In Sympathy With Purposes.

"In some respects," the statement reads, "it departs from my recommendations regarding revenue legislation during this session, but I am prompt to say that I am in perfect sympathy with the purposes of the committee in its undertaking-namely, the proper assessment of property for purposes of taxation, the equalzation of the tax burdens among the people, and the efficient and economi cal administration of the department bi government having to do with this

"Meanwhile, I do not hestitate to say that I deprecate the effort that s being made in some quarters to mislead the people regarding the contents and the purposes of Senate File No. 65. I am aware of the fac that certain powerful interests are attempting to destroy this measure y breaking down the public confidence in it before it has been giver a hearing, and I urge the people not to be alarmed about this meas-ure until they have become fully informed regarding it

Most Important Legislation.

"I consider this the most important bit of legislation considered at this session, and I know those who have had the matter in hand have worked untiringly and constantly in an hon-est desire to evolve a bill that would meet the requirements of just and equitable taxation.

'Many of them are men of large property interests themselves, and they would not think of imposing any inequity among the people who bear the principal tax burden. They are entitled to the confidence and respect of the people of the state and hose who are not informed should be most cautious in recommendations in this matter least they find all to late, that they had been placed in the attitude of "pulling the other fellow's chestnuts out of the fire."
