New York, April 4.—No change in the financial market was visible at the beginning of the week. Money rates remained at last week's level, with 6 per cent touched again for call loans on the stock exchange. Sterling was slightly lower. Wall Street ascribed the moderate reaction to the British coal strike situation, but the decline was no greater than has occurred at frequent intervals since the recovery in rates began. Prices on the stock market hardly moved in the majority of issues. The familiar tactics were pursued, of converging sudden and heavy speculative sales and leavy speculative sales and leav
