capacities with the greatest publications in this country, and is recognized as a leading authority on newspaper advertising.

The twentieth century method of wire transmission, the automatic printer, will be demonstrated at the meeting in conjunction with a talk on "The Making of Time," by G. M. Horton, Omaha, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company. Telegrams will be transmitted across the dining room and—wives beware—three stunningly pretty girls will be present to see that the messages are handled efficiently.

Cooler Weather First Half Of This Week is Forecast

Washington, April 2.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday include:

Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys: Cooler Tuesday and Wednesday, normal temperature thereafter. Rains probably at beginning, followed by fair.

U.S. Court to Open April Term Monday

Majority of 300 Cases on Docket Are on Violations Of Volstead Act.

April term of federal court opens Monday.

The docket contains more than 300 cases, the majority violations of the Volstead act.

Criminal cases will be heard first, Judge J. W. Woodrough said.

Several interesting damage suits are on the docket to be heard.

The case of Charles G. Binderup of Kearney, Neb., former owner of a chain of motion picture theaters, against prominent film companies and the Omaha Film Board of Trade for $250,000 will be the first damage suit to be heard.

Litigation in federal court brought by the Union Pacific railroad in 1909 against the City of Omaha for damage resulting from the closing of a street at Thirtieth and Bancroft streets is also on the docket. The railroad is suing the city for $118,000. This case has run through three changes of municipal administration.

Woman Unable to Pay $2 Week Rent Increase Kills Self With Gas

Chicago, April 2.—The owner of the shabby room in a second floor flat at 1715 North Maplewood avenue probably does not care, but the additional $2 in rent demanded for the place brought about a tragedy that touches the hearts of the neighbors.

Three years ago Mrs. Emily Geiger, 50, a widow of a few months, with three children, came from a South Dakota farm to Chicago. The three little girls had to be fed and clothed and sent to school, so the mother rented the little room for $11 and sat to work at the druggery of the washin. Neighbors marveled at her courage, but somehow she managed to make both ends meet, although she deprived herself of sufficient clothing and food.

Then came the raise in rent. The additional $2 spelled ruin for her and, in endeavoring to take on more work, she fell ill. Yesterday, after she had sent the children back to school, she locked the doors and windows and turned on the gas. When the police broke down the door and found her body they also discovered a letter which had been pushed under the door. It contained a check for $50, rental for a tiny farm in Oklahoma which her husband had owned and of which she knew nothing.

A windmill has replaced a steam engine in the operation of an old chain bucket pump that raises 14,300 gallons of water an hour on the Isle of Man.
